"I do declare, I'm on my way out, I gone and lost the title bout!"

NEW YORK (AP) — Machine-like Joe Frazier put on relentless pressure, knocked Muhammad Ali down in the 15th round and pounded out a unanimous 15-round decision to retain his world heavyweight championship Monday night.

It was all Ali could do to last the round as his remarkable comeback bid ended and Frazier gained universal recognition as the world's premier fighter.

Ali, going down to the first defeat of his professional career, had come back to take the 14th round with a flurry of head punches and charged out in the 15th with a bid to end it.

Then suddenly Frazier's hook flashed and the sellout Madison Square Garden crowd of more than 19,500 on hand for the world-wide televised fight went into a frenzy.

Ali got up at four and took referee Arthur Mercante's mandatory eight count. Frazier landed several solid body and head punches as Ali reeled around the ring until the bell ended the fight.

There was little doubt who the winner was.

Ali was taken to hospital and one of his handlers, Bundini Brown, said the fighter had a broken jaw. A hospital spokesman said Ali's jaw was X-rayed and he immediately left the hospital.

The spokesman declined to say specifically if Ali's jaw was broken but another hospital source said Ali had only suffered a "massive hematoma" or bruise.

Ali returned to his room at the New Yorker hotel and was reported sleeping early Tuesday morning.

2,062 View Fight At Arena Here

What is believed to be the largest-ever boxing gate in Victoria resulted Monday night when 2,062 paid $10 each at Memorial Arena to watch the closed-circuit television presentation of the Frazier-Ali fight.

For their money they got a clear picture and loud but reasonably clear sound of the hectic action. Reaction indicated that support for the fighters was about even and satisfaction was general. (See story, Page 14)

NDP Hails Victory In Land-Guard Bill

Colonist Legislature Reporter

The provincial government bowed Monday to three years of opposition demands in the Legislature that the public rather than land speculators should benefit from developments along new public highways in B.C.

The move came with the introduction of a bill giving the department of highways authority to expropriate "for the purpose of protecting and controlling the use of any land adjacent to the right-of-way of any proposed, new or relocated highway."

The legislation, in the form of a short amendment to the Department of Highways Act., also provides the authority for such lands to be disposed of by public auction or leased to private users for any purpose.

Highways Minister Wesley Black who brought in the bill which was immediately given first reading in the House Monday later called it "gutsy" and said it left no doubt the government would take the necessary action to protect the public interest.

"We think this is the right thing to do . . . and we think it will be welcomed by the public," Black said in an interview.

But Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East), the man who started it all three sessions ago with his charges that "roadrunners" were making huge speculative profits on land adjacent to provincial highways, said in an interview Monday he still has reservations.

"The bill gives the government the power to do what we're asking," Macdonald said. "But whether they do it or not is another matter. It's a pity, too, that it is restricted to new or newly-relocated highways because the money-making developments already exist along our highways, and by limiting (application of the bill) we're not tackling the problem of land speculators who got in on the ground floor."

Innocent or Nefarious?

Taxing Ceiling 'Protects Roadrunners'

Opposition MLAs demanded the government withdraw its legislation designed to limit assessment increases to 10 per cent in a single year on grounds it was going to help land speculators.

Liberal leader Pat McGeer read the House a letter from an unidentified provincial assessor in which the writer said "assessors know the main purpose of this bill is to keep taxes down for promoters who are wheeling and dealing in real estate."

Quoting from another letter sent Feb. 5 to all assessors in the province by Jack Moore, the provincial surveyor of taxes, the Liberal leader charged these men who know most about the subject are being gagged.

The letter said before accepting public speaking engagements "in light of the considerable potential for embarrassment and misunderstanding" arising from the 10 per cent ceiling proposal, all assessors must first obtain approval in writing from the government.

McGeer said the bill might, as the government claimed, be "innocent" but noting "those who know best think

Price Tag $10,887.97 For Centennial Song

The B.C. Centennial song, Go British Columbia, cost the province's taxpayers $10,887.97, the Legislature learned Monday.

In answer to written questions, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said that was the amount of money paid to Gimby Productions Limited for the song, released Nov. 9 last year. Go British Columbia was written by Bobby Gimby.

Turkish Leftists Free Airmen

ANKARA (AP) — Four United States airmen were freed unharmed Monday night after nearly six days in the hands of leftist kidnappers.

The airmen walked into their billets here just before midnight.

The kidnappers, members of the Turkish People's Liberation Army, had demanded $400,000 ransom, threatening to put the Americans in front of a firing squad if it was not paid by last Saturday morning.

U.S. Ambassador William Handley issued a statement on the release, saying: "I am happy that reason has prevailed and that a senseless tragedy has been averted. I am sure that people everywhere share the joy of the families of the four airmen at their safe return."

They are S. Sgt. Jimmie Sexton of San Angelo, Tex., and Airmen Larry Heavner of Denver, Colo.; Richard Caraszi of Stamford, Conn., and James Gholson of Alexandria, Va.

State department officials in Washington had ruled out payment of ransom. Informants said they felt yielding to ransom demands would encourage other kidnappings.

Trudeaus Arrive In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and his 22-year-old bride arrived in Ottawa Monday night to be cheered by several hundred people at the airport terminal.

The prime minister and Mrs. Trudeau flew from Vancouver, where they were married Thursday.

"I'd like you to meet my girl friend," he said to Works Minister Arthur Laing, who had been acting prime minister. Mrs. Trudeau, wearing a multi-colored coat and a fur hat, kissed Laing and then she was told by Barnett Danson, Trudeau's parliamentary secretary, that "you even made the opposition happy."

Hijack Suspect Taken to U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chapin Scott Paterson, accused of hijacking a Western Airlines plane to Vancouver Feb. 25, Monday night was turned over to FBI agents at the Canada-United States border in Blaine, Wash.

Paterson, 19, of Shingle Springs, Calif., was taken into custody by U.S. officials a little more than an hour after an immigration department deportation order was upheld by the British Columbia Supreme Court in Vancouver.

He was driven to the border by Canadian immigration authorities.

Paterson was ordered deported last Tuesday after he was accused of hijacking a Boeing 737 to Vancouver during a flight from San Francisco to Seattle.

Action was held up pending Mr. Justice Victor Dryer's decision on an application to have the youth released from custody.

In dismissing lawyer Tom Berger's application for a writ of habeas corpus, Dryer said in his decision he could find no breach of the Canadian Bill of Rights and "no failure to comply with the essentials of justice" in the case.

Chapin's lawyers had argued the deportation order was invalid because it was "made in violation of the Canadian Bill of Rights and Common Law." Berger claimed Chapin had been denied counsel at the immigration hearing because his lawyers were delayed by snow.

L. C. Hawkins, B.C. regional immigration department director, issued an order to have Paterson handed over to U.S. authorities at the border immediately following the decision.

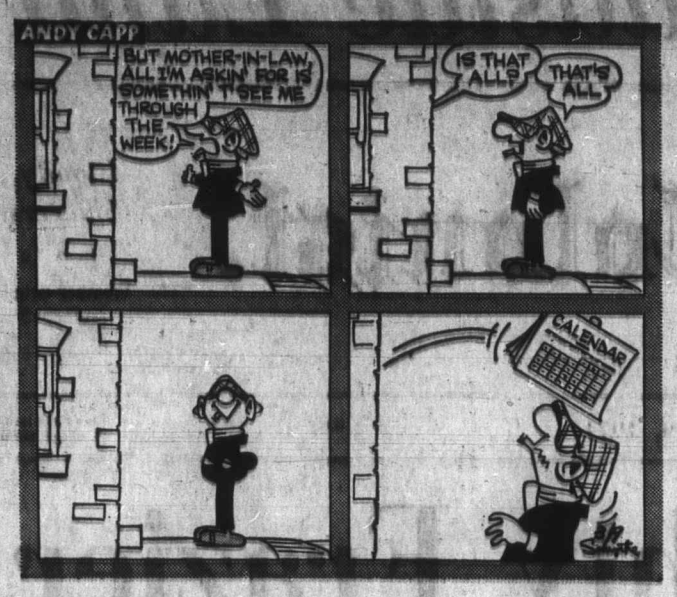

Berger, when told the youth was already in the hands of immigration authorities and on his way to the border, said nothing further could be done here but that an "expert lawyer" had been arranged for him in the U.S.

In Seattle, the FBI said Paterson was to be arraigned in Bellingham, on a charge of air piracy.

Rioting Draws More Troops

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The British government announced Monday it is sending another 450 soldiers into Northern Ireland in an effort to stem continued rioting which has claimed at least 14 lives since Feb. 5.

unbeaten heavyweight king Frazier, eight rounds to six with one even. Artie Aidala voted for Frazier 9-6 and Bill Recht had the winner in front 11-4.

The Associated Press had Frazier the winner 9-5-1.

Frazier's great exhibition of endurance and his pressure punching display was the high point of an unbeaten 27-fight pro career which until this fight had always been overshadowed by the controversial Ali.

For Ali defeat foiled his bid to become the second man in history — Floyd Patterson was the only one — to win back the heavy-weight championship.

Ali however, had maintained he still was champion.

Ali lost the crown outside the ring when he was stripped of it because of his conviction for refusing induction into the army.

Ali fought in the courts for his right to fight again and after a 3½-year exile, he came back to beat Jerry Quarry and Oscar Bonavena and earn the shot at Frazier.

"Kill the body and the head dies," Frazier had said before the fight and it was this plan he followed in handling Ali his first loss after 31 pro victories.

Frazier suffered a bloody nose and was badly swollen about both eyes but he kept coming, slamming his shots to the body and firing to the head more often than is his custom.

The constant pressure paid off for Frazier who won recognition from five states as heavyweight king by knocking out Buster Mathis in 11 rounds in 1968. He won universal recognition from boxing's governing bodies by stopping Jimmy Ellis in five rounds in February, 1970.

But he needed to beat Ali, also known as Cassius Clay, to attain full recognition from the public.

He did it in decisive fashion.

If the pattern of attack followed by the two fighters was what most observers expected, one thing that happened was not expected.

It was Frazier who showed the most confidence, to the point that he openly taunted Ali by dropping his hands to his sides and laughing at the deposed champ in the fifth round.

Frazier made no effort to win the round.

Although the 27-year-old Frazier, who weighed 205½ pounds and the 29-year-old Ali, at 215, were showing signs of weariness, the fight was close after nine rounds as Ali used his superior reach to spear the ever-incoming Frazier.

Then in the 10th round the fight, in which each fighter was guaranteed $2.5 million and promoters hoped would bring a $20 million to $30 million gross, began to change.

Frazier won the 10th by a narrow margin but then almost scored the 24th knockout of his career in the 11th. He hurt Ali with a smashing left hook to the head, drove him to the ropes with two more lefts and a right to the body and had him staggering around the ring.

Ali was clearly in trouble as he tottered to his corner at the end of the round and the celebrity-laden throng that paid an indoor live record boxing gate of $1.25 million went wild.

Frazier kept up the pressure in the 12th and 13th rounds as Ali's trainer, Angelo Dundee, and his alter-ego, Bundidi Brown, pleaded with him to take charge.

He did in the 14th round.

But then came the 15th round, the round which told the story of the fight which ended one of the most incredible comeback attempts in sports history.

In Frazier's command performance over the final six rounds, Mercante had it 4-1-1, Recht 5-1 and Aidala 4-2 all in his favor. The AP gave him five of the last six, with Ali getting the 14th.

Frazier was a slight 6-5 The crowd seemed equally divided, with both fighters getting good ovations on the entrance into the ring for the bout that was seen by an estimated worldwide audience of 300 million in 36 countries.

It was seen on closed-circuit television in 370 locations in the United States and Canada and 33 locations in Great Britain.

Frazier turned pro in 1965 after he had won the Olympic heavyweight title in Tokyo the year before. He was the only Olympic heavyweight champion to win a world pro heavyweight title.

Frazier, who went into the Ali fight with 23 knockouts in 26 victories, opened his pro career with 11 straight knockouts.

He had his knockout string snapped by Oscar Bonavena on Sept. 21, 1966. Bonavena not only made Frazier go 10 rounds to earn a decision, he almost handed him his first defeat by flooring the future champion twice in the second round.

He hasn't been on the floor since.

Ali turned pro in 1960 after coming back from the Rome Olympics as light-heavyweight champ. He became an instant and colorful success and gained the heavyweight championship by stopping Sonny Liston in seven rounds in 1964.

After the Liston fight he disclosed he was a member of the Black Muslims and did not want to be known as Cassius Clay but as Muhammad Ali.

Ali, who scored 25 knockouts, had only been on the floor twice before Frazier smashed him down.

lative activities of then highways minister Phil Gaglardi's two sons, said the NDP would press for broader powers in the proposed legislation to cover existing highways as well.

At the end of the 1968 session, Gaglardi resigned from the highways portfolio and Premier Bennett took over briefly, promising a new policy of public land development at key highway locations would be instituted. Shortly afterwards Black was given the highways job and the NDP has since repeatedly claimed that nothing was done to implement the premier's promise.

Bob Williams (NDP—Vancouver East) this session continued the attack on what he called "the few favored friends of this government" who make fortunes in land speculation along public highways by naming the premier's two sons among "rip-off artists and millionaires on the make" in the Central Okanagan.

The NDP member recalled outside the House Monday that three years ago he had hailed the premier's promise of action as a victory for the opposition. Now, Williams added, the proposed legislation giving the government power to control land speculation at key new highway locations appears to be "a genuine victory for the people of B.C."

Because it doesn't require the government to expropriate land adjacent to even new highways, simply giving it power to do so, Williams said, "it might be just a smokescreen" but added he was confident the present minister meant to do his best.

"I look forward to an aggressive program (public land acquisition at key highway locations) to make up for this government's unhappy past record in this respect," Williams said. "Highways throughout this province are creating immense new land values and the public should be getting the benefit of them."

'Roadrunner Protected'

there might be a nefarious scheme afoot" he called on the government to withdraw the legislation and allow the House committee on municipal matters to call assessors to testify.

Alex Macdonald (NDP Vancouver East) said those who stand to benefit most from the 10 per cent ceiling on assessments are land speculators and said the bill should be called "the roadrunner protection act."

"True and fair assessments we'll support," Macdonald said. "But not special privileges to that small group, mainly friends of this government, who bought land cheap at Cache Creek, Blue River and McBride and other places and are holding it to be sold very dear. If they are to reap a bonanaza from speculation they should at least pay fair taxes now."

James Lorimer (NDP Burnaby Willingdon) called the bill "Robin Hood legislation in reverse" because he claimed it takes from the poor to give to the wealthy and is "helping out the fat cats of the province at the expense of the small homeowner."

David Brousson (L—North Vancouver-Capilano) said he agreed it was primarily the land speculators who would gain from passage of the legislation. He called on the government to assess all property according to "true market value" and publish the figures to prove equalization.

Premier Bennett said the main purpose of the bill is to protect the average homeowner from an increase of more than 10 per cent in assessments in any one year in which he makes no improvements to his property.

Bennett added the assessment commissioner has the right to override the 10 per cent ceiling in any cases where he thinks such a move is justified. And he added the ceiling doesn't come into play in cases where property has been rezoned or where improvements or new construction have been carried out.

Debate on second reading of the assessment bill was adjourned until later in the session at the request of Robert Strachan (NDP—Cowichan-Malahat).

Both the NDP and the Liberals supported the government's action in proposing legislation to let in unorganized territory lands on which back taxes are owing revert to the crown provincial instead of being sold by public auction.

Bennett said the government has been concerned that some of the lands previously disposed of had not been handled "in the best interests of B.C." He was apparently referring to a national magazine exposure about Americans who buy tax sale lands in the province.

Allan Williams (L—West Vancouver-Howe Sound) said lands which revert to the crown should be disposed only by leasing.

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) suggested the application of "the homeowner grant principle" to property taxation with foreigners paying a higher rate than residents. The bill received unanimous approval in principle.

Seattle Hearing Seeks Skagit Dam Approval

SEATTLE (CP) — The Washington State Ecological Commission opens its hearings here next Tuesday on Seattle City Light's proposed High Ross Dam Project.

The commission is an advisory board to the state department of ecology, which will use information the commission gathers to decide on its position at federal power commission hearings later.

The department of ecology says Seattle City Light must gain its approval before it can go ahead with the plan to raise the dam 122.5 feet., flooding nine miles of the Skagit Valley in British Columbia.

Morris Tops Cycle Trial

Tom Morris of the Victoria Wheelers won the 15-mile time trial for the Brock Whitney Cup by covering the distance in 37.40 minutes.

Karl Fawthorpe of the Wheelers was second in 38.31 minutes and Frank Ludtke of Vancouver was third in 39.13 minutes.

Cohettes of the Juan de Fuca Swimming Club took 18 awards, 10 in the open competition and eight in the closed events, in the annual Vancouver Island synchronized swimming championships held at the "Y" pool over the weekend. Port Alberni won four open and two closed awards.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Neck Traction Helps

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know just what "neck traction" is for arthritic changes in bones of the neck and back. — Mrs. F.H.

Not all arthritis is of a serious nature. Virtually all of us, by the time we reach the mature years, have some arthritic changes.

Merely having such changes doesn't mean that we necessarily have any pain, or difficulty in walking or in the use of arms and hands.

However, sometimes changes that otherwise wouldn't be of much consequence can cause secondary troubles. Bones of the joints tend gradually to flatten a bit, besides developing a sort of flange or outgrowth at the outer rims of the bones.

When — as is quite common — this occurs in the bones of the spine, sometimes these "spurs" begin to put some pressure on the nerves which radiate from the spine.

That is often the explanation of complaints such as, "My arms and hands 'go to sleep' at night, but they lose the numbness after I get up." When such people go to bed, it changes the position of the bones, so pressure develops.

Anyway, in certain cases, perhaps painful, perhaps annoying in other ways, the trouble can be alleviated by drawing the bones of the spine apart slightly. And I mean slightly! Just enough to relieve pressure on some set of nerves or other.

And that is done by "neck traction." Often this is a rather simple procedure, with a pulley contrivance that can be hitched to the top of a doorway. Then a chin strap or similar harness is attached to one's head. This in turn is attached to a weight, from 5 to 10 pounds, which exerts an upward pull at the head. The real purpose is to draw the bones of the spine just a tiny bit apart, as well as stretch tense muscles.

There are all sorts of varieties of this technique, depending on the individual case, but that's the principle. Traction is fairly prevalently used, and perhaps should be used more often than it is. It will often provide relief for a long period of time.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Vison Preston was sentenced to six years for armed robbery, for stealing a nickel at knifepoint from a fellow pupil in a school restroom.

Show of Chinese Support

Chou Visits Vietnam

HONG KONG (UPI) — Premier Chou En-Lai and two top Chinese military leaders paid a surprise visit to North Vietnam last weekend, it was disclosed Monday.

Analysts said the mysterious mission could signal a communist escalation of the stakes in the Indochina war.

First diplomatic assessments of the Chou visit from sources in London said North Vietnam is in trouble and wants China to help.

The London view, reported by UPI diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler, was underscored by analysts in this listening post on the fringes of China who said the visit to Hanoi was probably designed to demonstrate China's determination to maintain strong support for communist forces in Indochina in the face of the U.S.-supported offensive by South Vietnamese troops in Laos.

Peking has promised full support to Indochinese communists fighting "U.S. aggressors" but has never spelled out details and has stopped short of promising Chinese ground troops.

But the memory of the Chinese offensive in Korea in the 1950s has caused some concern in U.S. quarters.

The Chou visit took on added significance in light of the statement by President Nguyen Van Thieu in Saigon last week that South Vietnam would act to defend itself by staging an offensive against North Vietnam if Hanoi did not stop the war in South Vietnam and withdraw its troops.

Arabs Called To War

From AP

Syria's strongman, Lt.-Gen. Hafez Assad, called on the Arab world on Monday to mobilize for a "war of liberation" against Israel.

Hours after he issued the call, Israeli sources in Tiberias said a volley of rockets fired from Jordan struck an Israeli settlement in the Beisan Valley, shattering a four-month halt to the shooting across the Jordan River.

But the sources added that the rockets apparently were fired by Palestinian Arab guerrillas. No casualties were reported.

The Israeli-Egyptian and other fronts were reported quiet.

Hafez addressed a mass rally in Damascus as guerrilla leaders and Arab newspapers throughout the Middle East expressed jubilation over Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's decision not to extend formally the ceasefire with Israel. It expired at midnight Sunday night.

"The only way left open for the Arabs to recover their occupied land is that of armed combat," Assad told cheering thousands in the Syrian capital.

"With unlimited political, military and economic backing from the United States, Israel is seeking to dictate surrender on the Arab countries under the pretext of peace."

Rogers on Laos:

No Reason For 'Haven'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William Rogers said Monday there was "no reason why the South Vietnamese, as strong as they are, should be under any restrictions militarily."

Addressing a conference of the veterans of foreign wars, Rogers said: "If you conduct a war in which the only action you can take is defensive then you . . . are at the mercy of the enemy."

Rogers made the statements while defending the South Vietnamese operation, with heavy U.S. air support, in Laos. He did not make specific mention of suggestions by South Vietnamese leaders recently that they might feel impelled to move against Communist buildup areas in North Vietnam.

Rogers said "there was no reason — legally or morally — why they (North Vietnamese) should have safe haven" inside Laos.

Britain Hears Posties' Ring

LONDON (UPI) — The postman rang in Britain Monday. He delivered Christmas card — 1970 edition — to one Briton. Another got an invitation to a movie last Jan. 21. Still another was told he could catch a lecture last Jan. 31, if he hurried.

Thus began the withdrawal symptoms of Britain's 47-day postal strike.

It ended in fact Sunday, when some 210,000 postal workers voted to end their walkout and to place their pay demands in the hands of a public inquiry.

But it will take days and perhaps weeks to get the postal system back to normal. Postal workers waded into the backlog of 11 million letters and parcels jamming mailboxes and offices.

Still other millions of postal items were stranded abroad — held by countries waiting until the post office (offering a 9 per cent wage increase) and the Postal Workers' Union (demanding a 13 per cent hike) could resolve their differences.

An embargo on mail to Great Britain has been partially lifted, Ken Stofer, information officer of the Victoria post office said Monday.

The post office will now accept air mail letters and parcels to Great Britain, but the embargo will remain in effect with regard to surface mail until further notice, Stofer said.

'Brothers in Law' Create Rare Dohms-Day in Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — Brothers Dennis, Patrick and Thomas Dohm will meet next week in a court appearance to assist the widows of three railwaymen presumed killed when part of a CNR freight train plunged into the Fraser Canyon Feb. 15.

Patrick has been retained by the CNR to act for the three widows in an application for a court order presuming the deaths of Donald Barry, Victor Penner and Donald Dougan, all of Kamloops, so that life insurance policies can be paid.

The application will be filed in Kamloops by Patrick Dohm and will be heard next week in Kelowna, where Mr. Justice Dohm is sitting.

Statement Describes Laporte's Strangling

MONTREAL (CP) — A statement read in court Monday, attributed by police to Paul Rose, said Quebec labor minister Pierre Laporte was "executed" last Oct. 17 by Rose, his brother Jacques Rose and Francis Simard.

"All three of us were present when Mr. Laporte was executed," the statement said. "Two of us held him while the other tightened the chain he wore around his neck."

The statement was read in Court of Queen's Bench at the non-capital murder trial of Paul Rose, 27, one of four men accused of abducting Laporte Oct. 10 and strangling him a week later.

The other three accused — Jacques Rose, 23, Simard, 23, and Bernard Lortie, 19 — are to stand trial next month.

Constable Jean-Claude Boisland and QPP Sgt. Marcel Ste. Marie testified that Rose made the statement in their presence Dec. 29, the day after he was arrested.

Bus Driver Sent to Jail

PENTICTON (CP) — A 62-year-old school bus driver, Melvin John Chappell, who pleaded guilty earlier to operating a school bus while he was impaired, was sentenced Monday to 14 days in jail and prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for three years.

He admitted driving his bus — with 26 children aboard — with a blood-alcohol content of .25 per cent.

A modest price doesn't have to mean a modest car. In Skylark's case it doesn't. Here are the reasons why. Reasons you can believe in.

Trued tires.
Buick builds a better car from the road up. So every tire on every Skylark is trued for roundness. The result, an even smoother Buick ride. Only Buick takes that kind of care.

Semi-closed cooling system.
Skylark is the only car in its class that has a cooling system that should never overheat.

Traditional Buick quality.
Skylark's a Buick, so it gives you the kind of quality Buicks are famous for. Quality you can't see, like inner-fender construction, flush-and-dry rocker panels and a paint finish that goes six coats deep to help resist rust. GM's complete safety package that includes a rugged steel beam in every door and a steel barrier between rear seat passengers and trunk cargo. Order power disc brakes and a unique proportioning valve helps assure quick, smooth, straight-line stops.

And there's Buick quality that's immediately recognizable. Interiors that combine style, function and durability as only Buick can. Full-glass styling that looks great and gives you a better view of the road. A radio antenna that's concealed in the windshield. And more. Ask your Buick dealer.

Time for Prevention

MAYOR COURTNEY HADDOCK sees no reason to worry about Victoria being afflicted with the urban problems which a newly released federal study says will become intractable in the big cities of Canada if effective policies are not soon introduced. Victoria, Mayor Haddock says, is not drifting toward the danger point as other North American cities are. In terms of two or three decades he is probably right.

Certainly Victoria is nowhere near the brink of the distress the report foresees outclimbing economic benefits if the expansion of the major metropolitan areas is unconstrained. This, the report says, will be the cost of such growth:

"Land will continue to become so costly as to preclude all but extremely dense development within reasonable distance from the core.

"Families with children seeking single-family homes will have to commute for several hours per day.

"Downtown areas will be congested, polluted and noisy.

"The drain on public funds to service the increasingly sprawled suburban areas and the increasingly intractable problems of the core will lead to higher taxes and yet higher land costs.

"Industries will flee to the suburbs leaving the poor without access to jobs, and the inner city without a tax base.

"Skilled workers will move increasingly to the suburbs with the jobs, reducing the quality of resident leadership in the core.

"The growing number of firms necessarily located in the core will require white-collar, technologically sophisticated service employees. Their space needs will squeeze the urban poor even further.

"The need to transport service workers to the core will add to the pressure on core space.

"The steady erosion of stable neighborhoods, the growing economic uncertainty facing core dwellers, and the deteriorating quality of their environment will create an increasingly explosive situation.

"The increased segregation of economic classes in the city because of land costs will serve to fragment the community at a time when divisiveness is of great concern to the nation."

Some of these threats are clear and imminent on British Columbia's lower mainland, as they are in what is referred to as the "Toronto-Montreal corridor." In metropolitan Victoria, they are far over the horizon. Furthermore, Victoria city is given credit by inference in the report for having some goals, while in general "rarely are the (civic) goals clearly articulated."

But it is Victoria's further good fortune that attacks on the problems in the big cities, if they are started soon in accord with well-defined policies, should show the way to avoidance of similar troubles in the smaller but growing centres. And if curing metropolitan ailments requires combined action among governments—without parochialism—so does prevention.

A Different Evening Out

WHY NOT ALLOW establishment of ethnic pubs in British Columbia? The New Democratic Party member of the legislature for Vancouver East is urging the government to consider licensing of such liquor outlets. They would help support some of our cultural heritage, he says.

Alex Macdonald is expanding on one of many recommendations made two years ago by the Royal Commission on Liquor Traffic, headed by Judge Charles W. Morrow, in seeking extension of the liquor laws in this direction.

The commission favored English-style neighborhood pubs, and Mr. Macdonald says he would like to see all types including German beer gardens and Italian wine cellars.

The plan has many points in its favor. In addition to the Vancouver East member's cultural argument is the less commercial atmosphere that small public houses should provide those who seek relaxation with a glass or two in pleasant surroundings.

Today's British Columbia beer parlors, despite a limited lifting of food and music restrictions of a few years ago, still give a feeling of frenzy through their size and sales techniques. They are cold, impersonal places for the most part. Many have been unable to hide a desire for open spigots and busy glasses at all times. They are in business to sell as much beer as possible, of course, but more subtleness in their way of operation would add to their attraction.

The small, neighborhood facility with cheap overhead and less need for large turnover, might well provide something entirely new for an evening out. They might have the games that English pubs allow, and others; and perhaps there could be entertainment of a community nature as well as food of different nations.

So that the stress is not on drink, the new pubs could be called "community or village clubs" as the Morrow commission report suggests.

Care would have to be taken in the granting of licences, and the views of the immediate area studied. Perhaps they might be introduced in small numbers on an experimental basis, and if experience shows them to be desireable community outlets, then more might be considered.

It is understandable that existing beer parlors, with large investments, again would oppose the concept of the "community club" as they did when the royal commission report first was issued. But is it not time that the wishes of the consumer be considered?

Rent-a-Satellite

Pollution Monitoring Service Offered

By EDWARD NEILAN, Copley News Service

THE United States will be the first nation to offer rent-a-satellite-service for monitoring of pollution.

A modification of the spy-in-the-sky satellites used to spot military installations in Communist China and North Vietnam will be launched next year by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

* * *

Instead of snooping for military secrets, the satellite will collect and transmit data on water and air pollution.

The United States intends to lease time on the satellite to any nation that asks—and pays—for it.

Although the first satellite will cover only North and South America, NASA says it stands ready to launch the four or five additional satellites that would be required for a complete global pollution watch.

The program is called earth resources technology satellite. It has been under development for a number of years.

In 1969, President Nixon told the United Nations General Assembly that the United States would share data from the program and welcomed more international cooperation in such space endeavors.

Nations interested in receiving the information would not actually be renting the satellite, but would be sharing its services, much as in computer time-sharing.

All or part of the data on each country surveyed by the satellite would be available to clients. So far, 43 countries—including Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Indian and several Latin American nations—have signed up for all or part of the service.

Rep. Joseph E. Karth (D—Minn.), chairman of the unmanned space program subcommittee of the House Committee on Science and Aeronautics, said that so far no agreement on such information services had been signed with the Soviet Union or any other communist country.

Karth, who revealed latest details of the satellite pollution monitoring service at a recent international conference, said there is some possibility of the information being used for military intelligence purposes.

* * *

Photographs containing some of the information to be gathered by the satellite are already available from high-altitude aircraft and from the Apollo space flights, Karth said. Some of these photographs have enabled experts to make rapid diagnosis of forest blight.

Karth said aerial photography limitations were such that it would take a thousand planes flying around-the-clock schedules to match the area surveyed by the satellite.

The satellite will orbit the earth once every 99 minutes and will permit numerous observations of, for example, the Mississippi River system at approximately the same hours every day. This will help determine the incidence of pollution and other factors threatening the environment.

* * *

The satellite will employ a half-dozen sensors, which will provide the equivalent of black and white photographs, color photographs and infra-red shots needed to pierce the cloud cover. The sensors are expected to provide more complete data than the photographs taken by existing satellites.

Instead of televising the photographs back to earth as at present, computers in the new satellite will extract information collected each 24 hours for relay to computers on the ground.

* * *

Experts will, in effect, reconstruct the images reported from space and then describe the findings in non-technical language to client countries.

Experts believe the methods will be useful in constant monitoring of the polar ice caps which would allow accurate predictions of the spring runoffs and identify potential flood areas.

The first pollution-monitoring satellite will become obsolete in about a year. Karth said the expectation is that technology will continue to provide more and more satellites to replace outdated ones.

Bumbershoot Revolt

From the Portland Oregonian

Now that more variety in color is being seen in men's shirts and ties, more shades in suits and slacks, we propose that the trend be extended to include variations of the big, black male-type umbrella. If other-colored men's umbrellas are on the market, they don't show up on the streets.

Beige, light green or grey would be easier to see on overcast days and nights, contributing to the safety of the bearer. Lighter colors brighten spirits in gloomy weather and reduce accidents, too.

Down with the big black bumbershoots.

CLC and the Left-Wing Myths

By LUBOR J. ZINK, Toronto Telegram News Service

AS in previous years, the 1971 memorandum to the federal government by the Canadian Labor Congress contains a section on international affairs. And as usual, it is a straight echo of the NDP version of left-wing myths.

The basic article of faith of this mythology decrees that any government anywhere in the world which takes a resolute stand against all shades of Marxism is, by definition, reactionary, corrupt, immoral,, illegal, and should therefore be condemned, ostracized and hounded to death.

* * *

The rational behind this line goes like this: Since Hitler, the epitome of fascism, was the arch-anti-communist, any anti-communist regime is, without a doubt, inherently fascist. And no decent human being can tolerate fascism. Conversely, no communist regime can be all bad because the Soviet regime fought Hitler's fascism side by side with the western democracies. We, therefore, have nothing to fear from the Marxist-ruled countries and should seek better relations with them.

In accordance with this wide-spread mythology, the CLC memorandum berates the federal government for doing business with the implacably anti-Marxist government of the Republic of South Africa, for not demanding expulsion of Greece and Portugal from NATO, and for not pulling out of the NORAD defence arrangement with the United States.

At the same time, the government is lauded for recognition of the Peking regime — a step the CLC has been advocating for many years together with all the other "progressive" forces.

As a token of its alleged impartiality and objectivity, the CLC brief regrets the current persecution of Jews in the Soviet Union and urges our government "to appeal to the government of the Soviet Union to end the anti-Jewish campaign immediately" and "to allow Soviet Jews and other cultural and religious minorities the same cultural and religious rights available to other Soviet nationalities."

* * *

The blindness displayed by the CLC's comments on international affairs is beyond belief and comprehension. Could it be that the spokesman for Canada's organized labor are still blissfully unaware of the regimes that have perpetrated and are perpetrating against humanity — crimes which dwarf the horrors of Naziism, crimes next to which the harshest and to us most reprehensible measures taken by the pilloried governments of South Africa, Greece and Portugal cannot but pale into comparative insignificance?

Starting with Khrushchev's speech at the 20th congress of the Soviet Communist Party in 1956, there is now a vast body of documentary material which reveals the extent of the depravity of Marxist totalitarianism.

If those blinded by the left-wing (and pseudo-liberal) mythology do not want to listen and give credence to non-communist sources, they now have at their disposal a voluminous testimony by communists — not just those who left the ruins of their dreams, but those who still live under the Marxist regimes.

They now include a considerable number of internationally known writers, artists and scientists whose honesty cannot be doubted.

Perhaps the most prominent among these witnesses is Andrei D. Sakharov, a leading member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences whose research work enabled the Soviet Union to test its first hydrogen bomb ahead of the U.S.

In his plea for freedom, which he addressed to Soviet leaders, Sakharov writes: "The usual practice is the use of demagogy, storm troopers, and Red Guards in the first stage of terrorist bureaucracy with reliable cadres of the type of Eichmann, Himmler, Yezhov and Beria at the summit of edification of unlimited power.

"Fascism lasted 12 years in Germany. Stalinism lasted twice as long in the Soviet Union (and is now creeping back).

"There are many common features but also certain differences. Stalinism exhibited a much more subtle kind of hypocrisy and demagogy, with reliance not on an openly cannibalistic program like Hitler's but on a progressive, scientific and popular socialist idealogy.

"At least 10 to 15 million people perished in the torture chambers of the NKVD, from torture and execution, in camps . . . which were in fact the protoypes of the fascist death camps . . .

"People perished in the mines of Norilsk and Vorkuta from freezing, starvation, and exhausting labor, at countless construction projects, in timber-cutting, building of canals or simply during transportation in prison trains . . . and during the resettlement of entire people, the Crimean Tartars, the Volga Germans, the Kalmyks and other Caucasus peoples . . .

"In China the idiocy of the cult of personality has assumed monstrous, grotesquely tragi-comic forms, carrying to the point of absurdity many of the traits of Stalinism and Hitlerism. But this absurdity has proved effective in making fools of tens of millions of people and in destroying and humiliating millions of more intelligent people."

Are the CLC leaders unaware of these facts or are they deliberately ignoring them because they do not fit the leftist mythology?

A French Country

The East Gone Mad

By DENNIS BRAITHWAITE

SOMETIMES I feel like leaving Canada and going to live in British Columbia—or even my homeland, Saskatchewan.

What's getting me down? The French fact, that's what, the endless wrangling over what Quebec wants, what Rene Levesque says Quebec wants, what Pierre Trudeau says Quebec should have, the latest obscenity from Michel Chartrand, one more ultimatum from Pierre Bourgault.

* * *

This has become a French country. Nothing matters any more except what is said or done by a handful of French-Canadians in Ottawa and Montreal, a passle of whiz kids who all went to Laval together, or church together, or were Boy Scouts together, or members at the same time of the Confederation of Catholic Trade Unions.

Because all his energies are drained away by the blood and race demands of his compatriots, the prime minister is no longer functioning as a national leader. His every act, word and thought is a conditioned reflex. Say "federalism," and he moves this way; say "self-determination," and he steps three paces backward; whisper "constitution," and he begins to tremble; shout "separatism!" and he leaps six feet into the air.

He is becoming obsessional and paranoid because he cannot extricate himself from the pervading neurosis of French Canada. He broods. He is silent. No matter what accusations of ineptitude and brutality are made against him, he won't take to TV to defend himself or explain his position to the people.

Instead, he corners a group of Quebec students and begins spilling his guts to them about the woes of being prime minister in the hostile country of parliament. It's all in French, of course, so the rest of us must depend on various translations and interpretations of what he was actually talking about.

* * *

An Ottawa civil servant with 30 years' seniority is demoted from an executive position to that of junior clerk—because he can't learn to speak French. But worse, when interviewed on TV he and his wife (who, by an incredible irony, is French Canadian) must sit in shadow so they can not be identified and, presumably, punished for speaking out.

Worst of all, this incident from the Inquisition passes virtually unnoticed by the media and by the people of Canada.

When did we go mad here in the east, and why? About the time of Expo it first hit us; that's when we began listening to lies and telling lies about ourselves, about our manifest destiny. There hadn't been two bits' worth of sense spoken in this country since that day; and every day the fantasies grow larger and more absurd.

No nation can survive half mad and half sane, especially when the mad half is the biggest part, with most of the people, most of the industrial plants and practically all of the money.

Yes, they're poor in the west; but they're honest and they still have all their marbles.

Women's Lib Take Note

From the Winnipeg Free Press

When Women's Lib in North America have achieved all their aims and there are no more male fortresses left to conquer, perhaps they should turn their thoughts abroad and embark on a kind of Women's Lib Corps overseas.

They could concentrate, for example, on the very basic issue of a woman's right to vote. The other day in the duchy of Liechtenstein the males of the tiny enclave held a referemdum on women's suffrage. The vote was 1,897 against and 1,817 for. Which led an official (whose wife was probably standing right behind him) to lament that Liechtenstein males had become "the top fools in Europe."

It is true that Liechtenstein is the last European country with voteless women. But over there in the Middle East there are Jordan, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and the Yemen all in the same situation. Now that might be just the area for Women's Lib to start a campaign.

Space Rocks Obtained For Nothing

By JOSEPH L. MYLER, from Washington

About six months before the Apollo 11 astronauts set out for the moon in 1969, a huge fireball exploded over northern Mexico and showered a large area with more than four tons of rocks from space. For scientists, the rocks were a precious gift from a region of the solar system far more remote than the moon. Except for the trouble and small expense of going after them, they were free. Apollo 11 brought back 45 pounds of lunar rock. The flight cost $355 million.

The story of the Allende meteorite shower, named for a village in southern Chihuahua, is told in a recently published report by Smithsonian Institution scientists who were involved in recovering and processing samples for laboratory study.

The fall occurred on the morning of Feb. 8, 1969. It was the largest stony meteorite ever seen to hit the earth. It entered the atmosphere at a low angle from the south-southwest at seven miles a second. Air friction transformed it into a brilliant fireball which exploded, raining fiery fragments on a rural area of the Allende River valley.

So far, about two tons of stones from this rich space harvest have been picked up by scientists, local residents and commercial collectors.

Smithsonian Institution scientists rushed from Washington to Allende soon after the fall. They quickly garnered more than 300 pounds of space rock and prepared samples for analysis in 37 laboratories in 13 countries.

The total estimated cost of all this collecting and distributing was no more than $10,000 to $15,000.

By contrast, the United States has spent about $24 billion on the Apollo lunar landing project. In addition to the 45 pounds of lunar rock returned by Apollo 11, Apollo 12, which cost $375 million, brought home 75 pounds of moon rock and Apollo 14 — cost $400 million — returned 96 pounds.

The scientific reasons for study of meteorites, freely bestowed on Earth from space, and the expensively procured moon rocks are the same — man's hunger for understanding of how and when his solar system abode came into being.

Where did the Allende meteorite come from?

Presumably it was an errant fragment from the swarm of asteroids which move around the Sun between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter.

Since Mars and Jupiter at their closest approaches are 35 million and 367 million miles from Earth, there is a lot of solar system parking space for the asteroids, whch range in diameter from a few yards to hundreds of miles.

Why asteroids or fragments thereof stray far enough from their solar orbits to hit the Earth or the Moon or other planets is a puzzle of "celestial mechanics."

So the point of departure of the Allende meteorite, unlike that of the Apollo moon rocks, cannot be pinpointed.

Nevertheless, according to Dr. Brian Manson of the Smithsonian, Allende "is a better sample of the solar system" than the moon matter brought back by the astronauts. It contains "a broader chemical spectrum," a richer variety of elements and compounds.

The Allende meteorite was, to say the least, unusual. It was the largest stony meteorite fall ever observed. Of 2,000 known meteorites, it belonged to a group of only about a dozen catalogued by science.

The largest chunk of the Allende fall so far recovered weighed 225 pounds, nine pounds more than the total mass of moon stuff returned by three Apollo lunar flights.

The Allende meteorite, for all the scientific excitement it caused, was not much of a news story at the time. It might have been.

Considering the thousands of stones rained down on the Allende valley, it is a wonder nobody got hit. One piece, weighing more than 30 pounds, landed only four yards from a house in the village of Pueblito de Allende.

Quotable Quote!

That Is, So Far

King of Laos Above the Fray

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN

From Luang Prabang, Laos

When the Pathet Lao occupied the farm near here belonging to King Savang Vatthana last month, they were careful to tell the local people they meant no harm to the king.

They thereby maintained the general agreement that has prevailed in Laos through 20 years of civil war: that the king as constitutional monarch is above politics and is held in veneration by all his subjects on the Pathet Lao side or on the Vientiane side.

The King

The unsettling element in what is otherwise a family quarrel is the presence of the North Vietnamese.

Since the beginning of last month the North Vietnamese have approached closer to this royal capital on the Mekong and in Greater strength than at any time since the spring of 1953.

They have now advanced well beyond the 1962 cease-fire line in the mountainous country north of here. They are in a position to cut off the royal capital from the outside world, at least temporarily.

The North Vietnamese, gambling for complete control of Indochina, are less concerned than their Pathet Lao allies about the sensibilities of the Lao or about the agreement that the king is above politics. From their point of view, the main obstacle to their total control in Laos is the government of Prince Souvanna Phouma.

In recent years this government has permitted the entry into Laos of sizable numbers of volunteers from Thailand, has permitted the United States to bomb their communication routes and supply dumps, and more recently has acquiesced in the entry of the South Vietnamese army into Laos near the borders of North Vietnam, an action that comes closer to being a threat to the Hanoi government than anything that has happened in the past.

Therefore, whatever the feelings of Prince Souphanouvong and the Pathet Lao which he commands, if the North Vietnamese judge that their survival is threatened, they may try to destroy the Laotian government even at the cost of threatening the king.

Already, there are questions being asked here about the king's safety. He has been advised by his general in charge of the Luang Prabang military region to give up his habit of driving the 10 miles up a dirt road in his Land Rover to visit his farm at Pak Suong.

Some among the Lao have gone further and suggested the king should leave his royal palace here and move to his palace in Vientiane.

Unique Situation Adds to Sweden's Labor Troubles

Army Officers May Be Locked Out

By STEPHEN CROALL

A Government threat to impose a lockout on three-fifths of Sweden's 5,000-member officer corps has upset both the general public and military leaders. The threatened lockout is the culmination of a series of increasingly bitter confrontations between the government and striking public employees in Sweden.

The conflict erupted Feb. 1 when 2,500 members of the Confederation of Professional Associations (SACO), most of them employed in local government and social welfare, went on strike for higher pay.

They were joined four days later by another 4,000 state employees, including 600 train controllers attached to the Federation of Government Officers (SR). This meant that all passenger rail services came to a halt.

Local government officials hit back by locking out employees from their own offices, and the unions retaliated with further strikes.

The battle came to a head Feb. 19 when the government locked out 30,500 civil servants, including 25,000 teachers.

The Stockholm authorities then spectacularly threatened the world's first lockout of military officers — three-fifths of whom belong to the professional unions.

The Swedish defence staff did not see the situation in the light of industrial action and reaction.

Gen. Stig Synnergren, the supreme military commander, said such a lockout would also mean 30,000 of the country's 45,000 drafted servicemen would have to be sent home.

He said Sweden's preparedness for an emergency would be lowered and warned that this would shake the outside world's confidence in Sweden's will to defend itself from attack.

Only 30 hours before the unique lockout was scheduled to start March 4, the government postponed it for a week.

But the rail strike had already cost the country $24 million, railway officials said, and speculation was growing the government would have to step in.

Intervention could take the form of compulsory arbitration by a special tribunal, or of a temporary law it impose a forcible peace on the entire trouble labor scene.

Both Premier Olof Palme and Finance Minister Gunnar Straeng indicated that such measures were under consideration. But they also emphasized the government's reluctance to make any arbitrary moves except as a last resort.

During the last decade, Sweden has established a reputation as a model industrial society. Strikes were rare, its sophisticated labor union machinery purred smoothly along, Swedish workers were conscious of the nation's well-being, and the Social Democrat government watched benevolently from the sidelines.

But a rash of stoppages and increasing union dissatisfaction in the spring of 1969 gave early warning of a rapid series of wildcat strikes a year later.

These were started by a two-month conflict involving miners at the state-owned iron-ore fields of northern Sweden.

Some commentators saw the development as a symptom of fundamental unrest in Swedish society. But others put it down to worker discontent with the centralization of the union hierarchy, which was felt to be out of touch at the local level.

The latest clash with the however, has nothing at this stage to do with industrial workers.

It can scarcely be described as the continuation of a trend but rather as a sign of the inflationary times, and an indirect result of a government pledge to give wage priority to lower-paid workers.

It could lead to the government being forced for the first time into direct intervention, and legislation which would be denounced as anti-labor.

It is already under increasing pressure from the right wing to revoke the civil servants' right to strike, granted only five years ago.

The public service officers say they are taking home smaller pay packets today than in 1969, and that routine salary increases have been eaten up by higher prices and taxation.

When negotiations for a new wage agreement began, the civil servants' unions put in claims for hikes of between 18 and 22 per cent. These were immediately rejected by the government's collective bargaining board and neutral aribtrators were duly called in.

At this point, deadlock set in. The civil servants maintained they had been left behind in the over-all wages scene during recent years, while the government insisted there was no economic justification for increases on the scale they demanded.

The government had no alternative but to present the country with a highly-restrictive budget and to impose a total price freeze in an effort to curb galloping inflation.

Finance Minister Straeng warned in his budget speech in that the Swedish economy would not be able to cope with big wage claims which he anticipated from unions trying to compensate for tax and price increases in recent months.

The government's pledge to lower-paid workers was also cited as a reason for rejecting the civil servants' demands.

Underlying the administration's desire to quell the civil servants' bid was a lurking fear of a direct challenge from the giant Confederation of Trade Unions which represents 90 per cent of Sweden's industrial workers.

In a significant change of pattern from previous years, the confederation announced it would not present its own wage demands for the forthcoming two-year period until it saw exactly how much increase the civil servants received.

It was at that point that the critical upsurge of strikes by professional workers and lockouts by the authorities began.

Positive Clue to Current Strength

Corrected Soviet History Raises Brezhnev's Status

By STEVE HARVEY

The task of the Soviet historian, it has been said, is to predict the past. For in the Soviet Union, history is constantly being rewritten according to the dictates of each succeeding regime. Adapting to their environment, Soviet scholars have developed short memories.

Josef Stalin (alive) was described as a "genius of revolution," later (after his death) as a homicidal maniac, and, more recently, as a flawed but "faithful follower of Lenin."

The 1962 edition of the official history of the Soviet Communist Party accused Stalin of making mistakes as far back as 1909. The 1969 version toned down the anti-Stalinist pitch and accused former party chief Nikita Khrushchev of building an "excessive concentration of power" during his reign.

Another riches-to-rags figure was Lavrenti Beria, the late secret police chief, who was described in the 1950 Soviet encyclopedia as "a true student and closest collaborator of J. V. Stalin." Soon after Stalin's death in 1953, Beria was executed and denounced as a British agent. Accordingly, subsequent purchasers of the 1950 edition found that pages 21 to 24 of the volume had been altered.

In some copies, the pages had been completely removed, leaving searchers for information on the "Bering Sea" with only the first half of the article. In other copies, a four-page article on the "Bering Straits" was substituted.

Soviet historians also were forced to re-edit the old encyclopedia's article on the Amur River, which divides the Soviet Union and China. The Chinese claim several islands in the Amur on the basis that, under international law, the frontier runs along the central channel of the river.

After fighting broke out between the two nations over the area, page 544 of the old volume was removed. The reference to international law on the matter was deleted. So was the fact that the Amur forms the frontier.

One of the latest subjects of re-evaluation is Leonid Brezhnev, the Communist Party leader. Last week, the London Observer reported that a new, as yet uncompleted work on the party history of the Second World War pays much praise to Brezhnev, although he held a minor post.

His newly noticed importance in the war effort has been attributed to the fact that the 24th Soviet Party Congress is due to be held later this month. The praise, observers believe, is a sign of Brezhnev's strength in the current regime.

Benson Invites Advice

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson said Monday he is willing to hear the views of any provincial leader, Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa included, about the effects on industry of the buoyant Canadian dollar.

But, the minister told the Commons, he will not agree to make any statement of policy on the issue at the present time.

Benson's comments followed a report that Bourassa intends to pressure Ottawa to take steps to cushion the effect of the dollar's rise in value on key export industries, such as pulp and paper.

The Canadian dollar was released last spring from its pegged rate of 92.5 cents in terms of the U.S. dollar.

Dull Day on Market

Dow Pierces 900 Then Falls Back

NEW YORK (AP) — Modest gains ran through most of the stock list, but blue chips were relatively static.

The Dow Jones industrial average failed to close above the 900 mark, although it exceeded that point during the trading session.

The Dow closed ahead 0.62 at 898.62, but at one point during the session had been as high as 905.19.

The NYSE index of 1,200 commmon stocks advanced .25 to 54.72.

Bunker-Remo, up 1⅝ to 14⅝ on 308,300 shares, topped the most-active list. Madison Square Garden, unchanged at 4⅞, was the second-most-actively traded issue. Other closing prices included Occidental Petroleum, up ⅝ to 18⅝; American Telephone, up ⅝ at 49¼; GAC Corp., ahead 1½ at 25⅜; Ampex, up 1⅜ at 22⅝; and Lone Star Cement, down ¼ to 28½.

Small Gains Made

On index, industrials were up .11 to 179.23, its highest level since April 16, 1970. It was the fourth successive advancing session.

Metropolitan Stores was up 1 to 37, Great West Life ⅞ to 14¼, Westcoast Transmission ⅞ to 24⅝, Home A ⅞ to 27⅜, Canadian Tire ⅝ to 30, Bank of Nova Scotia ⅝ to 24⅝ and Aquitaine ½ to 25.

Sherritt was up ⅜ to 19, Placer ⅝ to 33⅛, Lake Dufault ⅝ to 13P, Cassiar ¼ to 23, and Asamera 1 to 19⅛.

Calgary Power was down ⅜ to 26. Thomson Newspapers ½ to 23¼, CPR ¼ to 70¼, Canadian Imperial Bank ⅛ to 21⅝, Beaver Lumber ⅛ to 14½, Patino ⅝ to 22, Rio Algom ¼ to 18⅝ and Canadian Superior Oil ⅝ to 37⅜.

Prices Creep Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices moved cautiously forward in most sectors in light trading.

Noranda gained ¼ to 32½. Canadian International Power was unchanged at 25.

Highlighting gains on Simpsons-Sears gained 1¼ to 24¼, Great West Life 1⅛ to 41⅛, Metropolitan Stores 1⅜ to 36¼, Canada Steamship Lines 1 to 32, Southam Press 1 to 59, Inland Natural Gas ⅝ to 13, West Coast Transmission ⅝ to 24⅝, Phillips Cables ⅝ to 10¼, Holinger ⅝ to 37¼, Dominion Glass ⅝ to 15¼, Bank of Nova Scotia ⅝ to 24⅝, Aquitaine ⅝ to 25⅛, Rio Algom ½ to 19, Union Carbide ½ to 15½.

Central-Del Rio was unchanted at 12⅝ after reporting it has drilled its second successful gas well in the Calling River area of central Alberta.

CIL gained ⅝ to 13⅝, Petrofina Canada ⅝ to 22⅝, International Utilities ⅝ to 43⅝ and Shell Canada ⅝ to 34⅝.

Highlighing losses, Weldwood of Canada lost ⅛ to 17½, Zellers ⅝ to 15, Cominco ⅝ to 21⅝, Bani of Commerce ⅛ to 21⅛, CPR ¼ to 70¼, Falconbridge ⅛ to 135⅝.

No Computer No Quotes

VANCOUVER (CP) — A computer failure interrupted compilation of trading and compliation of trading and price changes on the Vancouver Stock Exchange Monday. It was estimated, however, that approximately 3,000,000 shares were traded. In the industrials, Captain International was up .25 at 6 on an approximate volume of 7,600 shares.

Court Supports Quota on Grain

OTTAWA (CP) — The validity of the Canadian wheat board setting grain delivery quotas at all Western Canada elevators was upheld Monday in a unanimous judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Justice Bora Laskin, writing the reasons for the high court, said he was satisfied that the federal government had the consitutional power to give the wheat board authority over amounts of grains to be delivered to the elevators.

The judgment will allow courts in western provinces to clear up a backlog of some 900 alleged violations of the what quota system.

The court decision was contained in its rejection of an appeal by Ehler Jorgenson, an elevator agent employed by the Federal Grain Ltd. at Charleswood, Man.

He was acquitted by a magistrate of unlawfully receiving 363 bushels of grain in excess of the existing quota from farmer Nick Friesen.

The magistrate ruled that Parliament didn't have the power to set grain quotas.

When the Manitoba Court of Appeal set aside the ruling, Jorgenson appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Laskin said Parliament's jurisdiction over elevators was found in the British North America Act. It says Parliament may make laws exclusively for such works declared by Parliament to be for the general advantage of Canada even though located in the provinces.

It was not necessary for Parliament to name each of the works, Laskin said.

Rolls to Lay Off 4,300

LONDON (AP) — The Rolls Royce Co. announced Monday a big layoff of workers as the United States and British governments tried to work out the future of the firm's RB-211 jet engine.

Rupert Nicholson, the accountant named to unravel the British firm's financial affairs, said 4,300 employees, many of them white-collar workers, would lose their jobs in the next three weeks.

"The reduction is independent of the RB-211 situation and does not take into account the possible cancellation of the RB-211 program," Nicholson said in a statement.

If the engine — for the American Lockheed Corp's TriStar airliner — is scrapped, Rolls Royce's layoffs will be much higher.

Nicholson announced the layoffs shortly before Aviation Minister Frederick Corfield was to make his report on prospects of saving the RB-211, whose development costs caused the financial crash which put Rolls Royce into the hands of a receiver.

Panarctic Finds Gas but No Oil

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Panarctic Oils Ltd. lifted the lid slightly on its drilling operations on King Christian Island in the Arctic in a statement Monday, but the news was generally disappointing because it claimed the discovery to be natural gas, and not oil as was hoped.

Charles R. Hethington, president of Panarctic said the well represented a major natural gas discovery and that production tests were being run.

The well was started in November as a relief to take the pressure off an adjacent well which was on fire and out of control. Strong rumors persisted in Calgary last week that an important find had been made.

Industry comment was that although the "sweet" gas encountered was valuable, it would have to rank as a long-term asset in view of the problem of moving natural gas to market from such remote areas as the Canadian Arctic. The drillers in the area are looking primarily for oil.

□

Oil Sought

Demand for oil through the Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line continues to grow.

The daily average deliveries for February were 342,137 barrels, compared with 329,704 barrels a year ago.

CPR Drop

Canadian Pacific Railway failed to reach its 1969 levels, but recorded a net income of $64,170,000 ($4.24 a share) before a special credit of $1,507,000 (11 cents).

A year earlier the restated CPR earnings of $72,630,000 ($4.83) were before a special credit of $3,153,000 (22 cents).

Canadian Pacific Investments, CPR's holding company, reported net earnings of $37,084,000 (69 cents) against $39,529,000 (78 cents) a year earlier.

Book Value

Book value of a stock does not mean everything as Babson reports in his Canadian Investment Letter of March 6, but it does give an indication of how much the company is worth in liquidation.

Book value tells the shareholder "what is his" after all liabilities are subtracted from tangible assets and the balance of funds on which the common shareholder has claim.

As it happens there are a great many top class Canadian common shares which are trading far below their "book value" and are thus rich in assets.

Babson mentions a number of them, but there are many more.

Abitibi ($7¼ market value; $10.30 book value); Dominion Bridge ($20½; $34.45) Canadian Pacific Railway ($70¼; $92); Dominion Textile ($15¼; $32.00) MWL-Worthington ($13½; $21.29) and Massey Ferguson ($10¼; $21.68).

While book value is of course important, it should be noted that it does not indicate a company's current earnings or its growth possibilities. For that reason most investors in picking their stocks prefer to use such ratios as price times earnings or earnings growth rate.

□

Mine Profits

A net profit of $2,744,739 was recorded by Brenda Mines Ltd in 1970, the first year of production at the Okanagan Valley copper-molybdenum mine.

Another B.C. mine, Western Mines Ltd., reported net profit of $3,931,903 (76 cents a share) for the year ended Dedc. 31. This compared with $6,155,756 ($1.23) in the previous year.

W. G. Jewett, president of Western, said the drop was due to 16 per cent increase in operating costs and a drop in average copper prices from 66.22 cents (U.S.) to 59.10 cents from 1969 to 1970.

□

Steel Improves

Better than 1969, when it was hit by strikes, but not so good as record breaking 1968, are the figures presented by Steel Company of Canada for 1970.

The country's largest steelmaker made a net profit of $55,976,000 ($2.30 a share), up from $31,070,000 ($1.28) in 1969 but below the $67,971,000 ($2.79) in 1968.

Gas Bonds

An issue of $15 million Alberta Natural Gas first mortgage 8½ per cent bonds of April 15, 1992 is being placed on the market this week at 99 to yield 8.60 per cent.

Proceeds of the issue are to reduce the number of bills payable by the company.

Charles Starts Jet Course

Staff Salutes 'New Boy'

Charles tries trainer for size

CRANWELL, England (UPI) — The top brass of Cranwell Royal Air Force College usually take salutes from junior officers and especially from their new recruits. Monday one arrived and they saluted him.

Air Marshal Sir Leslie Mavor, in charge of RAF training, and Air Vice Marshal F. D. Huges, commandant of Cranwell, starched and beribboned, saluted the prince on his arrival.

But from now until he graduates from the five-month flying course in August, it will be the prince who does the saluting under provisions of the Air Force Act.

"I hope to leave you in no doubt," Group Capt. Gerald Pendred told newsmen, "the prince is going to have to earn his wings."

The prince flew into Cranwell Monday in a twin-engined Bassett aircraft from Benson RAF Base in Oxfordshire — 25 minutes late because of rain.

He apologized for being late then was driven to College from the 2-year-old prince, Hall, his home until August, where he was introduced to his roommate, 23-year old James Giles, and two other officers who occupy an apartment below them.

The Spartan accommodations, a change from Charles' stereo-equipped Buckingham Palace digs, brought a smile.

Charles also met 58-year-old John Willows, who acts as valet to Charles and Giles. He then headed off to lunch in the school mess with his three new roommates and personal detective.

During the prince's stay at Cranwell, 150 miles north of London, he will rise at 7 a.m. to a cup of tea, have breakfast and report with other students for an 8 a.m. briefing on the day's program, a school spokesman explained.

He will have his weekends free and can participate in the college's drama society or play sports, but not his favorite — polo.

"With his family background, we expect no disciplinary problems," one staff member said. Security, however, doing loops, stalls and turns in 500-mile per hour Provost trainers, provide other problems.

The prince will spend 80 hours of dual and solo instruction in two trainers specially built, fitted out and tested for him.

Greene Says U.S. Lags On Pollution Controls

TORONTO (CP) — J. J. Greene, federal energy, mines and resources minister, said Monday there is a gap between "rhetoric and results" of United States action on pollution control.

Greene was speaking at a joint meeting of the Prospectors and Developers Association and the Toronto Canadian Club and began by saying he wanted to discuss the responsibility of the mining industry.

He announced formation of an advisory committee on the mineral industry. He told the 1,050 in the luncheon audience that Canadian efforts are of no use if they are not matched by the U.S.

"I wonder if there isn't some credibility gap on the part of our neighbors between pronouncements and policy."

He said past initiatives by United States government leaders have demonstrated an intent to combat pollution.

Greene said the U.S. secretary of state, William Rogers, was recently quoted as saying that other nations should be consulted when a country's industry is planning a development which may affect the environment of other nations.

He said 80 per cent of the pollution in the Great Lakes comes from the U.S. side and he did not believe the U.S. was making a proportionate effort on pollution control.

Hijacker Changes His Mind

MIAMI (UPI) — A teenager who said he was having problems at home hijacked an airliner Monday, and ordered the pilot to fly to Montreal. Then he changed his mind and allowed the plane to land at Miami, where he gave himself up.

Thomas Kelly Marston, 16, a sophomore at Davidson high school in Mobile, Ala., took over National Airles Flight 745 at gunpoint while it was on the ground in Mobile.

Before takeoff, he permitted the 38 passengers and the four stewardesses aboard to leave the plane.

'Canada Losing Resources'

HAMILTON (CP) — The United States has such a need for resources that it could strip Canada in 50 years, Cy Gonick, editor of Canadian Dimension magazine, said Sunday.

Gonick, also New Democratic Party member for Crescentwood in the Manitoba legislature, was speaking at a teach-in on Canada sponsored by McMaster University students.

"Canada will become a ghost country and we will join with the U.S. to raid the third world underdeveloped nations to maintain our standard of living."

Gonick said the U.S. now has to fight for resources in the third world and Latin America has stopped giving its resources away.

Police Seek Vital TV Set

Important information is required by Victoria police in the investigation of a case last week in which a two-year-old girl suffered a skull fracture, officials of the detective division announced Monday.

The announcement came shortly after a 17-year-old youth charged with attempted murder in the case was remanded in custody in Victoria Provincial Court to March 16 by Judge William Ostler, who made a detailed statement on the legal problem of 17-year-olds.

Meanwhile, Royal Jubilee Hospital officials said the girl, Fiona Fay Boucher of 643 John, remained in fairly good condition.

Police said they were asking the public to help them find a 12-inch Viking portable TV set and four or five drivers who gave a youth lifts that enabled him to get from Victoria to the Duncan-Lake Cowichan area between midnight last Thursday and 4 a.m. Friday.

The TV set was described as grey with a single antenna, broken at the top. It is believed a youth left the set in one of four or five cars in which he received lifts.

An earlier, less-detailed appeal for information resulted in a woman telling police she saw a youth with a TV set at Trans-Canada and Millstream at about 1 a.m. Friday. Any more information should be given to the Victoria police detective division at 384-4111.

In Provincial Court Saturday, Judge Harold Alder assumed jurisdiction in the case of the attempted-murder charge against the 17-year-old, at the request of prosecutor John Macintyre. The charge was read and the 17-year-old was remanded in custody to Monday without further action.

The legal problem arose because a Vancouver Provincial Court judge ruled Jan. 29 that 17-year-olds should be heard in juvenile or family courts, not adult courts. This threw out a federal law of last year and a B.C. appeal of the ruling is not expected to come to a decision until late this month.

Monday, Macintyre asked that the 17-year-old be remanded one wee's in custody after saying efforts had begun to get a lawyer for the youth through the family or Legal Aid.

Ostler approved, saying "at this age and with this charge, he should have counsel," then found out from Macintyre the girl was two years of age, the injuries were serious and the accused youth was arrested in the Lake Cowichan area about 24 hours "after the alleged offence."

Ostler then approved the remand in custody after making a statement outlining the legal problem and his court's answer to it.

He said 17-year-olds have been charged in his court since Jan. 29 and "prosecutors have consistently requested and have received adjournments without any further proceedings taking place and with the accused persons released on their own recognizance."

But this time, he said, a remand in custody was requested.

The judge said: "The crime charged is one of such gravity that release of any accused, irrespective of age, on his own recognizance could not be justified, save in the most exceptional circumstances. No such circumstances appear to exist here."

Ostler said it was not necessary for him to argue with or decline to follow the Jan. 29 ruling because "certainly a Provincial Court has jurisdiction over the accused."

If the 17-year-old is an adult, there would be no problem, he said, and "if the correct legal status is that of a child within the meaning of the Juvenile Delinquents Act, he is very close to adult age.

"It is my opinion, in view of this age and the natural and circumstances of the charge, that he cannot safely be confined in a detention home or shelter for children or in any place other than a jail or lockup."

No matter what the legal status of 17-year-olds, the judge added, "it is necessary that he be confined in a correctional centre or lockup in order to ensure his attendance in court;" unless he is released on bail in such a way as to ensure his appearance.

Ostler then approved the remand, said a bail application can be made "in due course" and added that, if a private lawyer can't be arranged and Legal Aid is refused, he will apply to the provincial attorney-general's department for a lawyer for the youth.

Joe Is 'Gem' For Indians

The John Howard Society of Vancouver Island for 15 months has been waiting for the federal government to say if it will participate in the costs of a unique Indian counselling program that has started in Victoria.

Michael Bennett, the society's executive director, said Monday that out of exasperation he has finally written Indian Affairs Minister Jean Cretien.

The society is anxious to retain on its staff John Joe, 25, a court worker who has a special interest in Indians. The demand for his service is illustrated by the fact that while the general population of Vancouver Island is 2 per cent native Indian, the population of the jails is 15 per cent Indian.

Joe was hired one year ago, and, while there is enough money to keep him on staff for the remainder of 1971, the John Howard Society wants an assurance that it will be able to employ him beyond next December or January.

Bennett said the first proposal went to the federal government in October, 1969. Then it went to the First Citizens' Fund, administered by the provincial government, and money was found to hire Joe in February, 1970.

However, the executive director explained, the John Howard Society realized the First Citizens' Fund money was mainly meant for innovative projects that, once under way, would be taken over by other levels of government or charitable agencies.

Last year, when the society realized that its project was exceedingly successful — "Mr. Joe is a gem, he exceeded all expectations," says Bennett — it again wrote to the federal Indian Affairs branch.

In the meantime, said Bennett, everyone he spoke to personally in Indian Affairs was enthusiastic about the society's court worker project, and they indicated that someone in Ottawa was to blame for not finding the money.

They were as perplexed as Bennett was that the branch in 1967 spent $66,000 for an official report on what could be done to improve Indians' relationships with the law but was not acting on the report's recommendations.

Bennett said Joe's work has been well received by judges and other court officials.

"Indians who appear before courts require more specialized help then we have been able to provide them in the past," said Bennett. "I think we have demonstrated that such assistance is of great value."

Pearson

Policeman Honored By Society

Saanich police chief W. A. Pearson has been selected by the John Howard Society of Vancouver Island as the recipient of its third annual award to persons who have made an outstanding contribution to the organization.

He will receive the award at the society's annual meeting in Port Alberni on March 27. The guest speaker will be John Braithwaite, assistant deputy commissioner of federal penitentiaries.

Last year's winner was Victor Palmer of Nanaimo, one of the John Howard Society's founders on Vancouver Island.

Radiologist Steps Down

Dr. H. M. Edmison, director of radiology at Royal Jubilee Hospital, has relinquished the position he held for 20 years and has been succeeded by Dr. D. M. K. Muir.

Edmison joined Royal Jubilee 23 years ago and became director on the retirement of Dr. H. H. Murphy in 1951. Over the years, he developed one of the best radiological services in Western Canada.

He will remain with Royal Jubilee as a consultant in radiology.

Dr. Muir joined the department in 1964, specializing in radiology of the nervous system, and in recent months has acted as deputy director. The new appointment took effect March 1.

Authority Lacking for Action

Rental Board Offers Advice

Victoria's newly-established rental grievance board heard a number of complaints from Greater Victoria tenants Monday, but remedial action was restricted to advice.

"We seem to get the problems that have no authority to do anything," H. G. Vido, one of the board members said.

Victoria Ald. Robert Baird, chairman of the board, told members that Mayor Courtney Haddock had agreed to have a bylaw drawn up that would give the board "more teeth."

Until then, he said, the board is forced to confine its actions to that of an adviser.

The board dealt with three complaints, two of them voiced in letters, and one aired by a tenant who appeared in person. Some of the points raised were rent increases, proper notice prior to moving out of a suite or house and damage deposits collected by landlords.

In each instance, the board asked Bill Tindall, manager of the Victoria Better Business Bureau, to get in touch with the landlord to discuss the problem.

In one case, the complainant told the board he had made arrangements with his former landlord to the effect that two weeks' notice would be sufficient.

When a new landlord took over the premises, he insisted on a month's notice. The tenant also told the board he hadn't submitted his notice in writing.

The board told him he should talk it over with the landlord and "everything would work out all right."

Another complaint involved a landlord who told a tenant to pay an additional $10.50 a month for utilities one month after he moved in.

The rent had been established at $87.50 before the tenant in question took possession of the suite. That rent was to include utilities, but no lease had been signed by either party.

"I didn't raise a stink, but two months later we were told to pay another $18.41 for the light bill," the letter stated.

When the tenant told the landlord "where he could put his rent increase," the latter told him to leave the premises by the end of the month, the letter said.

Board member J. W. Woods said the tenant was "obviously being kicked out because he wanted to exercise his right of protesting a rent increase without mandatory notice."

The board passed a motion requesting the provincial government to place 500 copies of the Landlord and Tenant Act at the board's disposal.

As one board member pointed out: "In most cases it will probably be sufficient to send the landlord a copy of the act stating what section would probably be held against him if the matter came before a court."

The board hopes to get the copies free of charge. Regular price charged by the Queen's Printers is 24 cents a copy.

Society Meets Wednesday

The 81st annual meeting of Royal Jubilee Hospital Society will be held Wednesday, March 17, not March 18, as reported in Sunday's Colonist.

The meeting, which will hear the annual report of the hospital's board of directors, will begin at 8 p.m. in Jubilee's nurses' residence, Richmond Ave.

Lloyd

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — Retired actor Harold Lloyd, 77, who played in more than 300 films mostly as a zany comedian in both silent and sound screen eras, died Monday of cancer at his Beverly Hills home.

He was one of the rare personalities in the industry to retire wealthy and to retain rights in most of his pictures.

His films grossed more than $35 million around the world in the 1920s and into the late 1930s, and recent years have returned more millions in reissued releases.

A compilation of scenes from his comedies, Lloyd's World of Comedy, earned more than $1 million in overseas markets alone after it was issued in 1962.

Lonesome Luke

He was inspired to change his film character after seeing a play about a preacher who was mild until provoked to furious action by some evildoer. Spectacles helped underscore his quiet character.

Lloyd's pseudospectacles became his trademark. His first pair cost him 75 cents. His new character was that of a young, normal and earnest young man who became involved in improbable situations.

Human Fly

In Safety First, he was a timid store clerk who became a "human fly" and climbed a 12-storey building. The script called for him to clutch the hand of a big clock, and a mouse ran up his leg as he got tangled in the clock's springs.

Although reputed to be one of Hollywood's wealthiest stars, Lloyd devoted most of his "retirement" years to fraternal sports and hobbies — activities upon which he expended as much time and energy as he did to his highly successful film career.

He was a national Shrine leader, serving as imperial potentate of all temples in North America in 1950. He was former potentate of Al Malaikah Shrine Temple in Los Angeles.

Sports World

He was a 33rd degree Scottish Rite Mason.

He also attained national prominence in the sports world and was a former national handball champion. He also was national chairman of the American Bowling Congress and chairman of the Committee.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday in Los Angeles.

Tax Hike Bills Come Under Fire

Amidst opposition charges that Premier Bennett has broken a 1969 election promise not to increase taxes in the province, six bills implementing tax increases announced in the Feb. 5 budget were given second reading in the Legislature Monday.

The bills increase the tax on all types of gasoline and diesel fuel by two cents, impose a tax on all cigarettes and tobacco sold in the province, and institute a 5 per cent room tax for hotels and motels.

All six bills were opposed by NDP and Liberal MLAs while being supported by all Socred members.

During debate on each of the bills, NDP members condemned Bennett for increasing taxes after he had "pledged" during the 1969 election campaign there would be no such increases.

Robert Williams (NDP—Vancouver East) said introduction of the new taxes showed that Bennett's "commitments are completely meaningless." He was supported by Robert Strachan (NDP — Cowichan - Malahat) who said the premier was overtaxing the people to build up large surpluses.

The federal government came in for its share of criticism, particularly during debate on the cigarette tax bill when Liberal leader Pat McGeer termed its refusal to ban all cigarette and tobacco advertising "a disgrace."

McGeer said he condemned the federal government for permitting the advertising of cigarette and tobacco products. Smoking, he said, was "a curse on humanity" and the "total elimination of tobacco" would be the greatest public health measure that could be undertaken in the world today.

He received support from Dr. Scott Wallace (SC—Oak Bay) who said his only regret about the cigarette tax was that it was not larger. As smokers will likely use health facilities more than non-smokers, they should help pay for them, he said.

Garde Gardom (L—Vancouver-Point Grey) said he felt the tax would be no deterrent to smoking and the government should ban cigarette advertising instead. Gardom has introduced a private member's bill which would ban all such advertising.

Mrs. Eileen Dailly, acting opposition leader, said the discussion of a deterrent was irrelevant and the tax was, in fact, "another sales tax on the lower income bracket."

In moving second reading of the four bills dealing with the gasoline tax increases, Bennett said that much of the increased revenue would go to highways development.

Under the bills taxes on ordinary gas would be increased from 13 to 15 cents a gallon; the tax on colored gas would go up from one to three cents a gallon and the tax on diesel fuel would rise two cents a gallon from 15c.

The increase for the average motorist would be between $5 and $10 a year, the premier said, but most of the increased revenue from the tax would come from tourists, industry and large users.

Terming the tax increases "inexcusable," Williams said the premier was "prepared to cut the standard of living of the lower middle-income so he can appear like a financial Machiavelli."

McGeer said the main basis of his opposition to the taxes was that they were unnecessary. He noted that the government's revenues regularly exceeded its estimated revenues, and the extra money brought in by the taxes would not go to highways but into surpluses which then went to B.C. Hydro and the Pacific Great Eastern Railway.

In explaining the 5 per cent hotel room tax, Bennett said the bulk of the money gained from the tax would come from tourists. He pointed out that rooming houses with less than four occupants are exempt from the tax and that persons staying over two months in one hotel are also exempt.

Home-Owners' Bills Win Second Reading Support

Two bills Premier Bennett says are designed to make home ownership available to more people in B.C. received second reading Monday in the Legislature.

Aim of one of the bills is to increase the present $160 homeowner grant given by the provincial government to $170, while the other will extend the home acquisition grant on older homes for another year.

Both bills were given unanimous support in second reading.

The home acquisition grant — which amounts to either a $500 outright grant or a $2,500 second mortgage loan on the purchase of an older home — was due to be removed March 31. In moving second reading of the bill, Bennett said the grants would be extended for another year at least and promised his government would review them each year after 1972.

There could be no guarantee they would be continued, he said, because the grants might amount to millions of dollars annually, and it would be necessary that the government have enough money in its surpluses to pay them each year.

The premier urged all tenants in B.C. to purchase their own homes with money obtained through this act. "The best investment any person can have is a home for himself," he said.

Members of both opposition parties supported the principles of the two bills.

Robert Strachan (NDP—Cowichan-Malahat) urged the government to consider giving similar grants to persons wishing to purchase mobile homes.

Liberal leader Patrick McGeer told the House that although the home-owner grants were good for persons who owned their own homes, "the consequence is to punish those who cannot afford to own a home."

He said a similar sort of system should be set up to aid renters and also persons on fixed incomes who owned houses in high-taxation areas.

Foods Ban Studied

A Socred bill which would give the government the power to ban any synthetic food products it wished from sale in B.C. was referred to the select standing committee on agriculture in the Legislature Monday.

After Agriculture Minister Cyril Shelford told the House the bill would be referred to the committee, it quickly received second reading unanimously.

A bill to regulate the registry and sale of air space above land was also given second reading and was referred to the select standing committee on municipal affairs.

In moving second reading of the Synthetic Food Products Act, Shelford said the main purpose of the act was to prevent synthetic foods from being labelled or advertised as natural foods.

He displayed in the House a package of drink powder "with two nice rosy red apples on it and it never saw an apple in its life" as an example of what would be banned under the act.

If the consumer "wishes to buy an inferior synthetic product, he should have the right to do so," the minister said. He added that the government would not act to eliminate well-known synthetic foods which have been on the shelves for years.

In explaining the act concerning air space, Attorney-general Leslie Peterson said the government hoped to develop a "simple system" of registering space over the land, the same way land surface was now registered. Using transparent plastic blocks to illustrate his points, Peterson said the act would make it possible for persons to buy parcels of air space, though, he noted, there would be a problem of acquiring access to the space.

Allan Williams (L—West Vancouver-Howe Sound) suggested the municipal affairs committee also study the problems of titles to subterranean areas, but Peterson said the terms of reference for the committee regarding the bill were quite specific.

Autistic Class Pursuit

Greater Victoria school board will be asked next Monday to seek education department approval for a special class for autistic children, members of the board's education committee decided Monday night.

The suggestion was made by district superintendent A. J. Longmore who said that provincial approval would mean a grant of about $12,000 for a class that could cost $24,000 a year.

He suggested that such a class could be set up in the Eric Martin Institute, but psychiatrist and trustee Dr. Phillip Ney disagreed with the idea.

"That's just a concrete block," he said. "And the children would have little contact with the outdoors which they need."

He suggested a class in the Queen Alexander Solarium or in one of the schools.

The committee also discussed at length the idea of student and teacher representation on the committee, and Ney, who has a formal notice for discussion at next week's board meeting was assured that there will be a decision at that time.

Most of Monday night's discussion centred around means of choosing representatives, and how to ensure a suitable voice for all students, with anyone seated on the committee acting as a spokesman for advisory groups.

Community information officer Bill Stavdal was asked to prepare questionnaires for students, teachers and parents, asking if such a voice is desired and how representation can be arranged if it is wanted.

Girl Was in Crosswalk When Fatally Injured

Eleven-year-old Linda Hughes, who died in St. Joseph's Hospital Thursday after being struck by a car two days earlier, was in a crosswalk at the time of the accident, a coroner's jury was told Monday.

After hearing police and medical evidence for three hours, Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre adjourned the hearing until Wednesday evening at Saanich police office.

Eugene Knapp, who was driving a white delivery van at the time of the accident, said that he was turning off Ralph Street onto Douglas. He said he stopped his vehicle when he saw that the child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nimbley, 668 Canterbury, Saanich, was going to cross Douglas in the crosswalk.

He testified he saw the child start across the road with her dog but didn't see an oncoming car which struck the child. He heard the sound of the impact, he said, but, up to that time, saw no traffic approaching from either direction.

Evidence given by Saanich Constable Edward Bolger indicated that the car which hit the child, driven by William F. Smith, 790 Canterbury, came to rest some 97 feet beyond the crosswalk.

When he arrived on the scene, Bolger said, the child was still pinned beneath the car. He and other police officers and a number of men who were present lifted the rear end of the automobile and freed the youngster.

Dr. William Hay, St. Joseph's Hospital pathologist, said that the cause of death was a head injury which resulted in edema or swelling of the brain.

Dr. John Hough testified that the child had brain damage, a broken shoulder, internal injuries and a fractured pelvis. Surgery was performed on her but she died on the afternoon of March 4.

Madness Infects Drama Festival

By BERT BINNY

"A worthwhile evening!"

This was adjudicator Carl Hare's description of the second night of the current schools drama festival which was staged Monday at Norfolk House School.

"Moreover," said the adjudicator, "the evening got stronger as it went along."

Four characters who were insane were in the first play, while all but one were thus afflicted in the last one. George Bernard Shaw's Passion, Poison and Petrifaction, which came in the middle, observed Hare, "is an insane play."

First on the program came the second act of Jean Giraudoux's Madwomen of Chaillot.

The all-girl cast from Norfolk House was commended for "a nice attempt," but the adjudicator felt that this was rather too ambitious a project.

"In realistic rather than stylized plays such as this," said Hare, "it is very hard for females to bring off male parts."

As the Ragpicker, Stephanie Olynyk was praised for being "energetic and sympathetic." Shelagh Houston who played the Countess was described as "an attractive and gracious young actress," but she lacked the sense of age and the mood of the older women she portrayed.

Eleanor Harbor showed "more of Shaw's Eliza than of Giraudoux's Sewer Man" and was "charming even if her voice was rather faint."

Oak Bay junior high school offered Shaw's Passion, Poison and Petrification, and the adjudicator observed that the cast "brought off the broad, comic aspect but missed the social comedy."

Betsy Burke made "a nice attempt at the grand style" as Lady Fitzollemache, and her maid, played by Kathy Popham, was "appropriate maidish and cute."

Brent Taylor, as George Fitzollemache, was described as "such a gentle murderer" while Duncan Naylor, as Adolphus Bastable, was commended for "a lively performance, good timing and a sense of situation." Janet Gowland, Bill Craig and Geoff Davidson "were all appropriate to the situation."

The final play of the evening was Arthur Kopit's Chamber Music.

"A fine, strong, sympathetic performance" came from Karen Olsen as the Woman Who Plays Records. Laura Steel as the Woman With Notebook was "strong," and Wendy Young as the Girl in Gossamer Dress "was sensitive." As the Woman with Gavel, Janet Andreae was not vocally strong enough which "obscured a subtle performance."

The festival continues today with a matinee at 2 p.m. at St. Ann's Academy. The adChristine McNab. The evening program is set for Mount Douglas high with curtain time at 8 o'clock.

JEST A MINUTE By BOB CUMBERBIRCH

Civilization is a condition in which one generation pays the debt of the last generation by issuing bonds for the next generation to pay.

Did you hear about the young man, dressed in cap and gown on graduation day, who handed his diploma to his father, and said: "Well, I finished law school like you and mom wanted. Now I'm going to be a motorcycle cop like I've been saying since I was six."

★ ★ ★

Judy: "The two things I cook best are meat loaf and apply dumplings."

John: "Which is this?"

THE HOMEOWNER was delighted with the way the painter had redecorated his house. "You did a fine job," he said, "and I'm going to give you a little something extra. Here's $20. Take the missus to a show."

That night the bell rang and the painter stood at the door. He was dressed in the height of fashion.

"What's the matter," the homeowner asked, "did you forget something?"

Heiress' Fate Debated

New offering produced by Bastion Theatre, and directed by Peter Mannering, is We Must Kill Toni, and opens at McPherson Playhouse at 8 p.m. Friday. Francis Oberon, left, played by Stuart Kent and Douglas Oberon, played by John Heath, discuss fate of their heiress cousin, Toni, played by Wendy Packard. Play will run to March 20.

From Stone Walls to Cadillac

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Prison doors opened Saturday for songwriter Glen Sherley after 10 long years. Sunday, another door slammed behing him, that of Johnny Cash's gleaming dark Cadillac.

Sherley, paroled from prison in Vacaville, Calif., stepped from an airliner at Metro Airport Sunday into another world.

"You guys down here in this end of the country are too much," the greying, bushy haired ex-convict told superstar Cash and other music city luminaries on hand to greet him.

"Standin' out there on that runway, I almost started bawlin' like a baby," Cash's wife, June, told Sherley as they walked down the long airport corridor.

"A little bit more and you're gonna have me doin' it," the nervous, 35-year-old Sherley responded.

"We're gonna take him home with us right now," said Mrs. Cash. "He's going to be a writer for the House of Cash and sing with us on the concert tour."

Many appeals by Cash and a recent telephone call to California Gov. Ronald Reagan by the Rev. Billy Graham were said to have led to the release of Sherley, who wrote the Cash-recorded Greystone Chapel as well as songs for Eddy Arnold while serving time for armed robbery.

Independent record producer Jim Malloy said it was Cash's performance of Greystone Chapel at Folsom Prison three years ago that gave Sherley the faith in his work as a songwriter.

"Sherley didn't have any idea he was going to sing it," Malloy recalled at the airport Sunday. "He had met him that day and showed him the song, of course, but was just sitting there watching the performance."

"They were making the recording and all of a sudden Cash said something like: 'And now, Glen Sherley, here's your song'."

As the crowd swarmed around him in the airport terminal building Sunday, Sherley walked over to a water cooler to dry his eyes. Then, with shaking hands, he picked up his guitar case and single piece of luggage from the conveyor belt.

"Aw, come on, man," Cash said, grinning as he threw an arm around the ex-convict's shoulders to escort him to the waiting car.

Phantoms Of Opera Imprisoned

ROME (UPI) — A Rome court convicted 19 persons Sunday on charges they were connected with the staging of phantom operas to embezzle money from the government.

They included two former directors of entertainment in the ministry of tourism. The men, Franz de Biase and Nicola de Pirro, were given more than four years in prison. The former director of the Rome Opera House, Mario Allegretti, was sentenced to four years.

Opera and certain other theatrical performances receive government subsidies in Italy.

One Up For Drunk

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — A self-admitted drunk driver claims victory over state police in a private little game, his own version of cat and mouse.

A state police radio dispatcher reported receiving a call from a man who sounded intoxicated. He said the caller advised that there would be a drunk driving a car of a specific description on the Pojoaque Highway between Pojoaque and Santa Fe.

The dispatcher said about 25 minutes later he got another call from the same man, saying: "Well, I got home, and you didn't catch me!"

Schools' Twin Concerts Draw Talent and Two Full Houses

By BERT BINNY

There were more than 500 young performers contributing their talents at a pair of concerts at the McPherson Playhouse Sunday afternoon and evening.

Likewise, there were two virtually full houses so that space was quite severely taxed.

Largest gathering for Saanich Schools centennial Day of Music was a choir of about 180 members and representing 14 Saanich elementary schools. At 2.15 they assembled, sitting in close, packed rows in the upper lobby.

The curtain had to be raised before the entire choir could get onstage but they sang delightfully and with all the ingenuous freshness and enthusiasm that only performers of their years can provide.

Soundly Trained

Soundly trained by Mrs. Roberta Botsford who was also their accompanist, they offered Song of the Music Makers, World Anthem and They All Call It Canada.

The World Anthem is excerpted from Beethoven's 9th Symphony and, despite the almost god-like and often ferocious image habitually accorded him by many classicists, probably Ludwig would have been delighted to know that even five and six-year-olds were purveying his music so delightfully.

Preceding the elementary choir, six items were played by the Peninsula junior high festival band, directed by Austin Scott and with 34 members from North Saanich, 12 from Mount Newton, 22 from Royal Oak, and four alumni from Claremont.

Choir Does Well

They did especially well with the popular Scarborough Fair and with Bobby Gimby's Go British Columbia.

The Claremont choir, who probably know full well what a fine conductor they have in Don Kyle, gave a really delightful program including, as emcee Don McColl pointed out, a world premiere.

This was the song, This Is British Columbia, written, composed and performed by students Richard Margison and Greg Davidson. The item received tremendous applause as it merited. It is entered in centennial competition and it will be interesting to note how it fares.

Effectively assisted by a girls' group from the choir, The Offshoots, Richard and Greg also presented the very popular, Jean.

The Claremont choir is a delight to hear because the choristers sing effortlessly, have most enviable control and respond to any musical demand made upon them with no apparent trouble.

They proceeded smoothly from spirituals to Hebrew or Czechoslovakian numbers. There was Schubert's Sanctus and an arrangement of Elijah Rock while the shade of Rudy Vallee hovered over the famous Yale University song, the Whiffenpoof Song of 1936.

Hard Working

The audience was welcomed by Saanich school board chairman, J. J. Armstrong. The Day of Music also received tremendous assistance from hard-working but unheralded people back in the wings such as Mrs. Rubymay Parrott, Mrs. Jean Reith and North Saanich vice-principal E. G. Taylor.

In the evening it was the turn of the Oak Bay high school bands, conducted by Dave Dunnet. Here there were three bands with 225 performers.

The Grey (or intermediate) and Scarlet (or senior) bands of Oak Bay junior enjoyed the services of a cool, calm and collected emcee; Laurie Rutherford, president of the students' council.

Two Guests

The Grey band also had two guest conductors, Megan Hurn of Oak Bay senior for Three Classic Miniatures and Roy Hudson of UVic for Scarborough Fair. The Concert band of Oak Bay senior high had two soloists, clarinetist Debbie Jones and flutist Thomas Niemann, both in the item, Tamboo.

Considering the relative brevity of their experience, the Grey band, who tackled a quite ambitious program, did excellently and, in particular, with Scarborough Fair.

The Scarlet band, more experienced, met the challenge of Robert Johnston's Concert Overture with flying colors and were enthusiastically applauded.

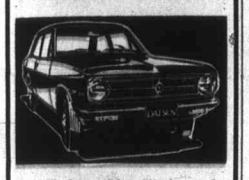

Both the Scarlet and the Concert bands offered Bach Preludes and Fugues, originally composed for the organ but readily and pleasantly adapted for bands.

Band Emcee

Emcee for the concert band was Robert Gillespie and the audience was welcomed by principal P. A. Boldt of Oak Bay junior high.

This concert did not stress the centennial aspect as was done in the afternoon. As a matter of fact, in some aspects, it went further back in history than 1871. The backstage instructions to performers were couched in such engaging terms as "get you hence to ye reserved section" or "save thine embouchures" or "when ye Scarlette band plays Chopsticks move out of their area for a red horde cometh thereafter."

Former Ace, Air Canada President Dies

MONTREAL — Gordon Roy McGregor, 69, member of a rare breed who made it big as wartime fighter ace and peacetime airline president, died Monday.

The square-jawed, blunt-spoken airman retired less than three years ago as president of Air Canada after guiding the publicly-owned flag carrier for 20 years and building it into one of the world's top airlines in the jet age.

It was in the heroic days of the 1940 Battle of Britain that McGregor's qualities of leadership and action first found full scope.

He commanded the First and Second Canadian Fighter Squadrons overseas and emerged from the Second World War as a group captain, joining Air Canada — then Trans-Canada Air Lines — in 1945.

□

KITCHENER, Ont. — Senator Paul Martin told a high school audience that governments may have to crack down on the use of cars as part of the battle against pollution. He suggested that cities place more emphasis on mass transit.

□

NEW YORK — Johnny Carson has entered a New York hospital for treatment of hepatitis. The National Broadcasting Co., said it was not known how long the star of the network's late-night talk show would be laid up, but that Joey Bishop, who once had his own talk show in competition with Carson, would replace him for the duration.

□

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. — Parking meters along the Santa Cruz downtown shopping mall have been declared illegal — all because a W. C. Oliver, a semi-retired engineer, decided he could beat city hall. Municipal Judge Donald May dismissed three parking meter citations against Oliver on the ground that the city had not designated individual parking spots with white markings as required by state law.

□

WASHINGTON — Lt. Col. Frank Lillyman, credited with being the first allied soldier to set foot in France during the Normandy invasion on D-Day, is dead at age 55, of a stroke. Lillyman, a captain at the time was leader of the army's Pathfinders, who dropped by parachute ahead of airborne troops to mark drop zones and set up communications.

was found lying face down in the snow, killed by one of two rifles he had used Sunday to riddle passing automobiles. "I can't see any reason for it," said William H. Egnew Sr., the father of the sniper and an inspector for the Seattle fire department. William Herbert Egnew Jr. perched in a "foxhole-type" crevice atop a 100-foot cliff and began spraying .22 calibre rifle bullets at passing automobiles on U.S. 410. At least 18 vehicles were hit, including an ambulance which had come to take away one of the four persons wounded.

□

CLEVELAND — Salvadore Dali, dressed in a velvet suit and carrying a gold-handled walking stick, Sunday attended the opening of a museum housing a $70 million collection of his works. The privately-owned museum, devoted exclusively to Dali's work, will be free to the public by appointment.

□

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Scott Simmons Carswell, 30, son of former federal Judge G. Harrold Carswell, was arrested over the weekend for possession of marijuana. His father was one of two U.S. Supreme Court nominees rejected by the senate last year and later an unsuccessful candidate for U.S. senator.

□

BERLIN — A British military government court sentenced a 22-year-old West Berlin medical orderly to six years in jail for shooting a Soviet army sentry. Court president Sir Leslie Block found Ehrichard Weil, an admitted admirer of Adolf Hitler, guilty of "malicious attempted murder for base motives."

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Medicine healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case like many after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved!.....actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) to original size.

And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these test and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal inflamed cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to centrally shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Fisherman Turns Up Dazed

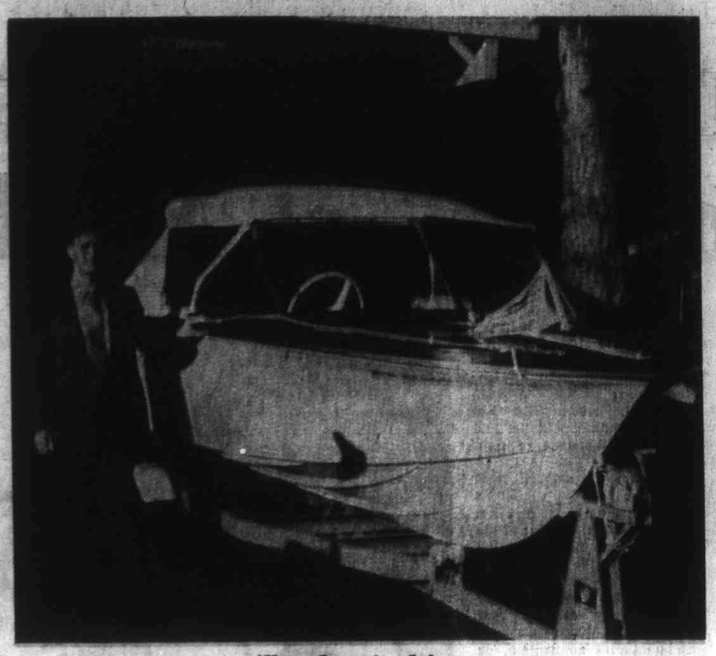

A 43-year-old View Royal man who had been presumed drowned after disappearing Sunday during a Saanich Inlet fishing trip turned up Monday afternoon at his home — dazed and hungry, but able to say any reports of his death were exaggerated.

The safe return of Bruce Dubois Allen, 109 Burnett, district insulations officer for B.C. Telephone, ended a search of the inlet by the RCMP patrol boat Sidney from Ganges and other craft.

Sidney RCMP officials said Allen apparently tripped over a fishing pole some time after leaving Brentwood at 6 a.m. to go fishing alone. He fell overboard and was unable to get back to his 15-foot outboard motorboat.

So he swam to shore in the area of McCurdy Point, climbed a cliff and spent much of Sunday wandering around in bushland. Later, a grader operator gave Allen a lift to the highway.

Police said they understood Allen could not get a lift home and walked most or all of the way back along the highway. They said they were told he was dazed, exhausted, cold and hungry when he returned and went to sleep almost at once.

Allen, boat in driveway

Allen's boat was spotted at about 11 a.m. near McCurdy Point by Robert Redgrave, 1255 Judge, and Barry Jenner, 1423 Jamaica, who had seen Allen trolling at about 6:30 a.m.

As they returned from a fishing trip in Redgrave's 36-foot cabin cruiser Lazy Gal, they found the boat about 100 yards offshore with a line out from the stern. The two said there were indications Allen had run into engine trouble.

Redgrave and Jenner towed Allen's craft to Gilbert's Marina at Brentwood and got the search started.

Police said Allen, who is married and with three children, was described to them as a good swimmer and skindiver. They had no word on how far he had to swim from the spot he went overboard to the place where he landed, but indicated he did it fully clothed.

Monday night Mrs. Allen told the Colonist her husband was unavailable for comment on his adventure, because he was still sleeping.

Albertan Named To Administer Camosun College

Dr. Grant Fisher of Edmonton, a specialist in the administration of colleges, has been appointed principal of Victoria's Camosun College, due to open in September.

He will take up full-time duties in early June.

Dr. Fisher will be the first principal of the Community college, the ninth to be established in the province.

He is presently an associate professor of education at the University of Alberta in Edmonton, and co-ordinator of the university's college administration project.

There were 223 applications for the job, including 33 from B.C., 78 from the United States and seven from the United Kingdom.

Dr. Fisher, who is 35, has teaching experience in junior and senior high schools, college and university, and administration experience in public school, college and university.

He was the author of a study of the community college in Canada, published in 1967 by the University of Calgary, and his doctoral thesis was an analysis of the decision-making process in a college advisory capacity.

During the last year Dr. Fisher has supervised graduate students in college administration, and planned and promoted a college leadership program.

He has assisted the Alberta Colleges Commission to develop a master plan for the province's college system, and has studied community colleges in Alberta, B.C., Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho.

Before moving to the University of Alberta, Dr. Fisher was at Red Deer College from June 1968 until July 1970. There he served as registrar-administrative assistant, assistant dean, acting president and vice-president.

Dr. Fisher gained his Bachelor of Science degree at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, in 1960, and his Master of Science degree at the University of Utah, Salt Lake City, the following year.

In 1969 he received his PhD. at the University of Calgary.

'Stolen' Cash Recovered

A Victoria woman who told police Thursday $280 had been stolen from her home now has reported "no theft ever occurred," a police report said Monday.

The report said the woman, Mrs. Sylvia Boucher of 643 John, had reported theft of 14 $20 bills from her living room while she visited her brother in another suite at that address for half an hour. But, during the weekend, she found the money "in a bundle of dirty diapers."

Chief to Speak

Victoria Fire Chief Eric Simmons will speak at the regular noon meeting of the Rotary Club of Victoria on March 11 on fire prevention in the city.

Letters Pouring Into Oak Bay

Letters received by Oak Bay council in 1971 had already passed the 307 mark by Monday's regular meeting.

A municipal official observed that last year, correspondence hadn't reached that volume until August. Most of the correspondence to date this year has dealt with the proposed Royal Victoria Yacht Club breakwater.

Can Saanich 'Force Us to Pollute'?

"We're going to refuse to hook up to sewers when they are built," a Saanich woman told a meeting of the recently-formed Gordon Head and District Ratepayers' Association Monday night.

"We want to see whether the municipality can force us to pollute," said Mrs. Sheiagh Levey of 2046 Cass Marcia Crescent.

Mrs. Levey said the septic tank on their property was in good working order and she was against the dumping of raw sewage into Finnerty Cove.

After the meeting, Mrs. Sheila Hipsey of 4258 Gordon Head Road told the Colonist that "we will also refuse to hook up to sewers for the same reason."

Sewers are being planned for the area under a referendum passed in 1968 which provided for work to be completed within five years.

The two women were among about 75 persons who attended the meeting at the Fairburn elementary school.

Pro-tem chairman Wallace Panter told the meeting that the association had been registered under the Societies Act.

He said its object was to further the interests of the ratepayers of the area, to maintain the amenities and to ensure that development in the area takes place to the highest standard possible.

He outlined the boundaries of the area as Haro Strait on the north, McKenzie Avenue on the south, Cedar Hill Road on the west and Finnerty-Henderson on the east.

He said election of officers would be delayed for 30 days to give people time to pay their dues of $2 each at the meeting and thus be eligible to vote after a month.

Lorne Ross of the pro-tem board of directors said the association had to "put an end to helter-skelter, piecemeal planning."

He said, on the other hand, that it would be wrong to assume that Saanich doesn't have a plan for the area.

"The municipality does have a plan," he said, "but it is not a fixed one.

"You can't go to public hearing on an emotional basis," he added. "You have to know why you don't want certain zoning and you have to be able to say why."

He suggested that members plan their nights.

"The public hearings are a lot of fun to go to," he said. "They're better than sitting by that old TV set. And they're more fun if you have something to say and know what you're talking about.

"Go over to the municipal hall and bug them," he continued. "Ask to see their plan for your area. They've got to show it to you. They work for us."

Joint Negotiations Move Turned Down by Saanich

"Leap-frogging and playing one against the other" will be the result of a decision by Saanich to reject a proposal for joint negotiations of civic employee union contracts, Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock said Monday.

"I think it's most unfortunate and I'm very disappointed that Saanich has seen fit to turn down our offer," Haddock said.

Meanwhile, Oak Bay council Monday night empowered Mayor Frances Elford to formally conduct negotiations at the intermunicipal committee level with a view to having the four core municipalities certified as a single bargaining agent.

Ald. Brian Smith said the municipalities should pool their resources and hire professional negotiators to deal with labor unions.

Word from Saanich that the municipality isn't interested in joint negotiations as suggested by Victoria council came in a letter to the city Monday morning.

"Saanich municipal council is of the opinion that there are certain advantages to negotiating separately at present, and therefore does not wish to participate in joint negotiations," the letter stated.

Haddock said he admits there are some disadvantages to joint negotiations, but they "are by far outnumbered by the advantages."

Haddock also rejected criticism by Capital Regional Board chairman, Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis that Victoria is taking a parochial attitude to regional development.

"We co-operate with the region. I don't know why we should come under fire from Mayor Curtis," he said.

Curtis criticized Victoria for not sending a representative on a day-long tour of district hospitals Saturday. Officials from all other administrations in the area went on the trip which included inspections of Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney and Lady Minto Hospital on Salt Sprint Island.

"I've been in all these hospitals recently. I don't see how my presence or that of any of our aldermen could possibly have been helpful to Salt Spring residents," Haddock said.

Pensioners Urged To Join Protesters

The Victoria Old Age Pensioners Association No. 1 is appealing to all members to take part in a demonstration Wednesday at the B.C. legislative buildings.

The demonstration has been planned by the Old Age Pensioners Association of B.C. and more than 1,000 senior citizens are expected to arrive by bus from Vancouver.

They are to meet at the buildings at 1:30 p.m. to publicize their financial problems.

Grace Sherwood, president of the Victoria branch, said in an interview Monday "every member should attend that demonstration."

The event couldn't be publicized at the Victoria branch because it was planned after the last monthly meeting, she said.

"The more people we have at this demonstration, the better. We have about 400 members in Victoria and I hope that every one of them will be there."

Slash Fires Surround Hydro Site

B.C. Hydro's clearing crews Monday surrounded Mr. and Mrs. Pat Codyre with 12 slash fires after the Codyres' sewage and water systems had been broken by heavy equipment.

Hydro told Codyre almost one year ago — Friday, March 13, 1970 — that his home and four acres at 1890 Munn Road, Saanich, would be expropriated for a high-voltage line that will run from the new Pike Lake Substation to downtown Victoria.

However, the Codyres have refused to move for two reasons: they say Hydro instead should have used the vacant land behind their property and even if that was not the crown corporation's choice, it should provide the Codyres with a duplicate of the home and site that they owned.

Codyre has received a cheque for $22,500 from Hydro but says he needs at least $34,000 to buy a similar home and four acres elsewhere in Saanich.

He said the latest fuss started between 6:30 and 7 a.m. Monday, when the first of four bulldozers arrived and started piling the trees that had been cut two weeks ago.

"I just had one eye open," he said. "Since then I have been going like a bat out of hell."

Among about 30 visitors he had Monday was Ald. Leslie Passmore of Saanich, who told the Codyres that the municipal lawyer told Saanich council that nothing could be done for the four families that Hydro wanted to move from Munn Road.

Codyre telephoned Passmore to complain about the smoke after he tried to reach Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis.

"I got as far as the mayor's secretary. My name must be taboo," said Codyre.

In any case, said Codyre, the combination of bulldozers, visitors and the fires — "it's like Vietnam" — made his wife sick and she went to bed early.

He said the underground plastic water pipe was broken last week by heavy equipment. After the pipe from the 122-foot well broke, the Codyre's automatic water pump failed.

In addition, a bulldozer broke a tile septic tank, and it is now exposed.

Saturday Work

School Staffs Accept Pact

An agreement reached Sunday between janitors, tradesmen and grounds staff and the Greater Victoria school board will give the workers an increase of 8 per cent this year and 7½ per cent in 1972.

The threat of a strike was averted Sunday when the workmen, members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees voted 66 per cent in favor of the new contract.

On Monday the Greater Victoria school board finance and legal committee (a committee which comprises all members of the board) voted to recommend acceptance of the agreement to the board.

The agreement will, in effect, give the union members an increase of 25 cents an hour in 1971 and a similar boost in 1972.

An important aspect of the agreement is that the union has agreed to permit some janitors to work on a Tuesday to Saturday schedule.

This paves the way for the opening and use of schools for community use on weekends — a move which has been strongly urged by civic groups.

The board has agreed to pay janitors on an eight-hour basis on Saturdays for seven hours work.

The board has also agreed to pay janitresses at the same rate as janitors for the same type of work.

Vehicle Noise Checked

Noise-level meters are already in use in provincial motor vehicle inspection stations, according to a letter sent by Ray Hadfield, superintendent of Motor Vehicles, to Oak Bay municipal council.

"At this point, it is principally for the purpose of gathering information," he said in the letter.

"I might say that we have found the use of the noise level meter has been very helpful to our station management in convincing the owners of noisy vehicles that they needed to make alterations."

Council had sent Hadfield a copy of a letter from a resident complaining about noise from motor vehicles and enclosing a copy of a bylaw designed to prevent a problem.

Everybody Who Is Anybody!

NEW YORK (UPI) — The celebrities of the world of show business and former greats in the punch-taking business turned out like the old days in large numbers for the Clay-Frazier heavyweight championship fight.

Madison Square Garden was filled to its 19,500-capacity for the long-awaited clash between the two heavyweight title claimants — and down in the high-priced orange seats near the red velvet-roped ring were many familiar faces.

From the world of stage and screen there were singer Frank Sinatra, comedian Bill Cosby, singer Johnny Cash, and ancient Step-N-Fetch It.

Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis, two of the greatest heavyweight champions of all time, headed a turnout of former world boxing champions that was perhaps the most glittering ever assembled.

Also on hand were Tony Galento, Johnny Bratton, Joe Giardello, Bobcat Bob Montgomery, Jose Torres, Petie Scalzo, Emile Griffith and Gene Fullmer.

And, getting a lot of attention at ringside, was the 1968 Olympic heavyweight champion many believe will be challenging either Clay or Frazier for the world crown next year — huge, unbeaten George Foreman.

Walter Cronkite, Carol Lawrence, Gene Kelly, Lorne Green, Michael Caine, Mayor John Lindsay, Joe Namath, Sid Luckman, Lamar Hunt of the Kansas City Chiefs and his coach, Hank Stram, were at ringside.

It was a well-dressed crowd at ringside, where the prices of seats ran up to an official $150 and reportedly sold for a lot more than that unofficially.

Police manning the barricades had a tense, hectic moment when Diana Ross, former Supremes rock singer, showed up in black velvet hot pants.

Scalping got more hectic and more brazen as the opening bell approached. Seats in the blue section, far from the ring, were being offered for $125 to $150, but one entrepeneur added quickly, "I'll take $75." There were reports that ringside tickets were sold for $800.

Great Title Fight Demands Rematch - - - at Any Price

By JIM TANG

This one generally ranged in cost from the $10 charged in Victoria to a reported $100, and the question now is what will the price be for closed-circuit television watching when Cassius Clay and heavyweight-champion Joe Frazier meet in the rematch.

That there won't be a rematch is unthinkable. Monday night's 15 rounds have to go down as one of the great championship fights of boxing history — a bitter, supreme test of stamina and courage which was so close that it demands a return meeting.

Frazier and Clay were paid $2,500,000 each for this one, and it is conceivable that there could be a scramble to sign them up again for as much as double that.

Whatever is to happen, no one who paid to watch this first meeting between two previously-unbeaten champions can feel cheated.

PROBLEMATICAL

There were more than 2000 fans at Memorial Arena, and there couldn't have been one who left feeling that it hadn't been worth the $10. How much more than that they would be willing to pay for the return go may be problematical, but at $10 Memorial Arena would be sold out far in advance of fight night.

Although it seemed that Clay had the most vociferous fan support in Madison Square Garden, at least at the start, it was difficult to tell which had the most supporters in Memorial Arena. Cheers and boos seemed about evenly divided, and there was obviously some reluctant admiration, or fascination, for the posturings and mouthings of Clay, who remained a showman until the battle for survival became a bit too demanding.

CHEERS SHARED

The cheers were well shared during the never-ending action and there didn't appear to be any particular elation when the decision was rendered. There were cheers when the information was given that referee Arthur Mercante had scored it 8-6-1 but boos were as loud when it became known the judge Bill Recht had somehow seen it 11-4 for Frazier.

The concensus seemed to be that Frazier was indeed the winner, but for Clay there was the satisfaction that many who had thought he was a blow-hard who might come apart if he ever met a man who could put him to the test found out that they were wrong.

Both fighters came out of this one with enhanced stature, and their next audience in Victoria will include almost everyone who was there Monday.

Madison Square Garden . . . . . Haven for Peacocks

It Was Some Bash!

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The soul brothers and sisters, flamboyant in their minks and feathers, rubbed elbows with government chiefs, tycoons, sports heroes and astronauts Monday night at the spectacular heavyweight title fight between Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali.

It was some bash.

HOT PANTS

"I'm for Frazier," said Roberta Canada of Philadelphia, attired in a gaucho outfit of pink crushed velvet.

They were just part of the scene as 19,500 people swarmed into the huge arena to witness that has been acclaimed as the richest and most ballyhooed event in sports history.

NEST FOR PEACOCKS

The zoot suiters and the dandies, looking like resurrected personalities from the old river boat days, were impervious of the cordon of police and security men forming a ring of steel outside.

ASTRONAUTS THERE

They were Capt. Alan B. Shepard, Jr., Capt. Edgar D. Mitchell, Jr., and Lt. Col. Stuart A. Roosa. Mitchell wore a handsome beard.

A 'HAPPENING'

It was obvious that this was more than a fist fight. It was a happening—an event long to be remembered after other events have been forgotten. Its social impact was seen everywhere.

"Muhammad Ali has to win," said Ann Hines of Chester, Pa., nattily attired in leopard velvet that fit like paper on the wall from head to foot.

Guadalupe Ladino, a Puerto Rican dancer, was at ringside in hot pants and fur of harvest gold. Her escort, Joe Davis, was dressed in a pink suit and purple shirt.

One of the spectators was Manuel Benitez "El Cordobes", 34, Spain's champion bull-fighter.

"I would prefer to fight Clay and Frazier together rather than a bull," Manuel said, adding with a wink:

Victoria Bowler Wins YBC Title

NANAIMO — Liz Hess of Victoria won the girls' title in the Youth Bowling Council provincial tenpin crampionships at Fiesta Lanes Sunday with a 526 total for three games.

Miss Hess, a first-year University of Victoria student, had games of 159, 178, 189 to advance to the Canadian championships which will be held in Regina April 15 to 18.

Other winners were: bantam; Ron Allenby, Vancouver, 526; Rhonda Craig, Burnaby, 469; junior; Laura Querin, Coquitlam, 441; Bill McMullan, Burnaby, 557; senior; Brad White, Burnaby, 592.

White's victory in the senior boys' division was the most exciting of the event. He started with 236, bowled a 192 in his second game and slipped to 164 in his final game to win by two pins over a charging Steve McCabe of Vancouver, who came up with a 187 finish to narrowly miss.

Belmont Relieves Victoria of Title

Belmont Braves accomplished what is believed to be a first in the High School Senior Boys' Basketball League Monday night at Esquimalt High Scrool.

The Braves beat Vicoria Totems, 54-49, in a sudden-death game to decide the league championship. It is the first time in the history of the league that a team, other than Victoria and Oak Bay, have taken the league title. Braves and Totems finished the league schedule with 9-3 records.

In the game to decide fourth place, the final position for the south zone in the Vancouver Island championship, Oak Bay downed Reynolds Roadrunners, 42-28, at Esquimalt. Both teams had seven wins and five losses in league play.

Braves held a 27-22 advantage at halftime and then held the Totems even in the last half. Jim Kupiak, held to eight points in the opening half, broke loose for 11 more in the final half to top Belmont scorers with 19 points. Alan Martyn was Totems' high scorer with 12 points before fouling out.

Oak Bay coach Don Horwood didn't make a substitution in the game against the Roadrunners. It was a tense battle with the Bays ahead, 16-9, at the half. Mike Morrill had 19 points for the winners, 13 in the second half. Harry Hunter led Reynolds with 14 points.

VICTORIA (49) — Pete Grabowski 2, Jim Nemec 5, Ian Scott 8, Stu Taylor, Jim Griffin 6, Sean Flynn 5, Darnel Moss 1, Bruce Bingham, Mike Smith 7, Jon Woodhol, Kevin Townsend 5, Alan Martyn 12.

Hotel Douglas Leads Series

Second game is scheduled next Sunday in Port Alberni starting at 2 p.m.

Al Glover scored 20 points for Victoria, two more than teammate Pete Simmonds. Larry Lehtonen was top scorer for Port Alberni with 19 points, three more than John Drew.

Hockey Great Dies at 78

OTTAWA (CP) — Funeral services were held Monday for Harold 'Punch' Broadbent, a member of the Hockey Hall of Fame and last surviving member of one of the all-time great National Hockey League forward lines, who died Saturday. He was 78.

He played right wing on the line of Frank Nighbor and Cy Denneny that led Ottawa Senators to three straight Stanley Cup championships. He was named to the Hall of Fame in 1962.

Suspended

SEATTLE (AP) — Portland defenceman Rick Foley was suspended Monday for three games as a result of actions in a San Diego contest, western hockey league president Eugene Kinasewich announced. Kinasewich said he benched the Buckaroos player for actions in a Feb. 2 game in which Foley was assessed three minor penalties, two misconducts and one game misconduct.

Out for Season

Pittsburgh Penguins of the National Hockey League, with five other regulars out of the lineup, learned Monday that rookie Greg Polis would be lost for the balance of the season with mononucleosis. It was first believed that Polis was suffering from a severe case of the flu. Penguins have called up five players from their Amarillo, Tex., farm club.

Two tries by Ward Mitchell in the second half broke a 5-5 tie and Mount View Hornets went on to a 13-5 win over visiting Mt. Douglas Rams in a High School Rugby League match Monday.

Norm Baker scored a try and converted it in the opening half for Mount View while Doug Archibald went over for a try which was converted by Andy Hume for Mt. Douglas.

SAINT JOHN — Manitoba, represented by a St. Boniface rink skipped by Jim Dunstone, had the lead after three rounds of play in the Canadian mixed-rinks curling championship.

The Manitobans opened Sunday with a 10-5 win over Bobby Dillon's Prince Edward Islanders and remained unbeaten Tuesday with 9-7 victories over Nova Scotia's Nick Oldale and Horst Illing's Newfoundlanders.

Also unbeaten but with only two victories was two-time champion Larry McGrath. He had the bye Sunday and then took Monday wins over P.E.I., by 6-5, and Nova Scotia, by 12-4.

British Columbia, represented by Kelly Carin of Kamloops, was in striking distance, at 2-1, with Ed Steeves of New Brunswick and Vince Lebano of Ontario.

Carin was upset, 7-5, by Nova Scotia on Sunday but bounced back Monday to overcome Newfoundland, 8-5, and Northern Ontario, 12-11. A three on the last end was needed to whip Harvey Caron's Timmins rink.

Oak Bay Repels Hoop Challenge

Oak Bay repelled a challenge from Belmont and advanced, along with Campbell River and Island-champion Claremont, to the B.C. high school girls' basketball championship at Victoria High School Mar. 17 to 20.

Oak Bay, third-place finishers in the Island tournament at Campbell River last weekend, defeated Belmont, 29-24, Monday at Oak Bay High School. Belmont, fourth-place finishers at Campbell River, exercised its right to challenge for the final Island berth.

Claremont, the defending B.C. champion, defeated Campbell River, 27-21, in the final Saturday. Claremont reached the final with a 23-12 win over Oak Bay in the semi-finals while Campbell River advanced by defeating Victoria, 32-22.

BATTLE FOR THIRD

In the battle for third place, Oak Bay downed Victoria, 24-17, place. Belmont gained fourth place be edging Courtenay, 24-23.

Joanne Van Schaik of Oak Bay was voted the tournament's most valuable player and was named to the all-star team along with Lorna McHattie and Laurie Atkinson of Claremont and Edna Ritchie and Kathy Jones of Campbell River.

RUNNERS-UP

Runners-up in the all-star voting were Terry Godfrey and Sue Metcalfe of Victoria, Joanne Chalmers and Cathy Auburne of Belmont and Pam McKee of Nanaimo.

Kathy Walls topped Oak Bay's scoring Monday with 12 points. Aneita Strauss added eight points for the winners. Miss Auburne had eight points for Belmont.

In Contention

HALIFAX — Moe Hill of Victoria, after suffering his first loss earlier in the day, bounced back Monday to trim Northern Ontario, 8-3, to remain in the running of the Canadian Police Association's curling championship.

Roy Steg of Ottawa, who defeated Hill, 8-2, was the only unbeaten rink in the double-knockout competition.

J. C. Snead Wins Second Golf Title

MIAMI — Jesse Carlyle Snead, whose greatest claim to fame until two weeks ago was being a nephew of Slammin' Sam, calmly carved a closing 69 Sunday to win the Doral Eastern Open golf tournament with a total of 275.

Snead, a former professional baseball player who took up tour golf just four years ago, won his first major event, the Tucson Open, two weeks earlier and his $30,000 prize money at Doral boosted his earnings to $57,000. He won just over $11,000 last year, his third full season on the tour.

His 72-hole total over the 7028-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club was one stroke better than Gardner Dickinson, who also had 69 on the final round.

APPLIED PRESSURE

Dickinson, trailing by two strokes playing the 18th hole, knocked in an eight-foot birdie putt to move within the stroke as Snead played up the 18th fairway.

But Snead was equal to the pressure, covering the flag with his approach shot after a perfect drive, and rimming the cup with his first putt. A tap in gave him the win.

OUT OF PACK

Veteran Miller Barber came out of the pack with birdies on the last three holes for a 68 and 278 and his $10,650 prize pushed him into first place in earnings for the year with more than $79,000.

Gibby Gilbert had a 71 Sunday for 279 and was alone in fourth place while Australian Bruce Devlin, brash young Bruce Fleisher and Terry Dill, followed at 280.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of the PGA title last week, was just three strokes off the pace going into Sunday's final round but bogeyed the first hole and never seriously threatened. He finished with 73 and 282.

PALMER AT 287

Arnold Palmer had a 70 for 287 and it marked the ninth consecutive round, since winning the Bob Hope Desert Classic three weeks ago, that he had failed to break 70.

George Knudson of Toronto posted a 73 Sunday for 290 to win $360 while Ken Fulton of Montreal slipped to 77 for 291 and $231.

Merseyside Hope Ends with Draw

LONDON (AP) — The dream of the fanatical soccer followers of Merseyside — an English Cup final between the two great local rivals Liverpool and Everton — was shattered by the semi-finals draw Monday.

Liverpool and Everton were drawn to play each other — if Liverpool wins its replay against Tottenham Hotspur.

The other semi-final will be between Stoke City and the winner of the Arsenal-Leicester City replay.

The semi-finals are scheduled for March 27. The final — the showpiece finale of the English season — is at Wembley Stadium May 8.

A Liverpool-Everton final would have made soccer history.

Everton has won the cup three times and been defeated finalists four times since 1893. Liverpool has won the trophy only once, in 1965.

An all-London final between Arsenal and Tottenham is still possible. The last time that happened was in 1967 when Tottenham defeated Chelsea.

Esquimalt Quartet Daffodil Winner

Phillis Bird, Onilea Crothers, Laurel Eby and Marie Thyne Sunday won the primary Eaton event and top honors in the annual Daffodil Bonspiel at the Victoria Curling Club.

The last victory in the unbeaten run of six for the Esquimalt foursome was a 9-5 decision over Verle McKeown of the host club.

A VCC-Esquimalt combination skipped by Jessie Kinneard scored five straight wins after an opening loss and came away with the trophies and first prize in the Hudson's Bay event.

Defeated in the extra-end final was a Vancouver rink entered by Maj Doan and skipped by Erie Cunningham.

Gerry Rees of Playland won the Gar's Trophies event, Vancouver-veteran Marg Hurst won the Evergreen event and Kay McDonald of the VCC won the Daffodil event.

Gorge Molsons started the weekend with a one-third share of first place in the Victoria and District Soccer League's first division and came out of it with a half share.

Molsons dumped last-place Hourigans, 5-1, Sunday at Central Park to rejoin Victoria West at the top. Wests moved out of a three-way deadlock with a 2-0 win Saturday over Roadrunners.

Sixth-place Oak Bay shut out fourth-place University of Victoria Vikings, 2-0, at Topaz Park Sunday on goals by Stan Wiseman and Tony Fantillo.

Bill Walker scored three times and Peter Brett twice for Gorge, who have a game in hand over Wests. Jos De Bruin got Hourigans' goal.

In the second division, Keith Todd's goal was the only score of the game as Centrury Inn beat last-place Labatts, 1-0, at Beacon Hill Park Sunday. The win moved Century Inn into a second-place tie with Victoria West and Saanich Peninsula.

Gorge defeated London Boxing Club, 4-1, Casuals trimmed Stein Construction, 7-1, and Oak Bay blanked Songhees, 4-0, Sunday in third-division matches.

Mike Walsh scored 20 points, 17 by kicking, in Castaways' 41-6 triumph over Cowichan Sunday in a Victoria Rugby Union first-division match played at Brentwood College.

Walsh had a try, penalty goal and seven converts. Craig Dalziel (3), Gillie Greig (2) and Tom Browne (2) scored the other tries. Cowichan's points were by Ian Milne and Larry Thibodeau, who scored one try each.

At Macdonald Park Sunday, Mainland Juniors edged Island Juniors, 8-6, in the final of a three-match trial series while Mainland Colts defeated a Victoria high school all-star squad, 11-5. The trial series will be used to select a provincial side to play a touring Japanese team later this month.

Hyde Wins

Terry Hyde won all four heats in the first scramble of the season held by the Victoria Motorcycle Club Sunday on the club grounds on Happy Valley Road. Second place went to Martin Spriggs.

Penticton Broncos, Okanagan-division leaders in the B.C. Junior Hockey League, were happy to be back in their home confines Monday.

The Broncos, beaten 0-3 in New Westminster Friday and 1-5 in Victoria Saturday, blew a 5-2 lead they had built by early in the second period and bowed, 7-8, to Vancouver Centennials to end a disastrous road trip.

EIGHT SCORERS

Powell River Pee Wees Win Title

Powell River swept through the Vancouver Island pee wee hockey championship undefeated to advance to the provincial tournament at Trail, Mar. 20 and 21.

Dan Lucas, who scored nine goals in Powell River's wins Saturday over Victoria and Saanich, got two more in a 6-2 victory Sunday over Port Alberni at Memorial Arena. In the final game of the two-day championship, Saanich downed Victoria, 7-3. Wayne Larsen scored three goals to finish second in goal-scoring with eight.

Saanich finished with a 2-1 record, Victoria was 1-2 and Port Alberni was winless in its three games.

Canucks Could Still 'Earn' First Amateur Draft Pick

Montreal Canadiens may yet lose the chance to add Guy LaFleur, much publicized scoring star of the Quebec Junior Hockey League, to their line-up.

The right to make the first choice in next June's draft of junior talent goes to the National Hockey League club which ends the season with the worst record. Up until a month ago California Seals appeared to have a lock on that, and that meant that Canadiens who had obtained Seals' first draft choice in a trade, would be the lucky club.

THINGS CHANGING

Canucks have closed in despite the fact that the Seals have lost five and tied two of their last seven games.

While this was going on Canucks contrived to lose the first six games of a seven-game road trip and now have only three more points than the Seals. Canucks's sixth successive setback, boosting their winless streak through an eighth game, came Sunday night in Buffalo, where the Sabres meted out a 6-3 beating.

ANOTHER REMINDER

Gil Perreault, the player Canucks almost certainly would have taken if they had won the right to draft last June, scored two of the Buffalo goals to tie a league rookie record.

The scoring shots were the 33rd and 34th for the 20-year-old centre. The first NHL rookie to score 34 goals was Nels Stewart, who did it in the 1925/26 season for Montreal Maroons. Danny Grant of Minnesota North Stars and Norm Ferguson of the Seals tied it in the 1968/69 season.

Perreault has 14 games left in which to get the record all to himself.

PICTURE PLAYS

Both of Perreault's Sunday goals came on picture plays, and the last one brought a standing ovation from the capacity Buffalo crowd of 10,429 fans. When the game was over Perreault needed a police escort to get through a crowd of several hundred youngsters who waited for him outside the dressing room.

WINNING GOAL

Canucks came from 0-2 to 2-2 and from 2-3 to 3-3 but Dale Tallon, the first rookie choice of the Canucks last June, drew a penalty at 6:56 of the third period and Larry Keenan scored what was to be the winning goal on the resultant power play.

Perreault then got the 5-3 goal on another power play and Gerry Meehan put it out of reach at 15:43 when he scored his 20th goal of the season.

Biggest Sunday development in the battle for playoff positions came in the West Division, where Minnesota's improving North Stars took over third place by defeating Philadelphia Flyers.

North Stars are now two points ahead of the Flyers, who have two games in hand, and six points ahead of the fifth-place Pittsburgh Penguins, who have played one less game than the Minnesotans.

Penguins gained slightly on on the Flyers by getting a 3-3 tie with the Seals in a strange game in Pittsburgh.

Seals had a 3-0 lead until the fourth minute of the third period, then the Penguins scored three goals in less than four minutes.

In other Sunday action, Montreal Canadiens scored a 4-1 win over Detroit Red Wings, New York Rangers were 4-2 conquerors of Los Angeles Kings and Boston Bruins tramped on by subduing St. Louis Blues, 4-1.

Frank Mahovlich clicked twice on pretty set-ups and goal keeper Rogatien Vachon had a standout game to lead Canadiens.

Canadiens are now 12-2-1 in their last 15 games but they can't close in on the second-place Rangers, who are determinder to avoid meeting Bruins in the first round of the playoffs.

Rangers are 7-0-1 or their last eight games, and it was Ted Irvine who made the seventh win possible.

Irvine, a rugged winger known more for this accomplishments on defence, scored three times in the third period to undo his former teammates. He was obtained from the Kings in February, 1970, in exchange for Juha Widing and Real Lemieux.

CLOSE TO RECORDS

Phil Esposito, now only one goal away from tying Bobby Hull's record, and two points short of his record of 126, scored his 57th goal and had an assist in the Boston victory.

And the victory gave Bruins 103 points, tying the league record set two seasons ago by Canadiens.

Windowsilling

I think most home gardeners like to get a head start on the season by sowing a few of their seeds indoors, bringing them along in warmth so as to have a supply of sturdy young plants for setting out after the weather has become settled. A greenhouse, or a coldframe with a soil-heating cable, can be a great help in such a project, but it is quite possible to raise healthy plants without these aids, simply using a sunny windowsill.

There are one or two precautions to be observed, though, and one of them is not to start your seeds too early. Even though your seed-raising windowsill may be sunny and bright, the plants won't get as many hours of sunlight as they would in a proper greenhouse; moreover, the light comes from only one direction. If starved for sunshine over too long a period, baby plants become "drawn" from reaching for inadequate light, and they grow tall and skinny rather than short and stocky.

Generally speaking, I don't like to keep seedling plants in a house window for much more than about six weeks for this reason, figuring from the time the seeds come up. If you know the approximate date for setting out the plants, you can figure backwards and calculate the sowing date.

For example, let's work out a sowing date for, say, tomato seeds. In early protected areas it is usually safe to set out tomato plants by the middle of May, although in low-lying frost pockets it is wiser to wait until June 1. In our case, let's compromise and decide we'll do our planting over the May 24 holiday weekend — say, on Saturday, May 22.

Figuring back six weeks from this date brings us to April 10, which is when we want our tomato seedlings to emerge. Tomato seeds take from 5 to 10 days to germinate, so we'll figure on another week and sow our seeds on Saturday, April 3.

Mind you, this is presuming your little tomato plants are going to be sitting in your kitchen windowsill for the whole of the six-week period; in a greenhouse, with its overhead and all-round light, they could be started much earlier without danger of developing spindly "drawn" plants.

Even with windowsill culture, though, if you are prepared to do a little extra work and take a bit more trouble with your plants, you can advance your sowing date by as much as two weeks, starting them around the third week in March. What you must do in this case is see that your baby tomato plants get more light, more unobstructed sunshine, more fresh air and generally cooler conditions in the two or three week period prior to setting out the plants.

About the best way to do this is to move your trays of baby plants outdoors during the sunny daylight hours, bringing them back in again for the night to escape chilling. The day time temperature needn't be very high, for most of our commonly grown plants will make some growth, even if slowly, at 50 degrees.

Some shelter will be needed from cold spring winds, though, for these can chill the plants and give them a setback; tomato plants in particular can be reluctant to resume growth after such a setback, just sitting there doing nothing at all for weeks on end. They must be protected from heavy rain, too, which could batter tiny plants into the ground.

Toting trays of plants back and forth in this fashion, morning and night, can be quite a bothersome chore, but this gradual acclimatization to outdoor living makes for grand, sturdy little plants which will forge ahead in good style after planting out.

While we have used tomato plants in this example, the principle applies equally to marigolds, petunias, cabbages or what have you.

WASHINGTON —I don't mind the Pentagon lying to me on a large scale such as when they flatly stated a few months ago that they were not keeping any files on civilians.

But it's their little lies that get me down. For example, the other day it was revealed that a rusty piece of oil pipe Secretary of Defence Melvin Laird showed to newspapermen and implied had been captured during the Laos offensive turned out to be over a year old and had nothing to do with the recent Laos incursion.

Laird was trying to use the pipe to prove the South Vietnamese were making great headway and had managed to cut the North Vietnamese oil supplies in Laos.

When the truth was discovered, the Pentagon naturally protested; they never said it was this year's pipe.

Well, it doesn't take much imagination to realize what some future Pentagon briefings are going to be like.

I can just see us all filing into the Pentagon briefing room where Laird, wearing his usual ebullient smile, welcomes us. Besides the usual maps, a display of weapons and supplies are on the stage.

Laird says, "Gentlemen, I am happy to report that the South Vietnamese have just captured a large cache of weapons in Laos." He holds up a rifle.

"I said, is that rifle one of the weapons captured in Laos?"

"Well, yes and no," Laird replies. "This rifle actually was found after Custer's last stand at Little Big Horn. But our intelligence indicates the weapons discovered look just like it."

"Is that a Laotian chicken?"

"Would you please speak louder?"

"Is that a chicken from Laos?"

Laird confers with a general and then smiles and says, "No, this chicken was captured at the end of the First World War. But we wanted to give you some idea of the success of the ARVN mission. Are there any questions?"

"What are those ration cans over there, sir?"

"Oh, yes, we captured five tons of those two days ago in Cambodia."

"But there is German printing on the labels."

Laird confers with the generals. Then he smiles and says, "I erred. These cans come from the Battle of the Bulge in the Second World War. But we wanted to give you some idea how sneaky the enemy really can be.

"Mr Secretary, where did the sandbags come from?"

"Did you fly the sandbags all the way back to Washington?"

He confers with the general again.

"No, not exactly. These sandbags were captured at the Battle of Iwo Jima. We thought you might be interested to note how far behind the enemy was in sandbag design. Are there any questions?"

"Is that everything that was captured?"

Laird smiles. "Except for one small surprise." He presses a buzzer. The large doors of the briefing room open and a Chinese tank rumbles into the room."

"What do you think of that, gentlemen?"

"Where did you get it?"

"We captured it at Inchon during the Korean war. Let this be an answer to those who say Vietnamization isn't working."

Sydney Harris
Thinks Aloud

A great many people feel "guilty" about things they shouldn't feel guilty about, in order to shut out feelings of guilt about the things they should feel guilty about.

One way to reconcile the apparent conflict between our "individuality" and our "commonality" is to imagine a circle of infinite circumference, with each person standing on one point of it; so that while each of us has his own individual radius, each radius extends to a common centre.

Just imagine how many dozens of things not invented yet will be appliances our grandchildren won't be able to do without.

The most foolish and unanswerable question I can imagine is: "Why did they marry each other?"—for the reasons are customarily so tangled and contradictory that recomposing the motivations is as futile as trying to unspread butter.

What many politicians still don't seem to understand is that the man who throws the most mud loses the most ground.

"Civilization at the crossroads" is such an outmoded phrase, since those frustrating cloverleafs have been devised; it's now not a question of which road we take, but of where and how to get off before it's too late.

Conferences are often jeered at as a waste of time, but their negative virtue was understood by Scott Fitzgerald, when he pointed out: "No grand idea was ever born in a conference, but a lot of foolish ideas have died there."

After the novelty wears off, opposites retract.

One man's "ambrosia" is another man's "ragweed." (If you don't believe it, look it up.)

If every aspirant for public office were compelled to spend one week in prison before being allowed on the ballot, the first item on every legislative agenda would be for radical prison reform. (And maybe that's the only way it will come.)

A "primitive" country is one in which the natives have no need for locks on the doors.

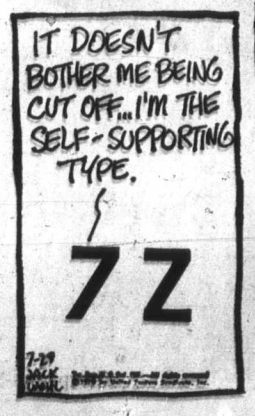

What conservative religionists still do not recognize was expressed by the great philosopher, Whitehead, many decades ago, when he said: "Religion will not regain its old power until it can face change in the same spirit as does science."

MARILYN BECK

Just for fun, I asked 25 people to hum the five songs up for Academy Awards. The only one most of them knew was Till Love Touches Your Life. Seeing this is the year when Academy voters seem to be going for the people's choice, I've a hunch, and I hope, the Arthur Hamilton song will win.

Tom Smothers is producing a movie for TV. He and his partner, Bob Einstein, are rather mysterious about it all. Bob explained, "We really can't talk about it yet, but it's the kind of thing you think 'Emmy' about." It's funny. Aaron Spelling, perhaps the most successful producer in the TV business, has the theory, "When you start looking for an Emmy, you usually end up with a flop."

Dominoes Named Best-Ever Team

VANCOUVER — Victoria Dominoes, unbeaten in league or playoff action on their way to the Canadian men's basketball championship in 1946, have been named as the British Columbia team of the century.

The choice was made by a committee appointed by the B.C. Sport Federation and the announcement made following a Saturday night dinner.

Chuck Chapman received the trophy on behalf of his teammates. It was brought to Victoria but it is planned to offer it for display in the B.C. Sport Hall of Fame in Vancouver.

Selected as the athletes of the century were sprinter Harry Jerome of Vancouver and skier Nancy Greene Raine.

Other awards went to high-jumper Debbie Brill of Haney as the senior athlete of the year; Ken Olnyk of Vancouver as the outstanding high school athlete; George Athans of Kelowna, a water-skier, as the university athlete of the year and Vancouver Calonas, national women's volleyball champions, as team of the year.

Swimmer Donna-Marie Gurr of Vancouver was picked as the best junior athlete and figure-skater Karen Magnussen of North Vancouver, who won the Canadian championship this year, received a special award for the comeback of the year. She suffered fractures of both legs in 1969.

According to the Solunar Tables calculated for this area, the best times for hunting and fishing today and tomorrow will be as follows (Times shown are Pacific Standard Time):

TODAY

A.M.		P.M.
Minor	Major	Minor	Major
2:45	9:15	3:10	9:35

TOMORROW

3:25	9:55	3:50	10:15

Minor periods, shorter in duration, light type.

Esquimalt Wins Club Skating Title

North American Record Cracked

Seventeen records were established and one North American mark broken Saturday during the annual British Columbia indoor speedskating championships at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Marion Wiles of Fort St. John flashed over the 800-metre in one minute, 33 seconds to crack the North American mark of 1:43.3 set in New York. Miss Wiles also won the 400-metre and 1000-metre races to sweep the intermediate class.

BROKE RECORDS

Establishing records were Carol Ljuden of Fort St. John (2), Tommy Ljuden of Fort St. John (2), Don Smith of Esquimalt (2), Marie Hughes of Fort St. John (2), Miss Wiles, Allan Overend of Vancouver Haida Club, Stuart Ostlund of Haida, Bill Pickering of Haida, Jimmy Michaels of Esquimalt, Forrest Lavik of Fort St. John, Kirstine Henriksen, Darrock Aylward, and Jane Swanson, all of Dawson Creek.

ESQUIMALT WINS

Host Esquimalt won the club championship with 189 points to 118 for Dawson Creek, 95 for Fort St. John and 53 for the Haida Club.

Class championships were won by Carol Ljuden, Tommy Ljuden, Marie Hughes, Forrest Lavik, Miss Wiles and Gordie Bodner, all of Fort St. John; Jane Swanson, Darrock Aylward, Leanne Mitchell and Kirstine Henriksen of Dawson Creek; Stuart Ostlund and Bill Pickering of Vancouver; and Don Smith, Stuart Kennedy, Jim Entzminger, Kim Cammiade and Doug Sneddon, all of Victoria.

New Records Set At Swim Meet

VANCOUVER — Two swimmers from Santa Clara, Calif., had outstanding performances in the two-day, eighth annual international swim meet sponsored by the Canadian Dolphin Swim Club and held at Simon Fraser University pool.

Tracey Finnerman set a North American mark in the senior women's 400-metre free-style event with a time of 4:30.4 minutes. The previous record was 4:31.6 minutes set in 1968 by Debbie Meyer of the United States. The previous mark was also established in Vancouver.

Karen Moe capped a great weekend with a Canadian open record Sunday, her third in two days, winning the 100-metre butterfly event in 1:05.2 minutes to knock three-tenths of a second off a 1970 mark set by Lynn Collela of Seattle.

On Saturday, Miss Moe set the Canadian open standards in the 200-metre freestyle with a time of 2:09.4 minutes, knocking a second and a half off the previous mark, and 2:20.0 minutes in the 200-metre butterfly, 1.4 seconds faster than another record set by Lynn Collela.

Canadian Dolphins took the team title with 693 points, followed by Santa Clara Swim Club (531), Jasper Place Swim Club of Edmonton (328) and the Acquabears of San Francisco (226). A total of 38 clubs participated in the meet.

Members of the Victoria Olympians and Juan de Fuca swim clubs from Victoria participated with the best showing by Cohoes' Doug Portelance, who was third in the 11-and-12-year-olds' 100-metre backstroke event.

English XI Gains Draw

AUCKLAND (Reuter) — England salvaged a draw in the second cricket test against New Zealand at Eden Park here Sunday and leave for home having scored a 1-0 triumph in the two-match series.

The New Zealanders, well placed at resumption to score their first win over England, saw their hopes crushed by Alan Knott who went close to his second century of the match before being dismissed for 96.

Scores: England 321 and 237; New Zealand 313 for seven and 40 for no wicket.

New Denture Invention

Plastic Cream Discovery Revolutionizes Denture Wearing

For the first time science offers a plastic adhesive cream that helps hold dentures—both uppers and lowers—as they've never been held before. It forms an elastic membrane that helps hold dentures firmer for hours.

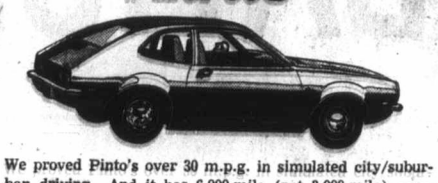

It's FIXODENT™—the easy-to-use discovery that holds dentures firmer and more comfortably, too.

Because FIXODENT is so elastic, you may now bite harder, chew better, eat more naturally.

'Disloyalty'

Gorton Aide Resigns

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI)—The cabinet of Prime Minister John Gorton was thrown into a political crisis Monday with the resignation of Defence Minister Malcolm Fraser, who accused Gorton of "disloyalty" to him.

Exactly how serious the split was in Liberal party ranks — and how much political advantage the opposition Labor party could make of it — appeared to depend on a motion of censure and debate scheduled in Parliament today.

Gorton, leader of a coalition government of the Liberal and Country parties, had the numbers to keep from being ousted as chief of state. Much, however, depended on how well he controls his restive parliamentary colleagues.

In his letter of resignation to Gorton, Fraser said: "This letter is to advise you that I have considered the events of recent days carefully and deliberately. I regard your conduct as prime minister as one which indicates significant disloyalty to a senior minister.

Fraser's resignation was the second by a senior cabinet minister under Gorton. Last year David Fairbairn quit his post as national development minister because he said he had lost confidence in Gorton's leadership.

The current crisis stemmed from news reports from Australian army headquarters in Vietnam indicating that Australia's army administered civil aid program there was being terminated as soon as possible.

Dockyard Talks To Resume

HALIFAX (CP) — Representatives of 2,000 naval dockyard workers on Canada's east and west coasts are scheduled to return to the bargaining table with a negotiator for the federal Treasury Board Wednesday.

Meanwhile, picket lines were scheduled to be set up around dockyard facilities at Halifax, a spokesman for the dockyard's trades and labor council said here Sunday. He said the Ottawa meeting is an attempt "to reach a wage contract which will be ratified by the membership."

The Esquimalt workers last week voted 63 per cent against a strike, but the vote was 75 per cent in favor.

Pink Catch Restricted

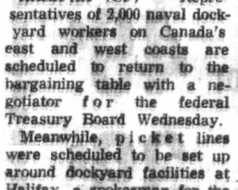

VANCOUVER (CP) — All pink salmon taken by purse seine in the Johnstone Strait July 25 to Aug. 21 will have to be released.

W. R. Houston, fisheries director for the Pacific region, said this is one of several restrictions laid down to protect an "extremely poor" return of 370,000 pink salmon this year.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a husky, healthy 37-year-old man—a perfect physical specimen. Yet we have no social life, no home life and very little sex life. Why? Because he sleeps all the time.

Whenever we go anyplace he asks me to drive (even to the store) so he can sleep. He sleeps in front of the TV, sleeps when we go to a movie, sleeps during basketball games and has even fallen asleep playing poker. His idea of a vacation is to crawl in bed and sleep for an hour or two three times a day.

Three months ago at my insistence he had his thyroid and blood sugar checked and his heart and stomach x-rayed. When the doctor said, "He's healthy as a horse," I asked, "Why does he sleep so much?" The answer was, "He's probably tired." Ann, he doesn't lift a finger when he comes home from work. Any suggestions?—Mrs. Rip Van Winkle.

Dear Mrs. Rip: Your "healthy-as-a-horse" husband probably has a metabolic system that requires more rest than most people. Add to this the possibility that he is bored. Sleep can be an escape. Try this experiment the next time the horse falls asleep outside of bed: Wake him up and ask him what he'd really like to do. If he says "sleep," I give up.

F Not for Effort

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the mother whose son was selling his homework prompted me to write.

I am a teacher who has had considerable experience with cheaters. The student who believes he can copy homework and get away with it is stupid. It is easy for a teacher to discern which student prepared the original work and which student copied it.

At the beginning of each semester, I announce that any student who copies or allows his work to be copied will automatically get an F. I than hand out a memo so there will be no misunderstanding. This has virtually eliminated cheating in my classes. Of course a few smarties have to test me, but they soon discover I mean business. Print this if you like, but no name or city, please.—Albert's Teacher.

Dear Teacher: Thanks for your letter, and for the attached memo which I would like to reprint.

Memo To Those Who Allow Their Work To Be Copied:

You are cheating the person who copies. If he fails to do his assignment he does not learn. If he does not learn he cannot do well on his exam. Are you being fair to him?

You are cheating the classmate who has not done his assignment but is honest enough to admit it. This person, though unprepared, is at least assuming responsibility for himself. Are you being fair to him?

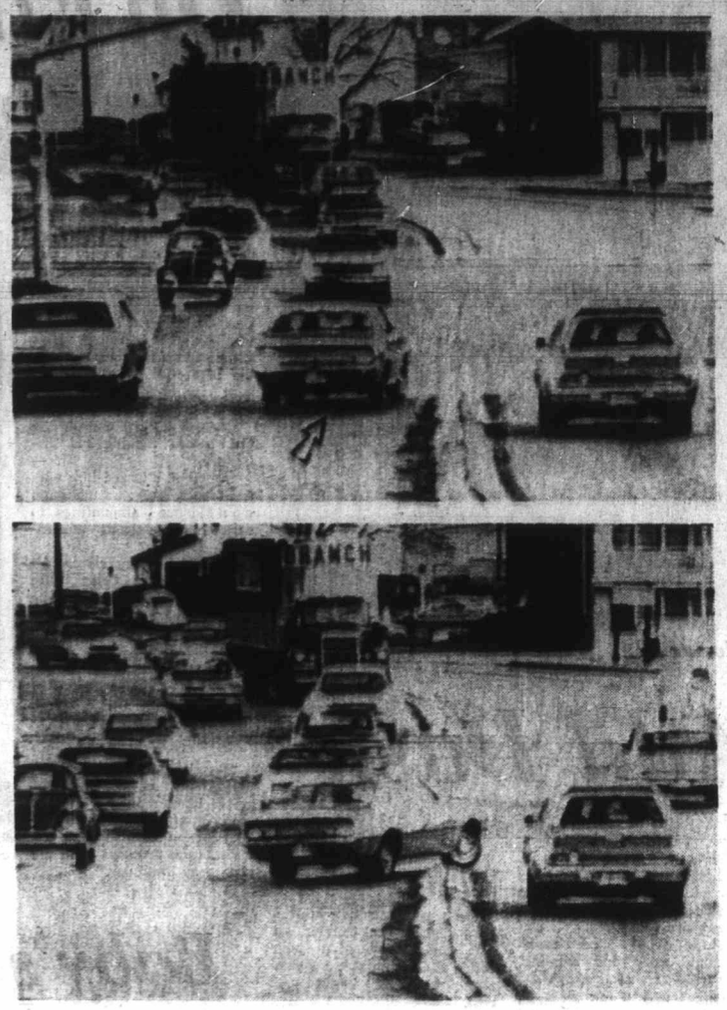

You are taking a chance on being found out and receiving an F. Are you being fair to yourself?

Memo To Those Who Copy From Others:

You are cheating the person who has done the work. If he gets caught he gets an F. Are you being fair to him?

You are cheating the classmate who has not done his work but is honest enough to take responsibility for himself. Are you being fair to him?

You are not getting the benefit of learning nor will you be able to pass the exam when the time comes. Are you being fair to yourself?

Soviet Women Take Day Off

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW (UPI) — March 8 is the one day of the year when every Soviet women is supposed to be a queen and every man is her slave.

This year it is a three-day holiday, for men as well as women, since if the women are to relax and be served, do the household chores.

Sunday shops were already virtually cleared of perfumes, chocolates, apparel dainties, flowers and all other conceivable gifts.

Were is not for the Georgians with an eye for a fast ruble there would be no flowers, which here, as in most capitalist countries, is a symbol of appreciation of the fair sex.

Flower Fortune

The enterprising Georgians, who live in a subtropical climate, have been filling up planes with flowers and minting a fortune on the icy streets of Moscow by charging one ruble ($1.11) for one flower.

"Women's day" started 61 years ago when Clare Zetkin, a German Communist leader, persuaded an international conference of women at Copenhagen to declare March 8 "the international working women's day of struggle for liberation and equality."

On the theory that women have been completely emancipated here since the Russian revolution of 1917, the holiday has become one to mark "the struggle for peace and democracy."

Actual usage, however, has made it a combination of mother's and Valentine days with the accent on Valentine.

The state retail traders have borrowed a page from their capitalist counterparts by pushing special wares for women's day when every man simply must buy a gift for every woman who means anything to him — not only for mother, wife or sweetheart.

Accordingly the atmosphere on the eve of women's day somewhat resembles the pre-Christmas week in the West. Men are urged to do their shopping early.

By definition, a women's liberation movement here is inconceivable since the Soviet constitution, statutes and propaganda assert that liberation occurred in 1917.

How emancipated is Soviet womenhood?

There is no question about full and equal rights for women, including equal pay for equal work. And the work could not be "more equal" since women do almost everything from high level political leadership to digging in the coal mines and shovelling snow.

Figures Impress

Women constitute more than one half of the national labor force (the war left a legacy of an excess of 20 million women over men.)

More than 50 per cent of secondary school and university graduates are women.

About 75 per cent of physicians, and most of the school teachers, are women, yet the most eminent physicians, surgeons and educators are men.

Few at Top

Almost one quarter of the members of the Supreme Soviet, the country's highest legislative body, are women. But there is only one woman member of the Council of Ministers and none in the ruling Politburo of the Communist Party.

Why such a disproportion of women at the highest level of cultural, economic and political life?

There is no official explanation but popularly one hears the same reasoning as in the West, such as:

- It takes several generations of equal opportunity before women can match men in all endeavors.
- Women are physically and psychologically different, for which reason they are not subject to military service.

Hazardous Jobs

As the disproportion of Soviet women to men decreases, women are increasingly kept out of hazardous occupations such as mining and steel blasting.

There are also some who argue "male chauvinism" and are especially critical of the late Josef Stalin who ruled for three decades. Stalin reputedly did not like to work with women and kept them out of high office.

While equality of the sexes is granted, women still bear the double burden of outside employment and household chores.

There is, however, a rebellion among the younger generation of women who insist that men help with the shopping, cooking and cleaning up.

ERMA BOMBECK Hears Forked Aerial

TV Old West 'Right On'

Either my television set is speaking with forked aerial or the Indians weren't as primitive as I have been led to believe.

The other night I was watching a saga of the Old West in which an Indian guide, Leaping Fink, was reporting to Captain Baldwin, commander of Fort Sickie.

"I see many braves at this moment on their way to Fort Sickie," he related, spreading his arms in a wide circle. "I say we meet them in a surprise attack at Acid Rock."

Captain Baldwin rubbed his hand over his brow slowly, then said tiredly, "As you wish, Leaping Fink. Move 'em out."

Leaping Fink stood erect and through capped teeth smiled, "Right on, Captain."

I kept telling myself Leaping Fink had probably just been to a Jane Fonda rally, but in the weeks that followed I noticed other discrepancies.

One night on the Late Show as I saw an Indian crouched behind a rock stalking an animal, I noticed he had been vaccinated for tetanus, lockjaw and hepatitis.

Later, as they staged a dance around the campfire, I had the distinct feeling Peter Gennaro had choreographed the entire thing.

One young brave on Gunsmoke one night looked so familiar. It wasn't until later I realized my daughter had worn the same beaded outfit and headband to school that day.

The thing that I regret is that children no longer can romanticize about the Old West.

"Look at that," I said excitedly, "Can you imagine setting out on a horse and covered wagon to blaze unchartered trails on a lonely strip of barren land? Only a handful made it."

"No wonder," said my youngest, "The wheels are going backwards."

"They're not really going backwards," I said, "It just photographs that way on television."

"Well, if they knew they were making a series for television, why didn't they stay home and live off the residuals?"

"You don't understand," I explained patiently. "These are only re-enactments of the hard life of the Old West."

"It couldn't have been too hard," said my daughter, "Miss Lovable and Miss Clairol made the trip. Get a load of that Indian maiden."

Makes you wonder, doesn't it? Were the Indians victims of fire water? Or was it an ineffective mouthwash?

Weekend wag has welcome sign out for couple

Margaret May Add Dash

By SUSAN BECKER

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and his 22-year-old bride, Margaret, are the first newlyweds in the old stone mansion at 24 Sussex Drive since it became the official residence for Canadian prime ministers in 1950.

It remains to be seen how the new chatelaine, said to have a flair for fashion and cooking, will put her stamp on her new home. It has changed little since the Lester Pearsons left in the spring of 1968.

There is speculation, however, that the couple will add dash to the capital's social scene.

Trudeau remarked while he was still justice minister in the Pearson administration that he liked parties, and 24 Sussex would be a good place to have them.

The dining room there will handle a formal dinner for 24 and a standup party for 200 can be held by using an area taking in the drawing room, library, hall and dining room.

One thing is certain. The newlyweds will be bombarded with invitations. Plans are reported for a most-immediate events to celebrate the couple's surprise wedding last week in Vancouver — ranging from Government House to Trudeau's colleagues in the Commons.

If the staid old mansion on Sussex is transformed into a setting for swingers, however, the public may hear little about it.

The rambling, three-storey residence is set amid four acres of grounds on a bluff overlooking the Ottawa River.

The big grey house is shielded from the curious by trees. Mounties guard the entrance.

A wrought-iron fence was added last fall after pro-abortion demonstrators forced their way past police to hold a sit-in on the lawn.

For previous prime ministers and their wives a favorite sanctuary has been the second-floor quarters, where there is a family living room with a small kitchenette.

The floor includes two main bedrooms with a dressing room between them. The third floor contains guest rooms.

Good Party Place

The live-in staff consists of household manager Tom Macdonald, three maids and two cooks. The prime minister's chauffeur lives elsewhere.

Trudeau is said to consider the official home his private residence, and no staff interviews are permitted.

Aside from some maintenance work and painting, Trudeau apparently has changed only a few pictures, on loan from the National Gallery, since he moved in almost three years ago.

An aide avoided saying whether Mrs. Trudeau could do as she liked about redecorating the mansion. But he said it has been some time since this was done.

Under law the prime minister has to pay $5,000 annually toward the upkeep of his official home, but this is a small portion of the operating expenses Parliament allots it.

During the last fiscal year, the estimated operating expenses for the residence were $41,000 including staff salaries, food and entertainment. The estimated costs for 1971-72 are $45,000, with the increase said to be largely for staff salaries.

The house was built in 1868 by Joseph Merrill Currier, an MP and lumberman who called it Gorphywsfa, a Welsh name meaning "haven of rest."

His heirs sold it in 1902 to Senator W. C. Edwards who willed it to a nephew, Gordon Edwards, from whom the government obtained it for $140,000.

For a long time it was rented to the Australian government as the residence of its high commissioner.

In 1950 the government spent $550,000 on renovations and made it the official home of the prime minister — then Louis St. Laurent.

The St. Laurents lived there for seven years, the John Diefenbakers for six and the Lester Pearsons for five.

Doctor Cleared On Ethics Count

LONDON (AP) — The British General Medical Council has cleared a family physician of a charge of serious professional misconduct for telling a schoolgirl's parents she was taking birth control pills.

The case had stirred up nationwide controversy and was regarded by many as placing the permissive society on trial. Facing the charge was Dr. Robert Browne, 64, who told the father of "Miss X" that she had been put on the birth pill by a Birmingham city birth control clinic when she was 16 years old.

The disciplinary committee chairman, Lord Cohen, told Browne in the verdict: "The committee has found that the information you received from the Birmingham Brook Advisory Centre was in confidence and that you had neither sought nor received the patient's permission to make the disclosure.

"But in the particular circumstances of the case, I would like to emphasize that the committee does not regard your action in disclosing the information referred to in the charge as improper."

George Jonas, attorney for the Brook Centre, said on Friday that at stake was a patient's freedom to go to her doctor and expect total confidence.

Browne

Jonas quoted Browne as saying he believed people like Miss X must realize "it was not God's will for them to have intercourse before marriage."

Browne, tall and bespectacled and the father of children aged 20, 18 and 12, said in the witness box: "I was concerned that a girl of only 16 — just 16 years of age — had been placed on a contraceptive pill without prior knowledge or consultation with me as her family doctor."

Browne said he had known the girl all her life and had attended her birth. When her father saw him for a routine examination Browne disclosed the girl's secret.

The girl's mother, referred to as Mrs. X, said at the weekend she first reacted with disbelief when she heard her daughter was on the pill.

"But then I thought: If it has to be, thank God she has enough sense to protect herself."

The girl was described by the clinic as of above average intelligence and mature for her age. It said her relationship with the boy was stable and the couple eventually planned to marry.

A few days before the hearing, the girl wrote to Browne expressing regret he had to appear before the medical court.

"I realize now," Miss X wrote Browne, "that in telling my parents you were doing what you believed was the best for me, not because you wanted to get me into trouble with my mother and father but because you cared about what happened to me."

The letter ended: "I hope your colleagues will understand your position."

Baby's Head Health Sign

MONTREAL (CP) — Two Michigan doctors suggested Sunday that measuring the circumference of an infant's head and comparing the size with the length of his body may lead to early detection of possible congenital defects or disorders.

Dr. Sheng Yang and Dr. Jay Bernstein of William Beaumont hospital in Royal Oak, Mich., told the annual meeting of the Pediatric Pathology Club that measurements of a baby's head and his body from the top of the head to the rump should be almost equal in a newborn child.

They said they had studied 305 infants within three weeks of their birth. Correlation of head circumference and crown-rump lengths with a standard mathematical formula resulted in "a simple and objective evaluation of hydrocephalus" — water on the brain.

The doctors noted that a well-known pediatrician, the late Dr. Bela Shick, had applied the same formula in his own practice to make an early diagnosis of hydrocephalus or existence of an unusually small head.

The latter condition can be an indication of poor brain development.

However, Yang and Bernstein said their study went much further and detected several other disorders as well, including multiple birth defects, severe congenital heart disease, defects of the central nervous system, the skeleton, the gastrointestinal and endocrinological systems.

The measurements, they said, were also useful in distinguishing between different types of skeletal disorders.

Fat Girls Find School Help

LONDON (CP) — A special school for fat girls is to be opened later this year. Thirty girls aged 12 and 13 will be selected by school doctors to attend a three-week course to help them slim. The Inner London Education Authority said the purpose was to prevent fat girls becoming "social outcasts."

Pap Tests Sought For All Women

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Cancer Society has announced it will launch a "concerted drive" to see that every woman in the United States receives regular Pap tests to virtually eliminate deaths by uterine cancer.

Dr. H. Marvin Pollard, president of the society, and William Lewis, chairman of the board, set a goal of the mid 1970s for accomplishing this.

The officials said in their annual report that research developments and improvements in surgical and radiation treatment for cancer would save 212,000 Americans from the disease in 1971.

But, they said, more than 100,000 Americans who could be saved by existing methods of treatment still die each year.

"We are striving to make the Pap test universal among women who should be getting that test regularly, thus enabling physicians to treat women with uterine cancer in its earliest and curable stages," they said.

The death rate from uterine cancer already has been cut in half in the last several decades they said, but if women in all walks of life were tested regularly "the deaths caused by this type of cancer can be eliminated."

The report did not, however, detail the form the drive would take.

Noting proposals before Congress for creation of a national cancer authority with funding of $1 billion by 1976 and President Nixon's recommendation for an additional $100 million budget appropriation for cancer research the officials said the 1970s could be "the decade of our biggest advance toward cancer control."

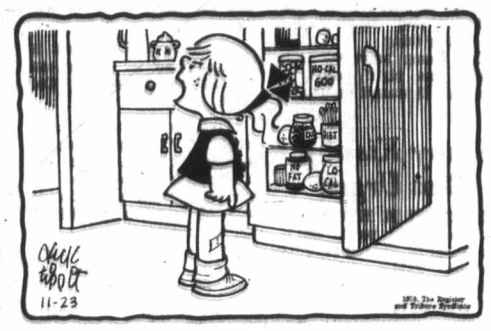

They cited "exciting progress" in virus research, leukemia, chemotherapy and clecular biology as well as progress toward developing a blood test for earlier detection of cancer of the colon and rectum and other types of cancer.

In the field of public education, the report said the ban on television and radio cigarette commercials, effective Jan. 2, was a "tremendous victory."

The report said the society, a private, nonprofit health agency, received a record $65,246,696 in contributions in 1970.

Undercover Art Study

LONDON (CP) — Students at a North London art college have launched a new survey as part of their course in the "erotic arts" — they are studying the effect of women's sexy underwear advertisements on weary commuters.

"Aren't there any goodies in here for someone who's not dieting?"

Nurses Support Health Spending

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Registered Nurses' Association of British Columbia says it approves the provincial government's decision to spend $500,000 on development of alternative health-care facilities.

The association issued a statement Monday saying it is gratified to learn that Health Minister Loffmark intends to use the allotment for development of home care and intermediate programs.

President Mrs. Monica Angus said the association is hopeful the proposed home-care program will include adequate supportive services by nurses, social workers and physiotherapists as well as back-up services.

Early Infant Beats Odds Against Life

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — A 22-ounce baby girl, born three months premature last Wednesday, was still alive Sunday despite a doctor's prediction at birth she had less than one chance in 100 of living.

Dr. Gary Fauskin, the pediatrician who made the prediction about Christina Marie Denna, said: "She's very active, has a strong cry — the result of a mild temper, I think — and pulmonary functions that are stronger than I've seen in babies three times her size."

Anti-Abortion Group Formed

Mrs. Margaret Beadnell, 8391 Patricia Bay Highway, said Monday the group also is anxious to get in touch with women who have applied for a therapeutic abortion but may be having second thoughts about going through with it.

She said any such women could telephone her at 652-2709 or Mrs. Mary Moreau, founder and chairman of Birth Right, at 598-4065.

The group had its first meeting last week and has another scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday in St. Andrew's church hall, 1012 Pandora.

Pilots' Quarrels Threat in Flight

LONDON (CP) — Airline pilots who quarrel with their wives may be a danger in the air, a doctor warned. Dr. Geoffrey Bennett said that 40 per cent of middle-aged pilots were fighting a continual domestic battle as their wives could not adapt themselves to their husbands' irregular working hours.

Steady viewers of Victoria Cablevision's Channel 10 don't have to be told that it's becoming an excellent example of community programming. I don't want it thought that I favor any one program over the others, but allow me to put in a plug for a series starting tonight.

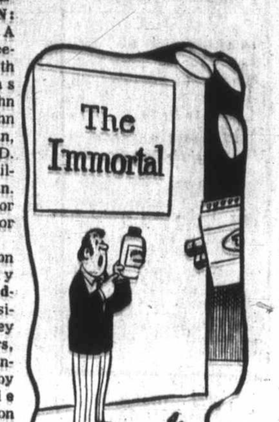

For about 20 weeks, Ladies First at 7 p.m. Tuesdays will be telling the Community Chest story, spotlighting the basic organization first and then each agency a week at a time. Whether you're a supporter or a knocker, give it a try.

The news wires went ape one day last week with a rumor that NBC was planning to drop Laugh-In next season. The network quickly denied it, in case you only heard the first report. Seems a good way to get publicity, if nothing else.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Saturday's answer — A week of famous three-named folk ended with Americans Thomas Alva Edison, John Quincy Adams, John Pierpont Morgan, Robert E. Lee, John D. Rockefeller and William Jennings Bryan. And it was E. for Edward and D. for Davidson.

Today's question begins another silly series about bandleaders and the musical instruments they played. For starters, name the musical instruments played by Glenn Miller, Artie Shaw, Duke Ellington and Woody Herman. And what's Herman's full name? Answers Wednesday.

Tuesday Highlights

C-8:00 — Don Knotts returns after several weeks of giving way to specials. He won't be back next fall — 5.

● C-8:00 — Forsyte fans shouldn't miss a half-hour interview of Susan Hampshire, followed at 8:30 by paintings of Vermonter Luigi Lucioni — 9.

C-10:00 — Wired world is a CBC special on technological effects on all of us — 2, 6.

C-10:00 — A special film about the Yukon — 12.

CABLE 10 — 7:00 p.m., Ladies First; 7:30, Project Travel; 8:00, Comparisons; 8:30, Outdoorsmen, hunting and fishing; 9:00, You and the Law, alias Saanich police time; 9:30, Outlook, with Helen Biernes.

Tuesday Movies

9:00 a.m. — Flight Angels (weak 1940 war weeper), Jane Wyman, Dennis Morgan, Ralph Bellamy. Brucie's Law: When a policeman goes to work, the sign he leaves on his door is a copout — 4.

C-12:45 noon — Guerrillas in Pink Lace (stupid 1964 war phoney), George Montgomery and some dumb dames. Eat a late lunch — 6, 8.

C-4:00 p.m. — Niagara (1953 suspense, not too bad), Marilyn Monroe, Joseph Cotten, Jean Peters — 7.

C-8:30 — River of Gold (new buried treasure), Ray Milland, Suzanne Pleshette. Could be fair — 4.

C-9:00 — Vanished (new bigwig-disappears, part two), Richard Widmark and the same big names who have been around for days. A fairly good film, though — 5.

11:50 — Postman Goes to War (1966 French dubber), Charles Aznavour. Brucie's Law: When Paul Anka goes to work, the sign on his door says Anka's Away — 2.

C-12:00 — Night Star, Goddess of Electra (sickening 1963 Italian dubber). John Barrymore, Jr., zaps the zombies of ancient Rome — 6.

1:00 a.m. — Murder on the High Seas (1938 No) — 13.

Tuesday Radio

8:00 p.m. — NHL hockey, Detroit at Vancouver — CKNW (980).

8:00 — A Toronto orchestra concert — CBU-FM (105.7).

8:05 — Gala has another Victoria Symphony preview, and Bolero is on the list — CFMS (98.5).

● 8:10 — A profile of Paul Robeson, now 72 and ailing in Philadelphia. Forget his politics and remember that voice — CBU (690).

11:00 — A Vancouver orchestra concert — CBU.

● —Recommended; C—Color.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD and BEE SCHENKEN

Dear Howard and Bee: There is no doubt whatever that this guy Humphrey Humboldt who plays at the local club owes much of his success to dumb luck.

Take this deal which occurred in the weekly duplicate. Ten tricks were cold, of course, but the object was to make overtricks if possible.

Vul: Both

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	All pass

Opening lead: Ten of spades.

At most tables declarer won the trump opening and adopted the eminently sound strategy of trying to discard some diamonds on dummy's hearts. He cashed the heart ace, crossed to dummy with a trump, and led the heart queen discarding a diamond on it.

In the actual case this plan failed to produce results because West won with the king of hearts and, seeing declarer's discard of a diamond, returned that suit, the defenders taking two tricks on it to hold South to his contract.

At my table Humboldt played the hand idiotically and made two overtricks for a top score on the board. He started off just like everyone else by cashing the heart ace and crossing to dummy to lead a heart. Instead of discarding a diamond on it, however, he threw a club. Imagine!

Naturally, this caused me to shift to a club and Humboldt was able to recover from his elementary blunder, which could have cost him the contract. He took the A-Q of clubs, crossed to dummy with a trump, and discarded one diamond on the king of clubs and two more on the J-10 of hearts to make six-odd.

Of course, Humboldt was the only player who made twelve tricks, because no one else played it so badly. Can you beat it? Cordially yours, Igor Bliss.

NICE THINGS HAPPEN IN THREES

(DON'T LET THE MISSUS READ THIS)
No. 1 HAPPENING — This is one of Oak Bay's finest Walton-built homes. The kitchen is a dream with huge eating area, sliding doors to long sundeck. Looks over UVIC to Mt. Baker and the sea. The formal size dining room is in line with 14'x24' living room which has cut stone full length fireplace and raised hearth. The picture windows give an exhilarating view. The master bedroom is very large plus wide pass through closet to ensuite bathroom. On ground floor are three bedrooms, panelled den or office. Large family room with used brick fireplace. A lovely home for professional or executive family. Two-car garage has workshop area. Grounds are parklike and adaptable for pool. Nice patio areas and eating deck off living room. Asking $59,900 with $15,000 down, or trade up and take over 7¼% large mortgage. WILLS OF WHITTOMES 388-4271.

PARKLIKE GROUNDS
NO. 2 HAPPENING — Undoubtedly a newlywed's dream or retirement haven. Only 8 years old, with quality everywhere, this has to be one of the nicest homes on this quiet cul-de-sac, just off Blair St. Nicely placed on the large lot with mature shrubs and plants. A beautiful entrance hall with a few steps up to comfortable living room with raised hearth fireplace and gleaming hardwood floors. The dining room has glass doors to a sundeck. The kitchen is family size and the cupboards are ample. Large 12x15 Master bedroom has huge closet and 2 pc. ensuite bathroom. The other two bedrooms are good sized. Basement area is so adaptable to family room plus third bathroom. This home is a must see. Below replacement with a $12,000 mtge at 6½% at $136 p.m. including taxes. Can be refinanced with only $3,000 down. WILLS OF WHITTOMES 388-4271.

NO. 3 HAPPENING — You won't believe your eyes. About the prettiest home I have had the pleasure of selling in my six years of selling. The lady of the house spotted her dream house (an older mansion) just after moving in. About 2,000 feet of comfortable living on two levels. The view is over high Quadra to Mt. Baker and Vancouver way. Living room and dining room are in line with simulated beamed ceiling and expensive w-w carpeting. Custom built fireplace goes through to a floor to ceiling brick fireplace in family room, adjacent to kitchen, which is a housewife's dream. Customized kitchen has dishwasher and bar counter for quick service. Large glass doors from family room open onto cement patio for joyous summer living. Main level has 3 bedrooms, tastefully done with costly w-w and wall capering and two bathrooms, one en suite. The ground level has gracious entrance hall with double doors, wrought iron stairwell with matching carpet, cut stone on one wall and panelling. Two finished bedrooms are on this level, one of which can be "Rec" room. Basement area has workshop, laundry area and 2 piece service bathroom. Exterior is quiet blue with white shutters, just like a Better Homes and Garden Display. Wrap around sundeck covers double carport — room for boat trailer plus cars! Below replacement cost. Can be bought with 75% financing at 9% — 5 yr. term at $287 p.m. Presently clear title. On quiet cul-de-sac, close to Saanich Rd. and Quadra with four other new homes. WILLS OF WHITTOMES 388-4271.

OAK BAY
NEW HOME
For the professional man who wants a new home in a steadily appreciating area near entrance to UVIC, here is one that offers 2100 Sq. Ft. finished (4 BR's or 3 plus Den, Family Room 3 bathrooms, etc.) AND quality kitchen, built-in appliances. AND your choice of carpet colors (or oak) for floors in LR, DR, den, master BR, hall and stairs. A look inside will reveal the excellent plan is a split-level design, and will show more accommodation that one would expect from exterior appearance. Asking $51,750. Exclusive with WILF DAVIS 388-4271 or 658-5276.

Union Attack 'Political Axe'

NANAIMO—If Canadian workers had a free choice of union allegiance, international unions would be "kicked out overnight", Local 8 of the Pulp and Paper Workers Union claimed in a statement issued in Nanaimo Monday.

The local was replying to statements made by Ken Warde, former president of Harmac Local 695 of the International Union of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers' Union, in a Colonist story Sunday morning. The international union was replaced by the Canadian union as bargaining agent at Harmac.

Warde was dismissed from the Harmac mill after he had refused to join the Canadian union.

Warde said that he had applied to join but the PPWC said he could pay his dues but not become a member. The the union changed its mind and said he could apply again for membership but Warde refused. The matter went to an arbitration board which ruled unanimously on the grievance.

In his weekend statement, Warde said it was unfair — "no one should have the right to deny anyone from work."

Warde, who is 56, had worked at Harmac for 17 years. He is married with a 16-year-old daughter.

Warde says that he intends to fight his dismissal in the Supreme Court of Canada.

The PPWC statement on Monday said that Warde's remarks that "no one should have the right to deny anyone from work" assumed that the people of Nanaimo had very short memories.

"The perpetrator of these remarks, was, in 1966, the president of local 695, International Pulp Sulphite, after 822 people had completely disassociated themselves from that union to join Local 8, Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada."

"When certification for Local 8 was denied, the New York-based union forced 200 people to join the local under threat of dismissal.

Bends Will Go

A relocation of the switchback section of the Port Alberni-Tofino road will start this year and is expected to be finished by Sept. 30, 1972.

Howard McDiarmid (SC—Alberni) said, outside the Legislature Monday, that the government would call tenders for the relocation of 13.59 miles of road March 10, returnable March 31.

The relocation will eliminate entirely the switchback section between the present junction of Highway 4 and the Great Central Lake Road and Taylor Arm. The highway will go along the hollow of Sproat Lake.

McDiarmid said the project would take some time to complete as it was practically all rock work. He hoped that, by the time it was finished, there would be some federal park facilities in the area.

Tug, Freighter Battle Waves

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver tug with the crippled 12,000-ton freighter Antillian Star under tow, began to make progress again Monday after encountering gales and heavy seas.

The tug Gibraltar Straits has been towing the Dutch vessel since Sunday toward Vancouver Island after rescuing the ship five miles off the rocky coast of Cape St. James at the southern tip of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

"The seas are still very heavy," said Gordon Moorhouse, chief dispatcher for Rivtow Marine, owners of the tug. "They're out in the open North Pacific."

Earlier, the two vessels had been stopped by a 45 mile-an-hour gale and extremely rough seas. The Antillian Star has a crew of 31 aboard.

The rescue operation began Saturday when the captain radioed a distress signal after the ship's boilers broke down.

Oak Bay Against Teacher Curb

Oak Bay municipal council Monday night unanimously voted to oppose the proposed amendment to the B.C. Public School Act that would prohibit teachers or school board employees from serving on school boards.

In presenting the motion, Ald. Brian Smith said the clause as it currently reads prevents conflicts of interest by forbidding teachers to serve on the board by which they are employed, but said he could not see the logic in stopping them from serving on any board.

"This amendment is going to remove the chairman of the Greater Victoria school board, Allan McKinnon, who ran on a platform of keeping staff and costs down," he said.

"The provincial government is now going to tell the ratepayers they don't know who to choose."

In other business, an attempt by Mayor Frances Elford to have council advise the Royal Victoria Yacht Club that it would like a hydraulic model study carried out on the club's proposed breakwater failed when Ald. John Goult, who said he agreed with the need for such a study, advised that council could not tell the club what results it must have before making its presentation.

The mayor said the test results would allow council to determine in advance of giving approval what the final height of the breakwater would have to be.

The club announced at the last council meeting that it was withdrawing its application for a timber pile breakwater in favor of rubble-mound construction.

A difference in opinion as regards this year's proposed budget for the Greater Victoria Library Board became apparent after Col. A. O. Hood, board chairman, explained that the bulk of this year's increase was slated for book purchases.

After Ald. Douglas Watts said he was not convinced that an $180,000 expenditure for books within a one-year period could be absorbed by the municipalities, Goult observed:

"It would be an exercise in futility to build a branch library in Oak Bay and then starve it for books."

It was also decided Monday that the federal government loans for construction of the senior citizens centre and the Henderson Park pavilion would be paid over a 15-year period instead of 20 years.

Council members observed there would be a saving of more than $100,000 with the shorter period.

Centre's First Stage

First phase of proposed centre for Saanich Peninsula Agricultural and Recreation Association, shown above, is planned for corner of Galoran and Henry in Sidney. Len Bland of building committee said Friday that debentures are available to public at all banks. First phase, to cost $525,000, consists of 85 by 200-foot ice surface and four sheets for curling. Second phase would include covered Olympic-size swimming pool, Bland said. Association hopes eventually to take option on 17 acres in all, to provide other recreational facilities.

Jewish Leader Quits His Post

Shalom Kalfon has resigned as the spritual leader and director of education for Congregation Temple Emanuel of Victoria's Jewish community. About 70 families belong.

Kalfon, who has been leader since July, 1966, said his resignation would take effect the end of June.

He and his family will stay in Victoria, he said, and he plans to remain active in discussion groups on philosophy and religion.

A native of Sefrou, Morocco, the 41-year-old Kalfon is a graduate of Teachers' College, Casablanca, and the Institute of Science and Research in Tel Aviv, Israel. He also studied at Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

He was foreign correspondent in Europe and North Africa for Davar and Maariz, two daily newspapers in Tel Aviv, and for the Jewish Telegraphic Agency of London and New York. He has published a novel and other writing in Hebrew.

In 1962 he was invited to come to Canada as a teacher. He taught for two years in Winnipeg and was then offered a teaching post in Ottawa.

The warmer climate of Vancouver Island drew the family to Victoria and this is where they intend to stay.

Kalfon's wife, Orly, is a graduate of the University of Bordeaux, and was a practising lawyer in Rabat, Morocco.

She took her degree in education at the University of Manitoba and her BA at the University of Ottawa. She worked in the office of the secretary of state in Ottawa as a translator. She now teaches French at Mount View high school. Both the Kalfons speak five languages.

They have three children all born in Canada. Edna, 9, and Ron, 8, were born in Winnipeg and Daphne, 6, in Ottawa.

Provincial COURT

Drinking had to be the reason for stealing a suitcase full of clothing and other items from a new-found friend, a 28-year-old man said Monday in Victoria Provincial Court, because "the clothes didn't fit me."

The man, James Brian Pratt of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft involving more than $50 — the suitcase and its contents, worth a total of about $100.

A Victoria policeman testified Pratt and another man met in a restaurant Sunday evening and found they lived in the same hotel. They went there to drink and, when the other man went out early Monday for coffee, Pratt left with the goods.

Pratt admitted a criminal record containing four offences and said, "Each and every time I'd been drinking." He asked to be allowed to take a six-month job in a remote area, so he could kick liquor.

Instead, Judge William Ostler sentenced Pratt to five months in jail, and Pratt said: "Thank you, your honor."

Frank Joseph Williams, 22, of 2818 Rock Bay, was sentenced to four months in jail after he pleaded guilty March 1 to a charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency.

The charge, dated Dec. 30 in Victoria, concerned a 14-year-old girl with whom Williams had been living. Ostler noted a previous break-in conviction and said Williams had adopted "a general course of disregard for the law and doing simply what's convenient for him."

□

In the court section of Judge E. F. N. Robinson, pleas of guilty were entered by Jean Joseph Albert Parent, 20, of Tofino, to a three-count Victoria traffic charge dated Feb. 21. He was fined $250 for driving with a blood-alcohol reading of more than .08 per cent and $150 each for dangerous driving and failing to remain at an accident scene, and given a six-month driving ban.

□

Christopher Hunter Dixon, 22, of 3246 Alder, was fined $50 following his plea of guilty to a Social Services Tax Act charge. It concerned $244 in Saanich welfare benefits which Dixon received between Nov. 13 and Jan. 17 when he was not entitled to do so.

Street Sale Ban Asked On Straight

A Victoria man who said last week he wants city council to revoke the trade licence held by a "filthy and profane" underground newspaper, now says he would be satisfied if the Georgia Straight were sold at newsstands only.

"I just don't like the idea of this paper being shoved into the faces of young kids on street corners," Herman Voorsluys of 413-710 Vancouver told the Colonist Monday.

"If adults feel like buying the paper, that's their right, but I don't think it's right when 10-year-olds can buy it right on the street, downtown," he said.

Voorsluys sent a letter to council last week asking for immediate cancellation of the paper's trade licence. He referred to the publication's language as "some of the most profane, filthy language peddled on the streets of Victoria."

In an interview Monday, however, Voorsluys said he "may have been a little too harsh asking for a complete ban," but he wanted children to be protected from the paper's influence.

"Take it off the street and permit its sale at newsstands," he said.

Council will deal with the matter Thursday, but a number of city officials said last week there is nothing they could do about the problem. The licence permitting sale of the Georgia Straight was the same permitting the sale of Victoria's two daily newspapers.

Pondering about plants?

Garden activity accelerates when spring comes to Victoria, and Victoria's Daily Newspapers begin to carry loads of gardening features and nursery ads. You may not know what is best for your garden — the time to plant, the fertilizers needed, the best flowers, trees and shrubs for your type of soil. Read the articles and visit the garden shops and nurseries. They supply the know-how and the stock to make this your year for a green thumb success.

Make a habit of browsing through the pages of this newspaper for nursery and garden shop ads — you'll find the best stock, courteous service and willing assistance with your garden problems.

"I do declare, I'm on my way out, I gone and lost the title bout!"

NEW YORK (AP) — Machine-like Joe Frazier put on relentless pressure, knocked Muhammad Ali down in the 15th round and pounded out a unanimous 15-round decision to retain his world heavyweight championship Monday night.

It was all Ali could do to last the round as his remarkable comeback bid ended and Frazier gained universal recognition as the world's premier fighter.

Ali, going down to the first defeat of his professional career, had come back to take the 14th round with a flurry of head punches and charged out in the 15th with a bid to end it.

Then suddenly Frazier's hook flashed and the sellout Madison Square Garden crowd of more than 19,500 on hand for the world-wide televised fight went into a frenzy.

Ali got up at four and took referee Arthur Mercante's mandatory eight count. Frazier landed several solid body and head punches as Ali reeled around the ring until the bell ended the fight.

There was little doubt who the winner was.

Ali was taken to hospital and one of his handlers, Bundini Brown, said the fighter had a broken jaw. A hospital spokesman said Ali's jaw was X-rayed and he immediately left the hospital.

The spokesman declined to say specifically if Ali's jaw was broken but another hospital source said Ali had only suffered a "massive hematoma" or bruise.

2,062 View Fight At Arena Here

What is believed to be the largest-ever boxing gate in Victoria resulted Monday night when 2,062 paid $10 each at Memorial Arena to watch the closed-circuit television presentation of the Frazier-Ali fight.

For their money they got a clear picture and loud but reasonably clear sound of the hectic action. Reaction indicated that support for the fighters was about even and satisfaction was general. (See story, Page 14)

NDP Hails Victory In Land-Guard Bill

● Tax hike bills under fire. Page 9

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

The provincial government bowed Monday to three years of opposition demands in the Legislature that the public rather than land speculators should benefit from developments along new public highways in B.C.

The move came with the introduction of a bill giving the department of highways authority to expropriate "for the purpose of protecting and controlling the use of any land adjacent to the right-of-way of any proposed, new or relocated highway."

The legislation, in the form of a short amendment to the Department of Highways Act, also provides the authority for such lands to be disposed of by public auction or leased to private users for any purpose.

Highways Minister Wesley Black who brought in the bill which was immediately given first reading in the House Monday later called it "gutsy" and said it left no doubt the government would take the necessary action to protect the public interest.

"We think this is the right thing to do . . . and we think it will be welcomed by the public," Black said in an interview.

But Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East), the man who started it all three sessions ago with his charges that "roadrunners" were making huge speculative profits on land adjacent to provincial highways, said in an interview Monday he still has reservations.

"The bill gives the government the power to do what we're asking," Macdonald said. "But whether they do it or not is another matter. It's a pity, too, that it is restricted to new or newly-relocated highways because the money-making developments already exist along our highways, and by limiting (application of the bill) we're not tackling the problem of land speculators who got in on the ground floor."

Innocent or Nefarious?

Taxing Ceiling 'Protects Roadrunners'

Opposition MLAs demanded the government withdraw its legislation designed to limit assessment increases to 10 per cent in a single year on grounds it was going to help land speculators.

Liberal leader Pat McGeer read the House a letter from an unidentified provincial assessor in which the writer said "assessors know the main purpose of this bill is to keep taxes down for promoters who are wheeling and dealing in real estate."

Quoting from another letter sent Feb. 5 to all assessors in the province by Jack Moore, the provincial surveyor of taxes, the Liberal leader charged these men who know most about the subject are being gagged.

The letter said before accepting public speaking engagements "in light of the considerable potential for embarrassment and misunderstanding" arising from the 10 per cent ceiling proposal, all assessors must first obtain approval in writing from the government.

McGeer said the bill might, as the government claimed, be "innocent" but, noting "those who know best think

Price Tag $10,887.97 For Centennial Song

The B.C. Centennial song, Go British Columbia, cost the province's taxpayers $10,887.97, the Legislature learned Monday.

In answer to written questions, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said that was the amount of money paid to Gimby Productions Limited for the song, released Nov. 9 last year. Go British Columbia was written by Bobby Gimby.

London Papers Plan Merger

Turkish Leftists Free Airmen

ANKARA (AP) — Four United States airmen were freed unharmed Monday night after nearly six days in the hands of leftist kidnappers.

The airmen walked into their billets here just before midnight.

The kidnappers, members of the Turkish People's Liberation Army, had demanded $400,000 ransom, threatening to put the Americans in front of a firing squad if it was not paid by last Saturday morning.

U.S. Ambassador William Handley issued a statement on the release, saying: "I am happy that reason has prevailed and that a senseless tragedy has been averted. I am sure that people everywhere share the joy of the families of the four airmen at their safe return."

They are S. Sgt. Jimmie Sexton of San Angelo, Tex., and Airmen Larry Heavner of Denver, Colo.; Richard Caraszi of Stamford, Conn., and James Gholson of Alexandria, Va.

State department officials in Washington had ruled out payment of ransom. Informants said they felt yielding to ransom demands would encourage other kidnappings.

Trudeaus Arrive In Ottawa

● Margaret may add dash to Sussex Street. Page 22

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and his 22-year-old bride arrived in Ottawa Monday night to be cheered by several hundred people at the airport terminal.

The prime minister and Mrs. Trudeau flew from Vancouver, where they were married Thursday.

"I'd like you to meet my girl friend," he said to Works Minister Arthur Laing, who had been acting prime minister. Mrs. Trudeau, wearing a multi-colored coat and a fur hat, kissed Laing and then she was told by Barnett Danson, Trudeau's parliamentary secretary, that "you even made the opposition happy."

Hijack Suspect Taken to U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chapin Scott Paterson, accused of hijacking a Western Airlines plane to Vancouver Feb. 25, Monday night was turned over to FBI agents at the Canada-United States border in Blaine, Wash.

Paterson, 19, of Shingle Springs, Calif., was taken into custody by U.S. officials a little more than an hour after an immigration department deportation order was upheld by the British Columbia Supreme Court in Vancouver.

He was driven to the border by Canadian immigration authorities.

Paterson was ordered deported last Tuesday after he was accused of hijacking a Boeing 737 to Vancouver during a flight from San Francisco to Seattle.

Action was held up pending Mr. Justice Victor Dryer's decision on an application to have the youth released from custody.

In dismissing lawyer Tom Berger's application for a writ of habeas corpus, Dryer said in his decision he could find no breach of the Canadian Bill of Rights and "no failure to comply with the essentials of justice" in the case.

Chapin's lawyers had argued the deportation order was invalid because it was "made in violation of the Canadian Bill of Rights and Common Law." Berger claimed Chapin had been denied counsel at the immigration hearing because his lawyers were delayed by snow.

L. C. Hawkins, B.C. regional immigration department director, issued an order to have Paterson handed over to U.S. authorities at the border immediately following the decision.

Berger, when told the youth was already in the hands of immigration authorities and on his way to the border, said nothing further could be done here but that an "expert lawyer" had been arranged for him in the U.S.

In Seattle, the FBI said Paterson was to be arraigned in Bellingham, on a charge of air piracy.

Sub Locates Crashed Jet

COMOX — Miniature submarine Pisces has succeeded in locating the submerged wreckage of a military CF-101 jet fighter plane that crashed Feb. 18 in Georgia Strait.

A naval diver will assess the situation and determine the best way to raise the aircraft. A naval vessel is standing by and is expected to attempt to retrieve the plane.

High winds have delayed the operation which is taking place about three miles offshore from the end of the main runway at CFB, Comox forces base at Comox.

North Cowichan Alderman:

Municipalities Need Constitutional Role

NORTH COWICHAN — Municipalities should be able to take part in the search for a new Canadian constitution says Ald. Donald Morton of North Cowichan.

Morton, a past president of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, represents the union on a joint municipal committee on inter-governmental relations. He recently returned from Ottawa where the committee presented a brief to the special committee of the Senate and Commons.

Morton said that municipalities should be recognized, and accepted, as participating partners, at least in the consultation stage of the constitution study.

Morton said it attempted to bring about tri-level conference with provincial and federal ministers to discuss common problems such as housing, welfare and transport.

"Essentially what we have been seeking is a recognition of the place of municipal government in the day-to-day public business of this country and in the planning for the future," he said.

"As things stand now, and have stood for many years, the burden of most services to real property falls upon municipal governments whose only reliable source of revenue is the property tax. When this word, services, is enlarged to mean such things as welfare and education, then the costs are out of proportion and in some provinces may well be a prime factor in the breakdown of local government."

He felt that there was reason to expect that formal constitutional recognition may be given to the federal-provincial conference as an institution of Canadian government.

"As a first measure, and one that would add greatly to the effective place of municipal government, we propose that similiar provision be made in the consultative machinery for representation of all three juridictional levels."

Morton said that the vital and immediate problems of housing, and transportation might be urban but education, welfare, sewage disposal and pollution control were of major importance to all property taxpayers.

Galiano Raps Oil Plan

GALIANO ISLAND — Fearing an oil spill will hit them first, Galiano islanders have joined the mounting protest against the proposed tanker route down the B.C. coast.

And a petition, circulated island-wide, has been signed by 125 persons in a house-to-house campaign.

The protests have been sent to Premier W. A. C. Bennett; NDP Leader Tommy Douglas, MP for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands; John Tisdalle MLA for Saanich-The Islands; President Nixon, and Washington state officials.

The islanders' main objection is that they face the prevailing southeast wind all year and they fear that any spillage from tankers on their way from Alaska to Cherry Point in Washington would reach island shores first.

Duncan Joins Oil Protest

DUNCAN — Duncan council joined other B.C. municipalities Monday in protesting plans to ship from Alaska oil down the B.C. coast to the U.S.

However the vote was not unanimous. Supporting a protest by New Westminster were Ald. Martin Lukaitis, Ald. Allan Kerr and Ald. Jay Bowley. Ald. John Homer and Ald. Tom Kilpatrick were against the move while Ald. Hamish Mutter abstained.

Referring to possible oil spills from large tankers as "black death," Lukaitis pointed out that the oil industry was largely responsible for the ecological destruction of many different coastlines in the world.

He said: "These people have no regard for our environment."

Canada needed strong legislation dealing with shipping along her coasts, he said.

Kilpatrick said council had no control over international waters and that he had heard that "a pipeline through B.C. would be more dangerous."

He thought there was too much emotion and too much politics involved. He was also interested in protecting the environment but "we cannot stop progress."

Homer said that during the Second World War, "there was no question regarding oil shipments abroad — if there had been, Britain would have been dried up.

Kerr pointed out that the time had come "for the silent majority uttering some words."

He felt the New Westminster resolution should be supported because there were billions of gallons of oil untapped in Canada and "let the American people leave their oil in Alaska and refine it there."

Council was told that Queen Elizabeth will pay a 30-minute visit to Duncan at 3 p.m. May 4. Some of many recommendations proposed by the Royal visit committee included: clean city streets, a red carpet, and a cornerstone.

Harmac Local:

Attack on Union 'Political Axe'

NANAIMO—If Canadian workers had a free choice of union allegiance, international unions would be "kicked out overnight", Local 8 of the Pulp and Paper Workers Union claimed in a statement issued in Nanaimo Monday.

The local was replying to statements made by Ken Warde, former president of Harmac Local 695 of the International Union of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers' Union, in a Colonist story Sunday morning. The international union was replaced by the Canadian union as bargaining agent at Harmac.

Warde was dismissed from the Harmac mill after he had refused to join the Canadian union.

Dues Only

Warde said that he had applied to join but the PPWC said he could pay his dues but not become a member. The the union changed its mind and said he could apply again for membership but Warde refused. The matter went to an arbitration board which ruled unanimously on the grievance.

In his weekend statement, Warde said it was unfair — "no one should have the right to deny anyone from work."

Court Action

The PPWC statement on Monday said that Warde's remarks that "no one should have the right to deny anyone from work" assumed that the people of Nanaimo had very short memories.

"The perpetrator of these remarks, was, in 1966, the president of local 695, International Pulp Sulphite, after 822 people had completely disassociated themselves from that union to join Local 8, Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada."

'Threat Made'

"When certification for Local 8 was denied, the New York-based union forced 200 people to join the local under threat of dismissal.

Mr. Warde was, in 1966, signatory to a letter to MacMillan Bloedel demanding that 822 people be fired for failure to join his union. In 1968, in Prince George, this same union was responsible for the firing of five people, not because they weren't paid up members of the certified international union but because they dared to advocate a democratic, Canadian-controlled union.

'Every Chance'

Local 8 since gaining certification, has literally 'turned the other cheek' and given Mr. Warde every opportunity to be a fully fledged member of this union. He has had four years to straighten out his affairs with Local 8. We, in the final analysis, did not make the decision, but referred the case to an impartial arbitration board.

"Local 8 finds Mr. Warde's remark that union membership should not be compulsory of particular interest.

"If they establish a precedent in the courts, there will be a veritable stampede out of the international unions.

"If the workers in Canada had a free choice of union allegiance, the American-based unions would be kicked out overnight," and the Local 8 statement.

"The unprincipled history of the International Pulp Sulphite Union does not enhance Mr. Warde's claim to martyrdom. It is obvious to us that he is merely grinding a political axe.

Harper

New Industry Replaces Old

ROYSTON — A new industry is settling into business on the site of Van-West Logging Company headquarters, which has closed down, on Royston Road.

The new industry is soap, called Dew — and a window cleaner. Cecil Harper is the product's originator and his partners are John Richardson and Mrs. Hazel Ross. Richardson has played a big part in the operation — he designed much of the machinery in the plant, such as the bottler and mixer. Next project is a labelling machine.

Harper imports a secret ingredient from New York for Dew, and he plans to keep distribution limited to Vancouver Island and maybe Powell River.

No super-salesman, Harper said: "I don't say it will make things whiter than white or cleaner than clean." Rather, it is a mild product, he said.

Col Val products as they were originally known, had the faith of Harper behind them, but not that of his friends. He offered them shares and they thought he was "crazy."

In May 1970, Harper changed the name of his company to Dewbrite and since then business has been good.

"Many of the people I originally offered shares and who turned me down are now wanting to buy into the company. It's too late," Harper chuckled.

George Bonner School Project

Fun Fair Money Going Toward Gym Bleachers

DUNCAN — At a special meeting Monday, Cowichan school board gave permission to George Bonner junior high school to hold an open house and fun fair Friday.

The board heard the request from principal Peter Owen.

Owen said: "The main idea behind the open house and fun fair is to show the public during Education Week to what extent the process of learning is changing and what generally is taking place in today's secondary school classrooms."

Proceeds from the fair will be used to buy bleachers for the gymnasium. In the event that funds are insufficient, Owen said that a trust fund would be set aside for the proceeds.

The fair will be held from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the school. The program will include a smorgasbord-type supper, followed by evening gymnastic displays and a band concert.

The fair will open shortly before 8 p.m. and will include bingo, sponge-throwing, bistro, darts, balloons, cartoons and a discotheque. It will be followed by an auction of articles donated by various Cowichan Valley merchants.

The evening will end with a folksong concert and sing-a-long with The Village Fold, a Sooke high school group.

Stan Baker, who was elected to the board in a by-election Saturday, was sworn in by secretary-treasurer Geoff Dyson. Baker is a pipefitter at Crofton Pulp and Paper Mill and a Crofton resident.

He was elected by 125 votes. Only 7.2 per cent of North Cowichan voters turned ou to cast a total of 304 votes. Baker replaces Bill Burak who resigned in January.

Tofino Road

Bends Will Go

A relocation of the switchback section of the Port Alberni-Tofino road will start this year and is expected to be finished by Sept. 30, 1972.

Howard McDiarmid (SC—Alberni) said, outside the Legislature Monday, that the government would call tenders for the relocation of 13.59 miles of road March 10, returnable March 31.

The relocation will eliminate entirely the switchback section between the present junction of Highway 4 and the Great Central Lake Road and Taylor Arm. The highway will go along the hollow of Sproat Lake.

McDiarmid said the project would take some time to complete as it was practically all rock work. He hoped that, by the time it was finished, there would be some federal park facilities in the area.

Second Tug on Way

Tug, Freighter Battle Waves

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver tug with the crippled 12,000-ton freighter Antillian Star under tow, began to make progress again Monday after encountering gales and heavy seas.

"The seas are still very heavy," said Gordon Moorhouse, chief dispatcher for Rivtow Marine, owners of the tug. "They're out in the open North Pacific."

Earlier, the two vessels had been stopped by a 45 mile-an-hour gale and extremely rough seas. The Antillian Star has a crew of 31 aboard.

The rescue operation began Saturday when the captain radioed a distress signal after the ship's boilers broke down.

She was taken in tow on Sunday.

"We had been hoping they would make it into Vancouver by Tuesday afternoon, but this will delay them," said Moorhouse.

He said the tug may be able to hang on until the late-afternoon arrival today of the Johnstone Straits, a 117-foot tug dispatched from Vancouver late Sunday to help.

Strike Notice Given School Board

PORT ALBERNI — Members of Local 727 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees issued a 72-hour strike notice Monday to Port Alberni school district.

About 110 custodians, secretaries, bus drivers and other workers voted 92.7 per cent in favor of strike action during the weekend. Local president Bernard Egan blamed a lack of progress in four months of contract talks.

Board officials were unavailable for comment.

Cake Given to Comox Couple

COURTENAY — A weekend performance by the Barkerville troupe at Courtenay wound up on Sunday night when a special presentation was made to a Comox couple.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spencer who were celebrating their 58th wedding anniversary. Spencer was also celebrating his birthday. He is a World Federalist and a former president of Canadian school Trustees' Association.

After the intermission, the cast gave its version of a minstrel show and, during the number, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer were escorted to the stage where they were presented with a decorated anniversary cake.

Included in the show, which was also staged on Saturday, were a number of scenes involving Courtenay's Century Sam (Sid Williams). There were also some items centreing around Prime Minister Trudeau and his bride.

Everybody Who Is Anybody!

NEW YORK (UPI) — The celebrities of the world of show business and former greats in the punch-taking business turned out like the old days in large numbers for the Clay-Frazier heavyweight championship fight.

Madison Square Garden was filled to its 19,500-capacity for the long-awaited clash between the two heavyweight title claimants — and down in the high-priced orange seats near the red velvet-roped ring were many familiar faces.

From the world of stage and screen there were singer Frank Sinatra, comedian Bill Cosby, singer Johnny Cash, and ancient Step-N-Fetch It.

Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis, two of the greatest heavyweight champions of all time, headed a turnout of former world boxing champions that was perhaps the most glittering ever assembled.

Also on hand were Tony Galento, Johnny Bratton, Joe Giardello, Bobcat Bob Montgomery, Jose Torres, Petie Scalzo, Emile Griffith and Gene Fullmer.

And, getting a lot of attention at ringside, was the 1968 Olympic heavyweight champion many believe will be challenging either Clay or Frazier for the world crown next year — huge, unbeaten George Foreman.

Walter Cronkite, Carol Lawrence, Gene Kelly, Lorne Green, Michael Caine, Mayor John Lindsay, Joe Namath, Sid Luckman, Lamar Hunt of the Kansas City Chiefs and his coach, Hank Stram, were at ringside.

It was a well-dressed crowd at ringside, where the prices of seats ran up to an official $150 and reportedly sold for a lot more than that unofficially.

Police manning the barricades had a tense, hectic moment when Diana Ross, former Supremes rock singer, showed up in black velvet hot pants.

Scalping got more hectic and more brazen as the opening bell approached. Seats in the blue section, far from the ring, were being offered for $125 to $150, but one entrepeneur added quickly, "I'll take $75." There were reports that ringside tickets were sold for $800.

It was a cross between a Hollywood premiere and a country fair Monday as Joe Frazier and Cassius Clay battled for the world heavyweight championship. Representative of the fancy dress crowd are these men, at top, wearing matching fur trimmed outfits and the woman with the ornate high hat, lower photo, who was a hit with everyone but the fan seated behind her.—(AP)

Great Title Fight Demands Rematch - - - at Any Price

By JIM TANG

This one generally ranged in cost from the $10 charged in Victoria to a reported $100, and the question now is what will the price be for closed-circuit television watching when Cassius Clay and heavyweight-champion Joe Frazier meet in the rematch.

That there won't be a rematch is unthinkable. Monday night's 15 rounds have to go down as one of the great championship fights of boxing history — a bitter, supreme test of stamina and courage which was so close that it demands a return meeting.

Frazier and Clay were paid $2,500,000 each for this one, and it is conceivable that there could be a scramble to sign them up again for as much as double that.

Whatever is to happen, no one who paid to watch this first meeting between two previously-unbeaten champions can feel cheated.

PROBLEMATICAL

There were more than 2000 fans at Memorial Arena, and there couldn't have been one who left feeling that it hadn't been worth the $10. How much more than that they would be willing to pay for the return go may be problematical, but at $10 Memorial Arena would be sold out far in advance of fight night.

Although it seemed that Clay had the most vociferous fan support in Madison Square Garden, at least at the start, it was difficult to tell which had the most supporters in Memorial Arena. Cheers and boos seemed about evenly divided, and there was obviously some reluctant admiration, or fascination, for the posturings and mouthings of Clay, who remained a showman until the battle for survival became a bit too demanding.

CHEERS SHARED

The cheers were well shared during the never-ending action and there didn't appear to be any particular elation when the decision was rendered. There were cheers when the information was given that referee Arthur Mercante had scored it 8-6-1 but boos were as loud when it became known the judge Bill Recht had somehow seen it 11-4 for Frazier.

The concensus seemed to be that Frazier was indeed the winner, but for Clay there was the satisfaction that many who had thought he was a blow-hard who might come apart if he ever met a man who could put him to the test found out that they were wrong.

Both fighters came out of this one with enhanced stature, and their next audience in Victoria will include almost everyone who was there Monday.

Madison Square Garden . . . It Was Some Bash!

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — The soul brothers and sisters, flamboyant in their minks and feathers, rubbed elbows with government chiefs, tycoons, sports heroes and astronauts Monday night at the spectacular heavyweight title fight between Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali.

It was some bash.

HOT PANTS

"I'm for Frazier," said Roberta Canada of Philadelphia, attired in a gaucho outfit of pink crushed velvet.

They were just part of the scene as 19,500 people swarmed into the huge arena to witness that has been acclaimed as the richest and most ballyhooed event in sports history.

NEST FOR PEACOCKS

The zoot suiters and the dandies, looking like resurrected personalities from the old river boat days, were impervious of the cordon of police and security men forming a ring of steel outside.

ASTRONAUTS THERE

They were Capt. Alan B. Shenard, Jr., Capt. Edgar D. Mitchell, Jr., and Lt. Col. Stuart A. Roosa. Mitchell wore a handsome beard.

A 'HAPPENING'

It was obvious that this was more than a fist fight. It was a happening—an event long to be remembered after other events have been forgotten. Its social impact was seen everywhere.

"Muhammad Ali has to win," said Ann Hines of Chester, Pa., nattily attired in leopard velvet that fit like paper on the wall from head to foot.

Guadalupe Ladino, a Puerto Rican dancer, was at ringside in hot pants and fur of harvest gold. Her escort, Joe Davis, was dressed in a pink suit and purple shirt.

"I would prefer to fight Clay and Frazier together rather than a bull," Manuel said, adding with a wink:

Victoria Bowler Wins YBC Title

NANAIMO — Liz Hess of Victoria won the girls' title in the Youth Bowling Council provincial tenpin crampionships at Fiesta Lanes Sunday with a 526 total for three games.

Miss Hess, a first-year University of Victoria student, had games of 159, 178, 189 to advance to the Canadian championships which will be held in Regina April 15 to 18.

Other winners were: bantam; Ron Allenby, Vancouver, 526; Rhonda Craig, Burnaby, 469; junior; Laura Querin, Coquitlam, 441; Bill McMullan, Burnaby, 557; senior; Brad White, Burnaby, 592.

White's victory in the senior boys' division was the most exciting of the event. He started with 236, bowled a 192 in his second game and slipped to 164 in his final game to win by two pins over a charging Steve McCabe of Vancouver, who came up with a 187 finish to narrowly miss.

Belmont Relieves Victoria of Title

Belmont Braves accomplished what is believed to be a first in the High School Senior Boys' Basketball League Monday night at Esquimalt High Scrool.

The Braves beat Vicoria Totems, 54-49, in a sudden-death game to decide the league championship. It is the first time in the history of the league that a team, other than Victoria and Oak Bay, have taken the league title. Braves and Totems finished the league schedule with 9-3 records.

In the game to decide fourth place, the final position for the south zone in the Vancouver Island championship, Oak Bay downed Reynolds Roadrunners, 42-28, at Esquimalt. Both teams had seven wins and five losses in league play.

Braves held a 27-22 advantage at halftime and then held the Totems even in the last half. Jim Kupiak, held to eight points in the opening half, broke loose for 11 more in the final half to top Belmont scorers with 19 points. Alan Martyn was Totems' high scorer with 12 points before fouling out.

Oak Bay coach Don Horwood didn't make a substitution in the game against the Roadrunners. It was a tense battle with the Bays ahead, 16-9, at the half. Mike Morrill had 19 points for the winners, 13 in the second half. Harry Hunter led Reynolds with 14 points.

BELMONT (54) — Don Salmons, Jim Kupiak 19, Willie Murray, Rick Sylvester, John Hunter 8, John Bodman, Ron Mills 8, Jack Munch, Jim Metz 12, Rich Denman, Jerry Dicker, Lee Edmondson 14.

VICTORIA (49) — Pete Grahowski 2, Jim Nemec 8, Ian Scott 8, Stu Taylor, Jim Griffin 6, Sean Flynn 8, Garnet Moen 1, Bruce Bingham, Mike Smith 2, Jon Roodbol, Kevin Townsend 9, Alan Martyn 12.

Hotel Douglas Leads Series

Second game is scheduled next Sunday in Port Alberni starting at 2 p.m.

Al Glover scored 20 points for Victoria, two more than teammate Pete Simmonds. Larry Lehtonen was top scorer for Port Alberni with 19 points, three more than John Drew.

Hockey Great Dies at 78

OTTAWA (CP) — Funeral services were held Monday for Harold 'Punch' Broadbent, a member of the Hockey Hall of Fame and last surviving member of one of the all-time great National Hockey League forward lines, who died Saturday. He was 78.

He played right wing on the line of Frank Nighbor and Cy Denneny that led Ottawa Senators to three straight Stanley Cup championships. He was named to the Hall of Fame in 1962.

Suspended

SEATTLE (AP) — Portland defenceman Rick Foley was suspended Monday for three games as a result of actions in a San Diego contest, western hockey league president Eugene Kinasewich announced. Kinasewich said he benched the Buckaroos player for actions in a Feb. 2 game in which Foley was assessed three minor penalties, two misconducts and one game misconduct.

Out for Season

Pittsburgh Penguins of the National Hockey League, with five other regulars out of the lineup, learned Monday that rookie Greg Polis would be lost for the balance of the season with mononucleosis. It was first believed that Polis was suffering from a severe case of the flu. Penguins have called up five players from their Amarillo, Tex., farm club.

Two tries by Ward Mitchell in the second half broke a 5-5 tie and Mount View Hornets went on to a 13-5 win over visiting Mt. Douglas Rams in a High School Rugby League match Monday.

Norm Baker scored a try and converted it in the opening half for Mount View while Doug Archibald went over for a try which was converted by Andy Hume for Mt. Douglas.

SAINT JOHN — Manitoba, represented by a St. Boniface rink skipped by Jim Dunstone, had the lead after three rounds of play in the Canadian mixed-rinks curling championship.

The Manitobans opened Sunday with a 10-5 win over Bobby Dillon's Prince Edward Islanders and remained unbeaten Tuesday with 9-7 victories over Nova Scotia's Nick Oldale and Horst Iiling's Newfoundlanders.

Also unbeaten but with only two victories was two-time champion Larry McGrath. He had the bye Sunday and then took Monday wins over P.E.I., by 6-5, and Nova Scotia, by 12-4.

British Columbia, represented by Kelly Carin of Kamloops, was in striking distance, at 2-1, with Ed Steeves of New Brunswick and Vince Lebano of Ontario.

Carin was upset, 7-5, by Nova Scotia on Sunday but bounced back Monday to overcome Newfoundland, 8-5, and Northern Ontario, 12-11. A three on the last end was needed to whip Harvey Caron's Timmins rink.

Oak Bay Repels Hoop Challenge

Oak Bay repelled a challenge from Belmont and advanced, along with Campbell River and Island-champion Claremont, to the B.C. high school girls' basketball championship at Victoria High School Mar. 17 to 20.

Oak Bay, third-place finishers in the Island tournament at Campbell River last weekend, defeated Belmont, 29-24, Monday at Oak Bay High School. Belmont, fourth-place finishers at Campbell River, exercised its right to challenge for the final Island berth.

Claremont, the defending B.C. champion, defeated Campbell River, 27-21, in the final Saturday. Claremont reached the final with a 23-12 win over Oak Bay in the semi-finals while Campbell River advanced by defeating Victoria, 32-22.

BATTLE FOR THIRD

In the battle for third place, Oak Bay downed Victoria, 24-17, place. Belmont gained fourth place be edging Courtenay, 24-23.

Joanne Van Schaik of Oak Bay was voted the tournament's most valuable player and was named to the all-star team along with Lorna McHattie and Laurie Atkinson of Claremont and Edna Ritchie and Kathy Jones of Campbell River.

RUNNERS-UP

Runners-up in the all-star voting were Terry Godfrey and Sue Metcalfe of Victoria, Joanne Chalmers and Cathy Auburne of Belmont and Pam McKee of Nanaimo.

Kathy Walls topped Oak Bay's scoring Monday with 12 points. Aneita Strauss added eight points for the winners. Miss Auburne had eight points for Belmont.

OAK BAY (39) — Joanne Van Schaik 6, Dawn Villeneuve, Lexia Villeneuve, Aneita Strauss 8, Jan Newman 2, Debbie Camp, Nancy Taylor 8, Laverne Heard, Kathy Walls 12, Sheily Winter 2, Laura Smallwood 3.

In Contention

HALIFAX — Moe Hill of Victoria, after suffering his first loss earlier in the day, bounced back Monday to trim Northern Ontario, 8-3, to remain in the running of the Canadian Police Association's curling championship.

Roy Steg of Ottawa, who defeated Hill, 8-2, was the only unbeaten rink in the double-knockout competition.

Steady viewers of Victoria Cablevision's Channel 10 don't have to be told that it's becoming an excellent example of community programming. I don't want it thought that I favor any one program over the others, but allow me to put in a plug for a series starting tonight.

For about 20 weeks, Ladies First at 7 p.m. Tuesdays will be telling the Community Chest story, spotlighting the basic organization first and then each agency a week at a time. Whether you're a supporter or a knocker, give it a try.

The news wires went ape one day last week with a rumor that NBC was planning to drop Laugh-In next season. The network quickly denied it, in case you only heard the first report. Seems a good way to get publicity, if nothing else.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Saturday's answer — A week of famous three-named folk ended with Americans Thomas Alva Edison, John Quincy Adams, John Pierpont Morgan, Robert E. Lee, John D. Rockefeller and William Jennings Bryan. And it was E. for Edward and D. for Davidson.

Today's question begins another silly series about bandleaders and the musical instruments they played. For starters, name the musical instruments played by Glenn Miller, Artie Shaw, Duke Ellington and Woody Herman. And what's Herman's full name? Answers Wednesday.

Tuesday Highlights

C-8:00 — Don Knotts returns after several weeks of giving way to specials. He won't be back next fall — 5.

● C-8:00 — Forsyte fans shouldn't miss a half-hour interview of Susan Hampshire, followed at 8:30 by paintings of Vermonter Luigi Lucioni — 9.

C-10:00 — Wired world is a CBC special on technological effects on all of us — 2, 6.

C-10:00 — A special film about the Yukon — 12.

CABLE 10 — 7:00 p.m., Ladies First; 7:30, Project Travel; 8:00, Comparisons; 8:30, Outdoorsmen, hunting and fishing; 9:00, You and the Law, alias Saanich police time; 9:30, Outlook, with Helen Biernes.

Tuesday Movies

9:00 a.m. — Flight Angels (weak 1940 war weeper), Jane Wyman, Dennis Morgan, Ralph Bellamy. Brucie's Law: When a policeman goes to work, the sign he leaves on his door is a copout — 4.

C-12:45 noon — Guerrillas in Pink Lace (stupid 1964 war phoney), George Montgomery and some dumb dames. Eat a late lunch — 6, 8.

C-4:00 p.m. — Niagara (1953 suspense, not too bad), Marilyn Monroe, Joseph Cotten, Jean Peters — 7.

C-8:30 — River of Gold (new buried treasure), Ray Milland, Suzanne Pleshette. Could be fair — 4.

C-9:00 — Vanished (new bigwig-disappears, part two), Richard Widmark and the same big names who have been around for days. A fairly good film, though — 5.

11:50 — Postman Goes to War (1966 French dubber), Charles Aznavour. Brucie's Law: When Paul Anka goes to work, the sign on his door says Anka's Away — 2.

1:00 a.m. — Murder on the High Seas (1938 No) — 13.

Tuesday Radio

8:00 p.m. — NHL hockey, Detroit at Vancouver — CKNW (980).

8:00 — A Toronto orchestra concert — CBU-FM (105.7).

8:05 — Gala has another Victoria Symphony preview, and Bolero is on the list — CFMS (98.5).

● 8:10 — A profile of Paul Robeson, now 72 and ailing in Philadelphia. Forget his politics and remember that voice — CBU (690).

11:00 — A Vancouver orchestra concert — CBU.

●—Recommended; C—Color.

RECYCLING VOLUNTEERS Lynne Payne, Ted Knowles, Wayne Hamila, Craig Butler, Eric Brawn and Barbara Corry bring reprocessable items to local depot.—(Jim Ryan)

Down in Dumps

The group, with most of its members from the Gonzales Bay area of the city, has organized a system that will allow people living in their neighborhood to help slow the rate at which many materials are being forever lost through burial in a garbage dump.

Disturbed at the amount of waste accumulated by even the smallest family, and encouraged by results of recycling groups that had been established elsewhere, about 10 persons got together and decided to see what could be done in the Greater Victoria area.

Two Months

After about two months of work, they had succeeded in finding markets not only for such items as newspapers, which are commonly reprocessed and used again, but also for such materials as cooking fat and bones.

Armed with this information, the volunteers prepared an instruction sheet advising people how and what they should separate from their garbage to be reused.

The sheet was distributed about three weeks ago, at which time residents were advised a "depot" where garbage could be deposited would be established within easy walking distance of their house.

One of the project's organizers, Craig Butler of 175 Robertson, told the Colonist volunteers have visited residents of the three-block neighborhood area on the past three Saturdays to explain what recycling in general is about and specifically to give assistance to people participating in the local activity.

"The first time we went around, about 15 per cent of the people really seemed to get the idea although the others were almost all very interested," Butler said.

"Then, the second time we went around, some people had already started to separate their garbage for us and others decided that they would start."

The group, which considers itself too informal to have a name and structure, made its third visit to homes in the area Saturday and has found response even better than had been expected.

"The most enthusiastic people seem to be those who have come from England and remember when they used to drop things off to be recycled and had to take their own bags to stores to get things," Butler said.

"There are between 80 and 100 homes in the area and only about five people have said they can't be bothered separating their garbage."

Mounds of Paper

Several pounds of bone and fat in addition to approximately four dozen egg cartons and about 100 pounds of paper have already been collected.

When sufficient quantities are available, the materials will be either sold or given to firms that will reprocess them to be used again. The fat, for instance, is purchased by Island Processing Ltd. in Chemainus.

Suitable markets have not been found for glass, plastic or tin cans, but the group is working on the problem.

While recycling can be a profitable enterprise, the Gonzales Bay group is not anticipating a profit on its material, although it anticipates sales will cover transportation costs from the area to the producer.

The concept of the pilot project is not that of a business anyway, Butler said.

Although visits to neighbors will continue each Saturday for a few more weeks until people become accustomed to the separating method, the volunteers will not be collecting the garbage except in the case of elderly persons who may not be able to carry it to one of the depots that have been established.

"But it can only work if it becomes a small part of everyone's lives rather than a large part of a few people's lives," says the leaflet distributed to residents.

Ultimately, the group hopes similar small entities will be established in other neighborhoods, and a central depot and marketing office could be established to receive material collected in local stations.

Meeting Today

"We're glad to help anyone get going and we're sure there will be at least someone in each neighborhood who will be willing to do this sort of thing," Butler said.

A group of such interested persons will be meeting at Butler's house at 1 p.m. today to discuss how the members might be able to set up similar projects in their areas, and he said anyone else is welcome.

There is one step beyond which the Gonzales group will not move, however, and that is quite definite.

Garbage Pickup

"We'll tell them how to do it and help them set up their depots and do anything we can," Butler said, "but we won't go around and pick up people's garbage for them.

"If there is a depot on their block, people who are interested will be able to carry their own things to it."

"I do declare, I'm on my way out. I gone and lost the title bout!"

NEW YORK (AP) — Machine-like Joe Frazier put on relentless pressure, knocked Muhammad Ali down in the 15th round and pounded out a unanimous 15-round decision to retain his world heavyweight championship Monday night.

It was all Ali could do to last the round as his remarkable comeback bid ended and Frazier gained universal recognition as the world's premier fighter.

Ali, going down to the first defeat of his professional career, had come back to take the 14th round with a flurry of head punches and charged out in the 15th with a bid to end it.

Then suddenly Frazier's hook flashed and the sellout Madison Square Garden crowd of more than 19,500 on hand for the world-wide televised fight went into a frenzy.

Ali got up at four and took referee Arthur Mercante's mandatory eight count. Frazier landed several solid body and head punches as Ali reeled around the ring until the bell ended the fight.

There was little doubt who the winner was.

Ali was taken to hospital and one of his handlers, Bundini Brown, said the fighter had a broken jaw. A hospital spokesman said Ali's jaw was X-rayed and he immediately left the hospital.

The spokesman declined to say specifically if Ali's jaw was broken but another hospital source said Ali had only suffered a "massive hematoma" or bruise.

Ali returned to his room at the New Yorker hotel and was reported sleeping early Tuesday morning.

Dundee, said Ali had a painfully swollen face and took some medication to ease his discomfort.

2,062 View Fight At Arena Here

What is believed to be the largest-ever boxing gate in Victoria resulted Monday night when 2,062 paid $10 each at Memorial Arena to watch the closed-circuit television presentation of the Frazier-Ali fight.

For their money they got a clear picture and loud but reasonably clear sound of the hectic action. Reaction indicated that support for the fighters was about even and satisfaction was general. (See story, Page 14)

NDP Hails Victory In Land-Guard Bill

- Tax hike bills under fire. Page 9

By IAN STREET
Colonist Legislature Reporter

The provincial government bowed Monday to three years of opposition demands in the Legislature that the public rather than land speculators should benefit from developments along new public highways in B.C.

The move came with the introduction of a bill giving the department of highways authority to expropriate "for the purpose of protecting and controlling the use of any land adjacent to the right-of-way of any proposed, new or relocated highway."

The legislation, in the form of a short amendment to the Department of Highways Act., also provides the authority for such lands to be disposed of by public auction or leased to private users for any purpose.

Highways Minister Wesley Black who brought in the bill which was immediately given first reading in the House Monday later called it "gutsy" and said it left no doubt the government would take the necessary action to protect the public interest.

"We think this is the right thing to do . . . and we think it will be welcomed by the public," Black said in an interview.

But Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East), the man who started it all three sessions ago with his charges that "roadrunners" were making huge speculative profits on land adjacent to provincial highways, said in an interview Monday he still has reservations.

"The bill gives the government the power to do what we're asking," Macdonald said. "But whether they do it or not is another matter. It's a pity, too, that it is restricted to new or newly-relocated highways because the money-making developments already exist along our highways, and by limiting (application of the bill) we're not tackling the problem of land speculators who got in on the ground floor."

Innocent or Nefarious?

Taxing Ceiling 'Protects Roadrunners'

Opposition MLAs demanded the government withdraw its legislation designed to limit assessment increases to 10 per cent in a single year on grounds it was going to help land speculators.

Liberal leader Pat McGeer read the House a letter from an unidentified provincial assessor in which the writer said "assessors know the main purpose of this bill is to keep taxes down for promoters who are wheeling and dealing in real estate."

Quoting from another letter sent Feb. 5 to all assessors in the province by Jack Moore, the provincial surveyor of taxes, the Liberal leader charged these men who know most about the subject are being gagged.

The letter said before accepting public speaking engagements "in light of the considerable potential for embarrassment and misunderstanding" arising from the 10 per cent ceiling proposal, all assessors must first obtain approval in writing from the government.

McGeer said the bill might, as the government claimed, be "innocent" but noting "those who know best think

Price Tag $10,887.97 For Centennial Song

The B.C. Centennial song, Go British Columbia, cost the province's taxpayers $10,887.97, the Legislature learned Monday.

In answer to written questions, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said that was the amount of money paid to Gimby Productions Limited for the song, released Nov. 9 last year. Go British Columbia was written by Bobby Gimby.

Turkish Leftists Free Airmen

ANKARA (AP) — Four United States airmen were freed unharmed Monday night after nearly six days in the hands of leftist kidnappers.

The airmen walked into their billets here just before midnight.

The kidnappers, members of the Turkish People's Liberation Army, had demanded $400,000 ransom, threatening to put the Americans in front of a firing squad if it was not paid by last Saturday morning.

U.S. Ambassador William Handley issued a statement on the release, saying: "I am happy that reason has prevailed and that a senseless tragedy has been averted. I am sure that people everywhere share the joy of the families of the four airmen at their safe return."

They are S. Sgt. Jimmie Sexton of San Angelo, Tex., and Airmen Larry Heavner of Denver, Colo.; Richard Caraszi of Stamford, Conn., and James Gholson of Alexandria, Va.

State department officials in Washington had ruled out payment of ransom. Informants said they felt yielding to ransom demands would encourage other kidnappings.

Trudeaus Arrive In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and his 22-year-old bride arrived in Ottawa Monday night to be cheered by several hundred people at the airport terminal.

The prime minister and Mrs. Trudeau flew from Vancouver, where they were married Thursday.

"I'd like you to meet my girl friend," he said to Works Minister Arthur Laing, who had been acting prime minister. Mrs. Trudeau, wearing a multi-colored coat and a fur hat, kissed Laing and then she was told by Barnett Danson, Trudeau's parliamentary secretary, that "you even made the opposition happy."

Hijack Suspect Taken to U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chapin Scott Paterson, accused of hijacking a Western Airlines plane to Vancouver Feb. 25, Monday night was turned over to FBI agents at the Canada-United States border in Blaine, Wash.

Paterson, 19, of Shingle Springs, Calif., was taken into custody by U.S. officials a little more than an hour after an immigration department deportation order was upheld by the British Columbia Supreme Court in Vancouver.

He was driven to the border by Canadian immigration authorities.

Paterson was ordered deported last Tuesday after he was accused of hijacking a Boeing 737 to Vancouver during a flight from San Francisco to Seattle.

Action was held up pending Mr. Justice Victor Dryer's decision on an application to have the youth released from custody.

In dismissing lawyer Tom Berger's application for a writ of habeas corpus, Dryer said in his decision he could find no breach of the Canadian Bill of Rights and "no failure to comply with the essentials of justice" in the case.

Chapin's lawyers had argued the deportation order was invalid because it was "made in violation of the Canadian Bill of Rights and Common Law." Berger claimed Chapin had been denied counsel at the immigration hearing because his lawyers were delayed by snow.

L. C. Hawkins, B.C. regional immigration department director, issued an order to have Paterson handed over to U.S. authorities at the border immediately following the decision.

Berger, when told the youth was already in the hands of immigration authorities and on his way to the border, said nothing further could be done here but that an "expert lawyer" had been arranged for him in the U.S.

In Seattle, the FBI said Paterson was to be arraigned in Bellingham, on a charge of air piracy.

Rioting Draws More Troops

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The British government announced Monday it is sending another 450 soldiers into Northern Ireland in an effort to stem continued rioting which has claimed at least 14 lives since Feb. 5.

Presumed Drowned in Sanich Inlet but . . .

Fisherman Turns Up Dazed

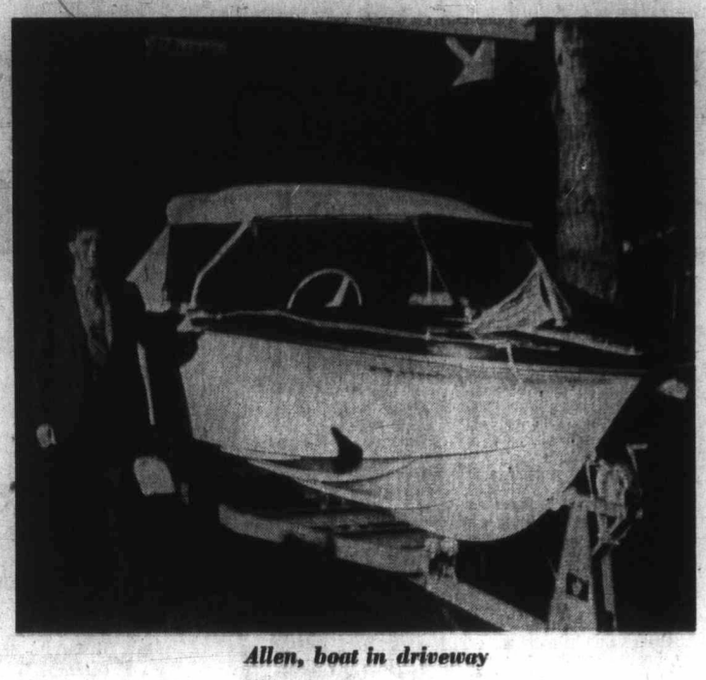

A 43-year-old View Royal man who had been presumed drowned after disappearing Sunday during a Saanich Inlet fishing trip turned up Monday afternoon at his home — dazed and hungry, but able to say reports of his death were exaggerated.

The safe return of Bruce Dubois Allen, 109 Burnett, district insulations officer for B.C. Telephone, ended a search of the inlet by the RCMP patrol boat Sidney from Ganges and other craft.

Sidney RCMP officials said Allen apparently tripped over a fishing pole some time after leaving Brentwood at 6 a.m. to go fishing alone. He fell overboard and was unable to get back to his 15-foot outboard motorboat.

So he swam to shore in the area of McCurdy Point, climbed a cliff and spent much of Sunday wandering around in bushland. Later, a grader operator gave Allen a lift to the highway.

Police said they understood Allen could not get a lift home and walked most or all of the way back along the highway. They said they were told he was dazed, exhausted, cold and hungry when he returned and went to sleep almost at once.

Allen, boat in driveway

Allen's boat was spotted at about 11 a.m. near McCurdy Point by Robert Redgrave, 1255 Judge, and Barry Jenner, 1423 Jamaica, who had seen Allen trolling at about 6:30 a.m.

As they returned from a fishing trip in Redgrave's 28-foot cabin cruiser Lazy Gal, they found the boat about 100 yards offshore with a line out from the stern. The two said there were indications Allen had run into engine trouble.

Redgrave and Jenner towed Allen's craft to Gilbert's Marina at Brentwood and got the search started.

Police said Allen, who is married and with three children, was described to them as a good swimmer and skindiver. They had no word on how far he had to swim from the spot he went overboard to the place where he landed, but indicated he did it fully clothed.

Monday night Mrs. Allen told the Colonist her husband was unavailable for comment on his adventure, because he was still sleeping.

Albertan Named To Administer Camosun College

Dr. Grant Fisher of Edmonton, a specialist in the administration of colleges, has been appointed principal of Victoria's Camosun College, due to open in September.

He will take up full-time duties in early June.

Official announcement of the appointment is expected at noon today.

Dr. Fisher will be the first principal of the Community college, the ninth to be established in the province.

He is presently an associate professor of education at the University of Alberta in Edmonton, and co-ordinator of the university's college administration project.

There were 223 applications for the job, including 23 from B.C., 78 from the United States and seven from the United Kingdom.

Dr. Fisher, who is 35, has teaching experience in junior and senior high schools, college and university, and administration experience in public school, college and university.

He was the author of a study of the community college in Canada, published in 1967 by the University of Calgary, and his doctoral thesis was an analysis of the decision-making process in a college advisory capacity.

During the last year Dr. Fisher has supervised graduate students in college administration, and planned and promoted a college leadership program.

He has assisted the Alberta Colleges Commission to develop a master plan for the province's college system, and has studied community colleges in Alberta, B.C., Washington, Oregon, Montana and Idaho.

Before moving to the University of Alberta, Dr. Fisher was at Red Deer College from June 1968 until July 1970. There he served as registrar-administrative assistant, assistant dean, acting president and vice-president.

Dr. Fisher gained his Bachelor of Science degree at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, in 1960, and his Master of Science degree at the University of Utah, Salt Lake City, the following year.

In 1969 he received his PhD at the University of Calgary.

'Stolen' Cash Recovered

A Victoria woman who told police Thursday $380 had been stolen from her home now has reported "no theft ever occurred," a police report said Monday.

The report said the woman, Mrs. Sylvia Boucher of 643 John, had reported theft of 14 $20 bills from her living room while she visited her brother in another suite at that address for half an hour. But, during the weekend, she found the money "in a bundle of dirty diapers."

Can Saanich 'Force Us to Pollute'?

"We're going to refuse to hook up to sewers when they are built," a Saanich woman told a meeting of the recently-formed Gordon Head and District Ratepayers' Association Monday night.

"We want to see whether the municipality can force us to pollute," said Mrs. Shelagh Levey of 2046 Casa Marcia Crescent.

Mrs. Levey said the septic tank on their property was in good working order and she was against the dumping of raw sewage into Finnerty Cove.

After the meeting, Mrs. Sheila Hipsey of 4258 Gordon Head Road told the Colonist that "we will also refuse to hook up to sewers for the same reason."

Sewers are being planned for the area under a referendum passed in 1968 which provided for work to be completed within five years.

The two women were among about 75 persons who attended the meeting at the Fairburn elementary school.

Pro-tem chairman Wallace Panter told the meeting that the association had been registered under the Societies Act.

He said its object was to further the interests of the ratepayers of the area, to maintain the amenities and to ensure that development in the area takes place to the highest standard possible.

He outlined the boundaries of the area as Haro Strait on the north, McKenzie Avenue on the south, Cedar Hill Road on the west and Finnerty-Henderson on the east.

He said election of officers would be delayed for 30 days to give people time to pay their dues of $2 each at the meeting and thus be eligible to vote after a month.

Lorne Ross of the pro-tem board of directors said the association had to "put an end to helter-skelter, piecemeal planning."

He said, on the other hand, that it would be wrong to assume that Saanich doesn't have a plan for the area.

"The municipality does have a plan," he said, "but it is not a fixed one.

"You can't go to public hearing on an emotional basis," he added. "You have to know why you don't want certain zoning and you have to be able to say why."

He suggested that members plan their nights.

"The public hearings are a lot of fun to go to," he said. "They're better than sitting by that old TV set. And they're more fun if you have something to say and know what you're talking about.

"Go over to the municipal hall and bug them," he continued. "Ask to see their plan for your area. They've got to show it to you. They work for us."

Chief to Speak

Victoria Fire Chief Eric Simmons will speak at the regular noon meeting of the Rotary Club of Victoria on March 11 on fire prevention in the city.

Letters Pouring Into Oak Bay

Letters received by Oak Bay council in 1971 had already passed the 200 mark by Monday's regular meeting.

A municipal official observed that last year, correspondence hadn't reached that volume until August. Most of the correspondence to date this year has dealt with the proposed Royal Victoria Yacht Club breakwater.

Joint Negotiations Move Turned Down by Saanich

"Leap-frogging and playing one against the other" will be the result of a decision by Saanich to reject a proposal for joint negotiations of civic employee union contracts, Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock said Monday.

"I think it's most unfortunate and I'm very disappointed that Saanich has seen fit to turn down our offer," Haddock said.

Meanwhile, Oak Bay council Monday night empowered Mayor Frances Elford to formally conduct negotiations at the intermunicipal committee level with a view to having the four core municipalities certified as a single bargaining agent.

Ald. Brian Smith said the municipalities should pool their resources and hire professional negotiators to deal with labor unions.

Word from Saanich that the municipality isn't interested in joint negotiations as suggested by Victoria council came in a letter to the city Monday morning.

"Saanich municipal council is of the opinion that there are certain advantages to negotiating separately at present, and therefore does not wish to participate in joint negotiations," the letter stated.

Haddock said he admits there are some disadvantages to joint negotiations, but they "are by far outnumbered by the advantages."

Haddock also rejected criticism by Capital Regional Board chairman Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis that Victoria is taking a parochial attitude to regional development.

"We co-operate with the region. I don't know why we should come under fire from Mayor Curtis," he said.

Curtis criticized Victoria for not sending a representative on a day-long tour of district hospitals Saturday. Officials from all other administrations in the area went on the trip which included inspections of Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney and Lady Minto Hospital on Salt Sprint Island.

"I've been in all these hospitals recently. I don't see how my presence or that of any of our aldermen could possibly have been helpful to Salt Spring residents," Haddock said.

Pensioners Urged To Join Protesters

The Victoria Old Age Pensioners Association No. 1 is appealing to all members to take part in a demonstration Wednesday at the B.C. legislative buildings.

The demonstration has been planned by the Old Age Pensioners Association of B.C. and more than 1,000 senior citizens are expected to arrive by bus from Vancouver.

They are to meet at the buildings at 1:30 p.m. to publicize their financial problems.

Grace Sherwood, president of the Victoria branch, said in an interview Monday "every member should attend that demonstration."

The event couldn't be publicized at the Victoria branch because it was planned after the last monthly meeting, she said.

"The more people we have at this demonstration, the better. We have about 400 members in Victoria and I hope that every one of them will be there."

Slash Fires Surround Hydro Site

B.C. Hydro's clearing crews Monday surrounded Mr. and Mrs. Pat Codyre with 12 slash fires after the Codyres' sewage and water systems had been broken by heavy equipment.

Hydro told Codyre almost one year ago — Friday, March 13, 1970 — that his home and four acres at 1890 Munn Road, Saanich, would be expropriated for a high-voltage line that will run from the new Pike Lake Substation to downtown Victoria.

However, the Codyres have refused to move for two reasons: they say Hydro instead should have used the vacant land behind their property and even if that was not the crown corporation's choice, it should provide the Codyres with a duplicate of the home and site that they owned.

Codyre has received a cheque for $22,500 from Hydro but says he needs at least $34,000 to buy a similar home and four acres elsewhere in Saanich.

He said the latest fuss started between 6:30 and 7 a.m. Monday, when the first of four bulldozers arrived and started piling the trees that had been cut two weeks ago.

"I just had one eye open," he said. "Since then I have been going like a hat out of hell."

Among about 30 visitors he had Monday was Ald. Leslie Passmore of Saanich, who told the Codyres that the municipal lawyer told Saanich council that nothing could be done for the four families that Hydro wanted to move from Munn Road.

Codyre telephoned Passmore to complain about the smoke after he tried to reach Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis.

"I got as far as the mayor's secretary. My name must be taboo," said Codyre.

In any case, said Codyre, the combination of bulldozers, visitors and the fires — "it's like Vietnam" — made his wife sick and she went to bed early.

He said the underground plastic water pipe was broken last week by heavy equipment. After the pipe from the 122-foot well broke, the Codyre's automatic water pump failed.

In addition, a bulldozer broke a tile septic tank, and it is now exposed.

Saturday Work

School Staffs Accept Pact

An agreement reached Sunday between janitors, tradesmen and grounds staff and the Greater Victoria school board will give the workers an increase of 8 per cent this year and 7½ per cent in 1972.

The threat of a strike was averted Sunday when the workmen, members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees voted 66 per cent in favor of the new contract.

On Monday the Greater Victoria school board finance and legal committee (a committee which comprises all members of the board) voted to recommend acceptance of the agreement to the board.

The agreement will, in effect, give the union members an increase of 25 cents an hour in 1971 and a similar boost in 1972.

An important aspect of the agreement is that the union has agreed to permit some janitors to work on a Tuesday to Saturday schedule.

This paves the way for the opening and use of schools for community use on weekends — a move which has been strongly urged by civic groups.

The board has agreed to pay janitors on an eight-hour basis on Saturdays for seven hours work.

The board has also agreed to pay janitresses at the same rate as janitors for the same type of work.

Vehicle Noise Checked

Noise-level meters are already in use in provincial motor vehicle inspection stations, according to a letter sent by Ray Hadfield, superintendent of Motor Vehicles, to Oak Bay municipal council.

"At this point, it is principally for the purpose of gathering information," he said in the letter.

"I might say that we have found the use of the noise level meter has been very helpful to our station management in convincing the owners of noisy vehicles that they needed to make alterations."

Council had sent Hadfield a copy of a letter from a resident complaining about noise from motor vehicles and enclosing a copy of a bylaw designed to prevent a problem.
